Wilson Denies 'Red Coddling'

Army Doctor, Accused Red, Defies Probe

Contempt Citation Against Pfc. Belsky Will Be Considered

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) produced Pfc. Marvin S. Belsky at a public hearing today as another alleged "member of the Communist conspiracy" serving in the Army.

Called before McCarthy's Senate Investigations subcommittee, Belsky, a 25-year-old doctor, refused to state whether he is a Communist. He invoked the Fifth Amendment, which provides that witnesses cannot be compelled to incriminate themselves.

The subcommittee will meet privately tomorrow to decide whether Belsky should be cited for contempt of Congress for declining to answer a string of questions about Red activities.

Balks At Questions

Belsky testified he doesn't believe in "force or violence" to overthrow the American government, but he refused to say whether he had recruited three persons for the Communist party since being stationed at the Army's Murphy General Hospital at Waltham, Mass.

He also refused to answer a question about whether he had ever been asked by the Communist party to get information from patients and whether he had ever passed classified Army material to other persons.

McCarthy told Belsky "the record shows you were denied a commission because you were a Communist." Most doctors serving in the Army are commissioned officers.

Hospital Serves Radar Project

The witness estimated that he sometimes treated 20 to 30 patients a day in the outpatient department at the hospital, most of them civilian dependents of Army personnel. He answered "no" when asked if he ever got any information from his patients that he passed on to a member of the Communist party.

McCarthy said he was especially interested in Belsky because he is a doctor at a hospital that serves "Project Lincoln, the top-most secret radar project we have in this country." Project Lincoln is the code name for a radar research project at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

France Debates Indochina War

PARIS, March 4 (AP) — Fully aware that talk can bring no change in the situation, the French National Assembly plunges into debate tomorrow on the Indochinese War.

The Assembly's sentiment for getting the war over as soon as possible is well known. But the government has found no way to end the hostilities, now in their eighth year.

The issue arose on a question submitted by Socialist Daniel Mayer asking what followup the government intends to give to the suggestion by Premier Nehru of India for a cease-fire pending the Geneva conference on Asiatic problems.

Premier Joseph Laniel and Defense Minister Rene Pleven, who has just completed an inspection trip in Indochina, will present the government view.

Capital Security Steps Considered

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell disclosed today a high level study is under way in an effort to guard against further violent outbreaks by Puerto Rican Nationalists.

He was tight-lipped, however, on just what action may be taken in the aftermath of Monday's attack, in which four fanatics opened fire from a House gallery and wounded five conrgessmen.

In reply to questions at a news conference, Brownell twice described the situation as "critical." But he later reverted to the subject to explain that he meant the event of last Monday was "a critical happening."

Dulles Urges Hemispheric Fight Against Communist Intervention

NOMINEE—J. Ernest Wilkins (above), Chicago negro attorney, poses in Washington yesterday after being nominated by President Eisenhower to be assistant secretary of labor. (AP Wirephoto)

President Names Negro Assistant Labor Secretary

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower today nominated J. Ernest Wilkins, Chicago Negro attorney, as assistant secretary of labor in charge of international affairs, succeeding Spencer Miller Jr.

Wilkins, 60, a Republican, told a news conference he considered his appointment not so much a personal honor but one "to the race I represent."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said: "This is the first time, so far as we know, that a Negro has been appointed to a Cabinet or sub-Cabinet post."

Appointment Not A "First"

However, Justice Department records show that a Massachusetts Negro, William H. Lewis, once held a comparable position when he served as an assistant attorney general in 1911-13 under President William Howard Taft.

"I consider my appointment an eloquent answer to those who say the American government is not fair to all of its citizens," said Wilkins, who will represent this country at international labor conferences.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell praised Wilkins' recent work as vice chairman of the Government Contracts Compliance Committee, established by Eisenhower to enforce nondiscrimination rules in hiring workers on government projects.

Miller Was Fired

Mitchell, at the same time, disclosed that Miller, whom Wilkins is replacing, had been fired. Mitchell said he requested Miller's resignation. When asked why, Mitchell replied he merely exercised a right to select his own assistants.

Miller was named assistant secretary when former Secretary Martin P. Durkin headed the department. It was reliably reported that Miller, once associated with the AFL and more recently a New Jersey state highway commissioner, had annoyed the administration by several speeches abroad.

Secretary Asks Nations Unite In Warning Kremlin

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 4 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles today called on the nations of the Americas to unite in a "hands off" warning to Moscow against Communist infiltration of this hemisphere.

Dulles made the plea before the 10th Inter-American Conference in which 20 Western Hemisphere nations are taking part. In his 3,000-word major policy speech, the U. S. diplomat also spelled out Washington's economic policy toward Latin America. He said private capital—both foreign and domestic should play a major role in economic development.

Dulles called on his colleagues to consider Communist intervention as dangerous as an enemy battleship and indicated that strong Red infiltration in any Western Hemisphere country should prompt emergency measures by its neighbors.

Americas Not Immune

Dulles told the delegates:

"We here in the Americas are not immune from that threat of Soviet communism. There is not a single country in this hemisphere which has not been penetrated by the apparatus of international communism acting under orders from Moscow.

"Because our position has not been made clear, the danger mounts. I believe that it is time to make it clear with finality that we see alien despotism is hostile to our ideals, that we unitedly deny it the right to prey upon our hemisphere, and that if it does not heed our warning and keep away, we shall deal with it as a situation that might endanger the peace of America."

Communism Denounced

Dulles, recently returned from verbal duels with Russia's V. M. Molotov at the Berlin Big Four parley, said Soviet communism "stands for the liquidation of the values upon which our fraternal association" in America is based.

"It denies the very existence of justice and a moral law. It believes that peace is not founded on righteousness but on power. It believes . . . that law is the means whereby those in power liquidate their enemies."

The death of Stalin, Dulles asserted, "has brought no basic change in Soviet policy. It remains expansive, not merely out of greed, but because it fears freedom. That was the most distressing aspect of the Berlin conference."

Says Charge Against Army Is 'Tommyrot'

McCarthy Replies 'Individuals' Have Aided Communists

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson entered the row over Senator McCarthy's methods today by declaring: "The idea that the Army is coddling Communists is just damn tommyrot."

McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, rapped back that "certain individuals" in the Army have been "protecting, promoting, covering up and honorably discharging known Communists."

Swinging into the fray which has blown up a major political storm, Wilson also declared that "too much footsie" has been played with the Communists under past administrations.

The defense chief said that during World War II, when he was president of General Motors, "I wanted to throw some Communists out of the plant, but the Pentagon wanted to make peace."

Didn't Put Reds Back

Wilson declined to say who in the Pentagon sought to dissuade him from ousting the Reds.

"I kicked them out and the government was trying to make me put them back."

Asked if he did put them back, Wilson replied, "No."

On Capitol Hill, McCarthy got word of Wilson's "tommyrot" statement just as he had finished giving newsmen a statement saying that the whole uproar amounted only to "a good healthy fight that cleared the air."

He predicted it would not result in a lasting split in the GOP.

McCarthy's first comment, after reading Wilson's statement, was:

"I'm through with statements on this matter."

Minutes later, he declared:

"No one has ever claimed that the Army as such is coddling Communists.

However, it has been established beyond any possibility of a doubt, by sworn testimony, that certain individuals in the Army have been protecting, promoting, covering up and honorably discharging known Communists.

Telegrams Praise Ike

"I'm sure Charlie Wilson will not disagree with that," he added.

Still later McCarthy telephoned reporters and dictated this addition to his comment:

"I certainly hope that Charlie Wilson and I don't have to waste time arguing about these fifth amendment Communists."

McCarthy said he referred to Maj. Irving Peress, now a New York dentist, whose honorable discharge from the Army has been a focal point in the current hubbub, and several other cases.

The defense secretary spoke out shortly after the White House reported that hundreds of telegrams, running 9-1 in praise of President Eisenhower, were pouring in from all parts of the country in reaction to the President's call for "fair play" in congressional investigations.

Demos Will Try To KO Excise Tax On Movie Tickets

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Democrats announced today they will fight on the House floor to knock out excise taxes on movie or other admission tickets costing 50 cents or less.

Rep. McCormack (Mass), assistant Democratic leader, said Democrats also would put up a floor fight to fix a one-year limit on present excise rates on liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, gasoline, trucks and buses and beer and wine.

Bill Sent To Floor

McCormack announced Democratic floor strategy as Republican leaders said they would bring up next Wednesday a two-edged excise tax bill approved almost unanimously yesterday and today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

GOP Leader Halleck of Indiana predicted the bill would pass overwhelmingly despite opposition by the Eisenhower administration to a broad range of excise tax cuts provided in the bill.

The measure by Ways and Means Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) would:

10 Per Cent "Ceiling"

1. Slice to 10 per cent—effective April 1—all excise or sales taxes now above that figure, except for liquor and tobacco. This would bring cuts totaling about 912 million dollars a year on admissions, telephone bills, passenger fares, cosmetics, jewelry, furs, wallets, women's handbags, luggage, sportpens, mechanical pencils, lighters, light bulbs, club dues and other items. These items are now taxed at 15 to 25 per cent, mostly at 20 per cent.

2. Cancel about $1,070,000,000 in excise tax reductions, scheduled April 1 under present law, on liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, gasoline, trucks and buses, beer and wine. The bill would extend present rates on these items indefinitely.

Small Girl Reported Missing In Avalanche

BRIANCON, France, March 4 (AP) — A small girl was reported missing and another child injured today when an avalanche swept over a group of 10 children near the village of Villeneuve le Bez, 10 miles from here in the high Alps of southeastern France.

Hall Denies Row Has Split GOP

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today the squabble over Sen. Joseph McCarthy's activities hasn't caused any rift in the Republican party.

All it amounted to, he said, was a family disagreement.

Although Hall did not specifically mention McCarthy, nor the sharp criticism President Eisenhower aimed at "disregard of fair play" in congressional probes, Hall clearly meant that situation when he said:

"Our opposition, naturally, has made much of the party's 'family differences' during the past week or so. They would have you believe we Republicans have split over problems really just concerning personalities.

"That's nonsense, of course.

"On many issues there are degrees of opinion, emphasis and approach. In the tested American way, that's proper. We are not a divided party."

The GOP chairman, addressing about 200 persons at a luncheon of the National Republican Club here, said his party was "in earnest accord" in "a vital matter like combatting the endless dangers of communism."

Bookseller Quits, Convinecd 'Age Of The Boob Is Upon Us'

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP) — Siegfried Weisberger, convinced that "the age of the boob is upon us," is closing his internationally known Peabody Bookshop still stocked with 100,000 volumes nobody wants to read.

"I predict very dark days for America," said the old friend of H. L. Mencken.

"Everyone in the cities used to look up to the doctor, the lawyer, the professor. They were idols," he continued.

"Today—they all look up to the businessman."

He gestures with ferocious eloquence and brushes a bit of cigar ash from his tweed vest.

This is the kind of talk one used to hear in this basement beer stube from Mencken, the writer . . . the musician . . . the scholar . . . the critic of the Twenties.

But now Siegfried, his shaggy mustache bristling and his bright blue eyes seeming to spark, is heading for the country, a farm in New Windsor, Md.

"The people don't want books and ideals and culture. They only want dollars. They sold 15,000 pairs of shoes last year, and this year they want to sell 750,000 pairs—progress," he snorts.

Siegfried believes in the Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights, H. L. Mencken, German music and philosophy.

He despises all forms of censorship and official meddling. He was once fined for serving beer to a 20-year-old Yale man, horrendous enough in Siegfried's eyes, but the final profanation was this—the detectives checking his place didn't even remove their hats.

Ceiling Falls In On Two Bookies

HAMILTON, Ont., March 4 (AP)—The ceiling fell in on two Hamilton residents and their alleged betmaking business.

A provincial police gambling squad from Toronto entered a house here Tuesday night when no one was home and settled themselves in the attic to wait.

Yesterday morning the officers stirred and crashed through the ceiling amid clouds of soot from falling stove pipes.

Today Joseph Nelligan, 50, and Laura Colette, 56, appeared in court on bookmaking charges and were remanded a week.

Ohio Counts 19 Dead In Wake Of Blizzard

[By The Associated Press]

A snowstorm that reached blizzard proportions in some places moved out of the eastern half of the country Thursday and into Canada.

Behind the storm, Ohio counted at least 19 dead in the five days snow pounded down on communities around Lake Erie. In Cleveland, four inches of snow Thursday brought the total on the ground to 12 inches. Sixteen inches fell on Cleveland last weekend.

Every school in Cleveland was closed because of the storm. Transportation was snarled, industry disrupted and hundreds of cars stalled by huge drifts piled up by strong winds.

Above Ohio, the storm lashed into Upper New York State. Lake Erie flooded over highways and into some 100 homes. Power lines fell and windows broke under powerful gusts of wind.

Composer Dies

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Reginald Moxon Armitage, 55, composer of the hit song, Lambeth Walk, under the name of Noel Gay, died today at his London home.

Ex-GOP Official Made Half Million On Racing Stock

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP) — J. Russel Sprague testified today he made more than half a million dollars on harness racing stock when he was a Republican national committeeman.

His daughter, he added, made $150,000 for herself on a separate but similar deal.

But Sprague said he literally threw away millions when political pressure induced him to drop out of the fabulous harness race stock market for a time.

Some harness stocks have paid off as much as 18,000 per cent in New York's amazing postwar racing boom.

Holdings Stirred Up Storm

Sprague testified before a special Moreland Act Commission probing the state's scandal-ridden 250 million dollar a year harness race industry.

He quit as GOP national committeeman last Nov. 13 after his stock holdings stirred up a political storm that threatened the future of the Republican party in New York.

Sprague was a right-hand man to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and one of the most powerful Republicans in the land when Dewey headed the party during his vain bids for the presidency.

New coals of fire were heaped on the GOP state administration during the day when the names of two of the most powerful Republican legislators in Albany were brought into the testimony.

Pulled Strings In Vain

They were Oswald D. Heck, Republican speaker of the State Assembly since 1937, and Arthur H. Wicks, Senate majority leader and acting lieutenant governor until forced to resign last year.

The former harness racing secretary, Frank Wiswall testified the two politicians pulled strings in vain to influence the selection of harness track officials.

Heck is a valuable Dewey asset in the Legislature. So was Wicks until he and the governor broke last year over Wicks's visits to an imprisoned labor racketeer.

College Enrollment Seen Doubled In 1970

CHICAGO, March 4 (AP)—Colleges were advised today to prepare for twice as many students in 1970.

The population increase in the 1940's and 1950's made this inevitable, educators from more than 400 colleges and universities, attending the ninth National Conference on Higher Education were told today.

The enrollment may jump from the current 2¼ million to 5½ million, according to Francis H. Horn, president of Pratt Institute, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Yugoslav Budget Set

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 4 (AP) — President-Marshal Tito's Communist government will present to Parliament tomorrow a $866,670,000 federal budget. More than two-thirds of it is earmarked for defense.

Dulles Says High Coffee Prices Due To Natural Causes

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 4 Secretary of State Dulles said today the high price of coffee back home is "primarily due to natural causes beyond human control." He told the Inter-American Conference:

"Consumers of the United States do not like it when prices go up, just as you do not like it when prices of your exported commodities go down. We accept it that in a free system there are bound to be fluctuations in both directions and I can assure you that there is no plan to deal arbitrarily with the problem of prices by imposing some artificial ceiling."

Kidnap-Slayer Doomed By Jury

LOS ANGELES, March 4 (AP)—Anthony J. Zilbauer was convicted today of the murder of a young insurance adjuster and the kidnap-robbery of a housewife.

The Superior Court jury made no recommendation for leniency in the murder conviction, which means a mandatory death penalty. On the kidnap charge it recommended life imprisonment without possibility of parole.

Zilbauer was charged with the murder of Andrew Kmiec and the kidnap-robbery of Mrs. Belle Brooks. Sentencing was set for next Monday morning.

The jurors took the case under submission at 11:55 a.m. today after seven days of testimony. The verdict was returned at 7:58 p.m.

Zilbauer, 52-year-old ex-convict, appeared in court with a swollen upper lip, cut by flying glass when he attacked a television newsreel cameraman in court yesterday and broke the camera's spotlight.

Norris Does It Again

NORRIS, Tenn., March 4 (AP)—Norris residents have done it again!

City officials reported today that for the fifth straight year property tax collections have been 100 per cent. The total for 1953 amounted to $19,203.57.

Ike's Farm Plan Will Drop Price Props, Foes Say

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Senators opposing President Eisenhower's flexible farm program contended today it would drop price supports next year to the minimum 75 per cent of parity.

But True D. Morse, under secretary of agriculture, said the level would depend on such undetermined factors as the size of this year's crop, export sales and other things. In addition, he said, Secretary Benson still would have discretionary authority to fix a higher figure.

The price of wheat was the center of discussion as the Senate Agriculture Committee opened five weeks of hearings on the President's suggestions. Before it was a bill by Chairman Aiken (R-Vt) to carry out a part of the program. Other measures will be required later to deal with cotton, corn, and the use of farm lands removed from production of crops which are restricted.

Six basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice, peanuts and tobacco—are supported by present law at 90 per cent of parity—a figure designed by law to give farmers a fair return for their crops. Unless Congress acts, the mandatory high supports will expire at the end of this year, and shift to flexible levels provided in the 1949 farm law.

Faced with sharply increasing farm surpluses for which the government must pay, Eisenhower suggested a change to supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. Support prices would be high in times of shortage to encourage production, and low when crops are plentiful.

To ease the impact of the change, he suggested that up to 2½ billion dollars worth of crops the government now holds be "frozen" and ignored in figuring support levels.

Morse said today the "frozen" stocks would be counted along with other supplies, however, in fixing marketing quotas. He conceded that unless there is a severe crop failure in 1954, it probably would be necessary to put production controls on wheat, cotton and corn next year. Wheat and cotton already are under such controls, approved by the farmers last year.

Two Transplanted Corneas Give Woman Normal Sight

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Two corneas from eyes of two Army men have been successfully transplanted, in a rare operation, to restore virtually normal sight to a woman whose vision was a blur from childhood.

Mrs. Samuel B. Jones, 40, of Augusta, Ga., one of the few persons ever to have such an operation on both eyes, said today that her vision had been so bad "that I could pass my own mother on the street and wouldn't recognize her."

But now, she said, she can discern people's features clearly and "see trees and leaves for what they are rather than just a blur of green."

She owes it all, she said, to the skill of Walter Reed Army Hospital surgeons, and to the eye corneas "donated" by an Air Force colonel and an Army master sergeant—each of whom had one otherwise healthy eye removed because of a tumor behind it.

The cornea is the normally-transparent thin covering over the iris and pupil of the eye. Sometimes people can become partially or completely blind in that eye if the cornea becomes "clouded" from disease or injury.

In Mrs. Jones' case, both eyes were affected by a congenital condition called "keratoconus" in which the normally nearly-flat cornea became cone-shaped.

Wife of an Army chaplain now stationed in Munich, Germany—whom she hasn't seen since the two succcssive operations on her eyes last July and last January—Mrs. Jones is a sister of Ray Graves, assistant football coach at Georgia Tech.

McLeod Upheld By House Vote

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — The House today beat down 84-61 a Democratic effort to force State Department Security Officer Scott McLeod to abide by the no-politics rules of the Hatch Act.

The party line vote followed a brief but heated debate in which Rep. Rabaut (D-Mich), sponsor of the move, told the House:

"Politics is not and should not be the province of these officers to whom we have entrusted the guardianship of the national security."

Rep. Coudert (R-NY) replied that Rabaut was making "a partisan attempt" to discredit the State Department.

Rabaut said it was unnecessary to argue that it would be improper for FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover or Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "to go charging about the country making political speeches."

McLeod recently took leave of absence to make five Lincoln's Birthday speeches under the auspices of the Republican National Committee. The State Department ruled he was not subject to the Hatch Act, which bars political activity for most federal employes. Rabaut said Civil Service Commissioner George M. Moore had ruled otherwise.

The defense secretary spoke out shortly after the White House reported that hundreds of telegrams, running 9-1 in praise of President Eisenhower, were pouring in from all parts of the country in reaction to the President's call for "fair play" in congressional investigations.

Demos Will Try To KO Excise Tax On Movie Tickets

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Democrats announced today they will fight on the House floor to knock out excise taxes on movie or other admission tickets costing 50 cents or less.

Rep. McCormack (Mass), assistant Democratic leader, said Democrats also would put up a floor fight to fix a one-year limit on present excise rates on liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, gasoline, trucks and buses and beer and wine.

Bill Sent To Floor

McCormack announced Democratic floor strategy as Republican leaders said they would bring up next Wednesday a two-edged excise tax bill approved almost unanimously yesterday and today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

GOP Leader Halleck of Indiana predicted the bill would pass overwhelmingly despite opposition by the Eisenhower administration to a broad range of excise tax cuts provided in the bill.

The measure by Ways and Means Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) would:

10 Per Cent "Ceiling"

1. Slice to 10 per cent—effective April 1—all excise or sales taxes now above that figure, except for liquor and tobacco. This would bring cuts totaling about 912 million dollars a year on admissions, telephone bills, passenger fares, cosmetics, jewelry, furs, wallets, women's handbags, luggage, sportpens, mechanical pencils, lighters, light bulbs, club dues and other items. These items are now taxed at 15 to 25 per cent, mostly at 20 per cent.

2. Cancel about $1,070,000,000 in excise tax reductions, scheduled April 1 under present law, on liquor, cigarettes, automobiles, gasoline, trucks and buses, beer and wine. The bill would extend present rates on these items indefinitely.

Small Girl Reported Missing In Avalanche

BRIANCON, France, March 4 (AP) — A small girl was reported missing and another child injured today when an avalanche swept over a group of 10 children near the village of Villeneuve le Bez, 10 miles from here in the high Alps of southeastern France.

Hall Denies Row Has Split GOP

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today the squabble over Sen. Joseph McCarthy's activities hasn't caused any rift in the Republican party.

All it amounted to, he said, was a family disagreement.

Although Hall did not specifically mention McCarthy, nor the sharp criticism President Eisenhower aimed at "disregard of fair play" in congressional probes, Hall clearly meant that situation when he said:

"Our opposition, naturally, has made much of the party's 'family differences' during the past week or so. They would have you believe we Republicans have split over problems really just concerning personalities.

"That's nonsense, of course.

"On many issues there are degrees of opinion, emphasis and approach. In the tested American way, that's proper. We are not a divided party."

The GOP chairman, addressing about 200 persons at a luncheon of the National Republican Club here, said his party was "in earnest accord" in "a vital matter like combatting the endless dangers of communism."

Ceiling Falls In On Two Bookies

HAMILTON, Ont., March 4 (AP)—The ceiling fell in on two Hamilton residents and their alleged betmaking business.

A provincial police gambling squad from Toronto entered a house here Tuesday night when no one was home and settled themselves in the attic to wait.

Yesterday morning the officers stirred and crashed through the ceiling amid clouds of soot from falling stove pipes.

Today Joseph Nelligan, 50, and Laura Colette, 56, appeared in court on bookmaking charges and were remanded a week.

Ohio Counts 19 Dead In Wake Of Blizzard

[By The Associated Press]

A snowstorm that reached blizzard proportions in some places moved out of the eastern half of the country Thursday and into Canada.

Behind the storm, Ohio counted at least 19 dead in the five days snow pounded down on communities around Lake Erie. In Cleveland, four inches of snow Thursday brought the total on the ground to 12 inches. Sixteen inches fell on Cleveland last weekend.

Every school in Cleveland was closed because of the storm. Transportation was snarled, industry disrupted and hundreds of cars stalled by huge drifts piled up by strong winds.

Above Ohio, the storm lashed into Upper New York State. Lake Erie flooded over highways and into some 100 homes. Power lines fell and windows broke under powerful gusts of wind.

Composer Dies

LONDON, March 4 (AP)—Reginald Moxon Armitage, 55, composer of the hit song, Lambeth Walk, under the name of Noel Gay, died today at his London home.

Ex-GOP Official Made Half Million On Racing Stock

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP) — J. Russel Sprague testified today he made more than half a million dollars on harness racing stock when he was a Republican national committeeman.

His daughter, he added, made $150,000 for herself on a separate but similar deal.

But Sprague said he literally threw away millions when political pressure induced him to drop out of the fabulous harness race stock market for a time.

Some harness stocks have paid off as much as 18,000 per cent in New York's amazing postwar racing boom.

Holdings Stirred Up Storm

Sprague testified before a special Moreland Act Commission probing the state's scandal-ridden 250 million dollar a year harness race industry.

He quit as GOP national committeeman last Nov. 13 after his stock holdings stirred up a political storm that threatened the future of the Republican party in New York.

Sprague was a right-hand man to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and one of the most powerful Republicans in the land when Dewey headed the party during his vain bids for the presidency.

New coals of fire were heaped on the GOP state administration during the day when the names of two of the most powerful Republican legislators in Albany were brought into the testimony.

Pulled Strings In Vain

They were Oswald D. Heck, Republican speaker of the State Assembly since 1937, and Arthur H. Wicks, Senate majority leader and acting lieutenant governor until forced to resign last year.

The former harness racing secretary, Frank Wiswall testified the two politicians pulled strings in vain to influence the selection of harness track officials.

Heck is a valuable Dewey asset in the Legislature. So was Wicks until he and the governor broke last year over Wicks's visits to an imprisoned labor racketeer.

College Enrollment Seen Doubled In 1970

CHICAGO, March 4 (AP)—Colleges were advised today to prepare for twice as many students in 1970.

The population increase in the 1940's and 1950's made this inevitable, educators from more than 400 colleges and universities, attending the ninth National Conference on Higher Education were told today.

The enrollment may jump from the current 2¼ million to 5½ million, according to Francis H. Horn, president of Pratt Institute, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Yugoslav Budget Set

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 4 (AP) — President-Marshal Tito's Communist government will present to Parliament tomorrow a $866,670,000 federal budget. More than two-thirds of it is earmarked for defense.

Dulles Says High Coffee Prices Due To Natural Causes

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 4 Secretary of State Dulles said today the high price of coffee back home is "primarily due to natural causes beyond human control." He told the Inter-American Conference:

"Consumers of the United States do not like it when prices go up, just as you do not like it when prices of your exported commodities go down. We accept it that in a free system there are bound to be fluctuations in both directions and I can assure you that there is no plan to deal arbitarily with the problem of prices by imposing some artificial ceiling."

Kidnap-Slayer Doomed By Jury

LOS ANGELES, March 4 (AP)—Anthony J. Zilbauer was convicted today of the murder of a young insurance adjuster and the kidnap-robbery of a housewife.

The Superior Court jury made no recommendation for leniency in the murder conviction, which means a mandatory death penalty. On the kidnap charge it recommended life imprisonment without possibility of parole.

Zilbauer was charged with the murder of Andrew Kmiec and the kidnap-robbery of Mrs. Belle Brooks. Sentencing was set for next Monday morning.

The jurors took the case under submission at 11:55 a.m. today after seven days of testimony. The verdict was returned at 7:58 p.m.

Zilbauer, 52-year-old ex-convict, appeared in court with a swollen upper lip, cut by flying glass when he attacked a television newsreel cameraman in court yesterday and broke the camera's spotlight.

Norris Does It Again

NORRIS, Tenn., March 4 (AP)—Norris residents have done it again!

City officials reported today that for the fifth straight year property tax collections have been 100 per cent. The total for 1953 amounted to $19,203.57.

Ike's Farm Plan Will Drop Price Props, Foes Say

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Senators opposing President Eisenhower's flexible farm program contended today it would drop price supports next year to the minimum 75 per cent of parity.

But True D. Morse, under secretary of agriculture, said the level would depend on such undetermined factors as the size of this year's crop, export sales and other things. In addition, he said, Secretary Benson still would have discretionary authority to fix a higher figure.

The price of wheat was the center of discussion as the Senate Agriculture Committee opened five weeks of hearings on the President's suggestions. Before it was a bill by Chairman Aiken (R-Vt) to carry out a part of the program. Other measures will be required later to deal with cotton, corn, and the use of farm lands removed from production of crops which are restricted.

Six basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, rice, peanuts and tobacco—are supported by present law at 90 per cent of parity—a figure designed by law to give farmers a fair return for their crops. Unless Congress acts, the mandatory high supports will expire at the end of this year, and shift to flexible levels provided in the 1949 farm law.

Faced with sharply increasing farm surpluses for which the government must pay, Eisenhower suggested a change to supports ranging from 75 to 90 per cent of parity. Support prices would be high in times of shortage to encourage production, and low when crops are plentiful.

To ease the impact of the change, he suggested that up to 2½ billion dollars worth of crops the government now holds be "frozen" and ignored in figuring support levels.

Morse said today the "frozen" stocks would be counted along with other supplies, however, in fixing marketing quotas. He conceded that unless there is a severe crop failure in 1954, it probably would be necessary to put production controls on wheat, cotton and corn next year. Wheat and cotton already are under such controls, approved by the farmers last year.

McLeod Upheld By House Vote

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — The House today beat down 84-61 a Democratic effort to force State Department Security Officer Scott McLeod to abide by the no-politics rules of the Hatch Act.

The party line vote followed a brief but heated debate in which Rep. Rabaut (D-Mich), sponsor of the move, told the House:

"Politics is not and should not be the province of these officers to whom we have entrusted the guardianship of the national security."

Rep. Coudert (R-NY) replied that Rabaut was making "a partisan attempt" to discredit the State Department.

Rabaut said it was unnecessary to argue that it would be improper for FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover or Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "to go charging about the country making political speeches."

McLeod recently took leave of absence to make five Lincoln's Birthday speeches under the auspices of the Republican National Committee. The State Department ruled he was not subject to the Hatch Act, which bars political activity for most federal employes. Rabaut said Civil Service Commissioner George M. Moore had ruled otherwise.

Bookseller Quits, Convinecd 'Age Of The Boob Is Upon Us'

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP) — Siegfried Weisberger, convinced that "the age of the boob is upon us," is closing his internationally known Peabody Bookshop still stocked with 100,000 volumes nobody wants to read.

"I predict very dark days for America," said the old friend of H. L. Mencken.

"Everyone in the cities used to look up to the doctor, the lawyer, the professor. They were idols," he continued.

"Today—they all look up to the businessman."

He gestures with ferocious eloquence and brushes a bit of cigar ash from his tweed vest.

This is the kind of talk one used to hear in this basement beer stube from Mencken, the writer . . . the musician . . . the scholar . . . the critic of the Twenties.

But now Siegfried, his shaggy mustache bristling and his bright blue eyes seeming to spark, is heading for the country, a farm in New Windsor, Md.

"The people don't want books and ideals and culture. They only want dollars. They sold 15,000 pairs of shoes last year, and this year they want to sell 750,000 pairs—progress," he snorts.

Siegfried believes in the Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights, H. L. Mencken, German music and philosophy.

He despises all forms of censorship and official meddling. He was once fined for serving beer to a 20-year-old Yale man, horrendous enough in Siegfried's eyes, but the final profanation was this—the detectives checking his place didn't even remove their hats.

Two Transplanted Corneas Give Woman Normal Sight

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Two corneas from eyes of two Army men have been successfully transplanted, in a rare operation, to restore virtually normal sight to a woman whose vision was a blur from childhood.

Mrs. Samuel B. Jones, 40, of Augusta, Ga., one of the few persons ever to have such an operation on both eyes, said today that her vision had been so bad "that I could pass my own mother on the street and wouldn't recognize her."

But now, she said, she can discern people's features clearly and "see trees and leaves for what they are rather than just a blur of green."

She owes it all, she said, to the skill of Walter Reed Army Hospital surgeons, and to the eye corneas "donated" by an Air Force colonel and an Army master sergeant—each of whom had one otherwise healthy eye removed because of a tumor behind it.

The cornea is the normally-transparent thin covering over the iris and pupil of the eye. Sometimes people can become partially or completely blind in that eye if the cornea becomes "clouded" from disease or injury.

In Mrs. Jones' case, both eyes were affected by a congenital condition called "keratoconus" in which the normally nearly-flat cornea became cone-shaped.

Wife of an Army chaplain now stationed in Munich, Germany—whom she hasn't seen since the two succcssive operations on her eyes last July and last January—Mrs. Jones is a sister of Ray Graves, assistant football coach at Georgia Tech.

Molotov Declares U. S. 'Brazenly' Lays Claim To World Leadership

Says NATO Proof Of "Aspiration"

MOSCOW, Friday, March 5 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, in a long statement published on the anniversary of Stalin's death, charged contemptuously today that the United States is "brazenly" claiming the leadership of the world.

The "practical expression" of this aspiration, he said, was the North Atlantic treaty which he compared to the "well-known anti-Comintern pact which was concluded in 1937 by Hitler Germany, militarist Japan and Fascist Italy."

"There are no grounds for doubting that the fate of the North Atlantic pact will be no better than the fate of the 'anti-Comintern pact,'" he said.

Molotov's statement, reviewing the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Berlin, was spread over 2½ pages of the Moscow press and was broadcast by Moscow radio.

"The ruling circles of the United States lay claim to the role of leader in this camp (of capitalist countries)," Molotov said.

"They claim even more. They brazenly say that they have assumed the 'burden of a leading role in the world', that the United States allegedly is the 'leader of the world' although these claims are naturally groundless."

Molotov said American policy of striving for leadership had led to a policy of "position of strength," an unprecedented arms drive in the United States, Britain, France and several other countries, immense profits to "monopolists," and "every form of atom bomb intimidation."

"Everyone can see that the calculations based on the empty hopes of maintenance by the United States of a monopoly position in this matter (the atom bomb) proved utterly groundless," he said.

American policy further led to the building of a network of military bases "directed against the Soviet Union," and the signing of the pact for the European Defense Community, he added.

Wearing high heels is said to lead frequently to the shortening of the calf muscles.

GAINS SIGHT IN RARE OPERATION—Mrs. Samuel B. Jones, 40, Augusta, Ga., who has gained nearly normal vision through rare operations, has her left eye inspected in Washington yesterday by Capt. Hazel Jones, a nurse at Walter Reed Army Hospital. Two corneas from eyes of two Army men have been successfully transplanted to give sight to Mrs. Jones, whose vision was a blur since childhood.

Rubirosa Competes In Sports Car Race

SEBRING, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Playboy-diplomat Porfiro Rubirosa was named today as the driver of an Italian Lancia in Sunday's 12-hour Grand Prix endurance race.

Ettore Lancia Jr., head of the Lancia sports car factory in Torino Italy, announced that Rubirosa will drive the same car which won the 1,912-mile Mexican road race last November. It was driven in that race by Juan Fangio of Argentina, the 1951 sports car racing champion.

Gen. Dean Wills Eyes To Science

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William Dean, of Korean War fame, has "willed" his eyes to science for possible use in helping restore sight to someone with impaired or blinded vision. And his wife has willed the one eye she has. She lost the other in an accident.

This was disclosed today by doctors at Walter Reed Army Hospital who said Dean was impressed by work being done there and at some other hospitals in transplanting corneas from "donated" eyes into the eyes of people having diseased or injured corneas.

They explained that otherwise healthy eyes taken from a dead person, or removed because of necessary surgery, can be stored in an "eye-bank" for from three days to a week—and that at any time during that period the cornea, or transparent covering of the eye's iris and pupil can be transplanted into the eye of a person who needs one.

It is estimated that the loss to industry from the common cold in the United States is more than sixty million man-days each year.

Senate Launches Talk On Hawaii Statehood Issue

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—A charge that Communists dominate the economic life of Hawaii was made and denied today as the Senate opened debate on the Hawaii statehood bill.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) told the Senate Hawaii's "economic and political fabric is tinctured with Red."

But Sen. Long (D-La) said he investigated charges of Communist influences in Hawaii last fall and found them not to be true.

Sen. Cordon (R-Ore) declared "No better qualified territory in every respect has ever been a candidate for statehood."

Chairman Butler (R-Neb) of the Senate Interior Committee, who once opposed statehood for Hawaii on grounds of Communist influences, said he is "convinced that today the people of Hawaii are alert to the problem of communism and are fully able to cope with the Communist danger."

The exchange of differing views came as a group of Hawaiians made the rounds of senatorial offices urging that the Hawaii statehood bill be permitted to come to a vote on its own merits.

Democrats, however, appeared determined to press their effort to tie in the Alaska statehood bill and seek a vote on the combined measures.

As a concession to Senate Democrats, Majority Leader Knowland (R-Calif) promised that the Alaska statehood bill will be scheduled for separate consideration by the Senate as "early as possible" after the Hawaii legislation is concluded.

He said he had been authorized to make that pledge by the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

Churchill Says British Picture Is Brighter

LONDON, Friday, March 5 (AP)—Winston Churchill said last night things are looking brighter in Britain.

Painting a picture of accomplishments during the 2½ years of his Conservative administration after taking over from the Socialists, the 79-year-old Prime Minister said:

"Next summer will see the end of rationing. Already we have almost forgotten the days of queues and of empty shelves in the shops. Nor is it true that the cost of living is still rising. The index introduced and used by the Labor government is no higher than last March. Food prices on the average rose less in 1953 than in any year since the war."

Avalanche Toll Grows

VIENNA, Austria, March 4 (AP)—Two more avalanche dead were dug out of snowslides in Austria and Germany today. The winter's toll of avalanche victims in Austria mounted to 140.

Lake Victoria, in East Africa, is almost 4,000 feet above sea level and is the source of the Nile river.

Unprecedented Measures Approved By Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—Maryland lawmakers, 1954 style, did the unprecedented.

They passed a veterans' bonus. And they approved home rule for municipalities.

The bonus may not stand up. The attorney general's office said at first glance it probably didn't follow legal channels through the House. Gov. McKeldin is sure to request a formal opinion before he signs the bill.

If by any chance deep study shows it is valid—which seems dubious—and the governor signs it—he won't say—the voters will decide at a November referendum whether a bonus ever should be paid.

It would raise the sales tax from 2 per cent to a rate varying from 3 to 4 per cent. Ex-servicemen would get from $10 to $400, depending on length of service.

While a cloud hung over the bonus, city and town cheers rang over home rule.

Grudgingly by some, and with practical questions by others, senators and delegates this session agreed to let the voters decide in November on amending "home rule" into the constitution.

There would be limits. The General Assembly would retain control of tax rates and debt ceilings. It still might legislate for all communities in any of four population classes.

Also, it would keep its finger in county affairs. County "home rule" wasn't even proposed this year.

In all, 289 bills were introduced between Feb. 3 and today. Eighty-seven were enacted. The governor has signed 16.

One climaxed a campaign by the Maryland Press Assn. It forbade local governments or state agencies to take official action behind closed doors.

Acting in the open, the governor and the General Assembly spent money. They wrote the biggest checks ever seen in Annapolis. The State budget for 1954-55 will total more than 237 million dollars. Loans will exceed 8½ millions.

The State property tax rate will be 10.39 cents on each $100 value in 1955.

The liquor tax will go up a nickel a fifth next year. Subdivisions then will share 50 cents of the proceeds from a $1.50 levy per gallon.

Other taxes hold firm. There won't be another 15 per cent cut in income tax bills this April.

Utility stock shares, actually assessed on equipment and facilities, will continue to be taxed for the most part where company headquarters are located. A bill to give 20 counties a greater share went down in a torrent of acrimony.

Subject to gubernatorial approval, this also will happen:

Boat owners won't have to pay a property tax on craft under 100 feet long.

Car owners won't have to pay any more for license tags next year than this. Increases of about 33 per cent were postponed till 1956.

Used car buyers will know there's a maximum to the interest they're charged. Ceilings range from $9 to $15 per $100, depending on the age of the auto.

Starting in 1956, all property will be reassessed for taxes every year. State aid for schools, especially, goes down when assessments go up.

The roads commission will have greater leeway timing projects in its 12-year building program.

Wind Took Pants Along With $50

INDIANAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—A railroader from Covington, Ky., told police a strong March wind blew open his hotel room door and a window last night and carried his pants right through the window.

The railroader, Harry Winn, said he found his socks on the ground outside but his pants containing $50 were gone. He had hung them on a chair.

Pope Pius Continues Slow Improvement

VATICAN CITY, March 4 (AP)—Vatican sources reported today continued slow improvement in the condition of Pope Pius XII.

Official news on the ailing head of the Roman Catholic Church has been cut to a minimum. Informants said this reflected the wishes of the 78-year-old Pope for less emphasis on reports of his health, especially since the improvement noted in the past few days. His ailment has been diagnosed as gastritis.

The Vatican informants said the amount of food he takes orally is being increased slowly. Small portions of solid food have been added to his liquid diet.

NYC Directors Sued By Young In Control Fight

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—The battle for control of the New York Central Railroad entered the courts today with a suit filed by Robert R. Young against all 15 of the Central's directors.

The suit asked an injunction to prevent the directors from spending the railroad's money in the proxy fight to maintain themselves in office against Young's campaign to unseat them.

It also asked that the directors be made to pay back to the company all money they have spent for that purpose.

"This is not a tactical maneuver nor a strike (nuisance) suit," Young told a news conference. "It means business."

The suit asked the court to adjudge as improper the hiring by Central of a publicity firm and a firm of professional proxy solicitors to help the directors in their fight.

Another demand was that the directors "be required to account for their acts and doings" in respect to their conduct of the proxy war.

The suit was brought on behalf of Young, his old-time associate Allan P. Kirby "and all other stockholders similarly situated." It asked that damages, amount unspecified, be paid the plaintiffs.

William White, president of the Central, was served with the summons and complaint this morning and commented: "It shows Young is up to his customary tactics of trying to intimidate people. It shows what we have always known, that Young doesn't want to have a fight unless his antagonist is disarmed."

M'Carthy Warns Prober Against "Browbeating"

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), with a grin, told a Democratic member of his investigating subcommittee today:

"I wish you'd refrain from browbeating the witness."

That brought a laugh from spectators in the hearing room. They remembered that Secretary of the Army Stevens had accused McCarthy of abusing an Army general on the witness stand. Also, President Eisenhower said yesterday witnesses were entitled to respect and courtesy.

McCarthy's admonition against browbeating was addressed to Sen. Jackson (D-Wash), who quipped back: "Maybe the rest of us have that privilege."

It is estimated that the loss to industry from the common cold in the United States is more than sixty million man-days each year.

Senate Launches Talk On Hawaii Statehood Issue

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—A charge that Communists dominate the economic life of Hawaii was made and denied today as the Senate opened debate on the Hawaii statehood bill.

Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) told the Senate Hawaii's "economic and political fabric is tinctured with Red."

But Sen. Long (D-La) said he investigated charges of Communist influences in Hawaii last fall and found them not to be true.

Sen. Cordon (R-Ore) declared "No better qualified territory in every respect has ever been a candidate for statehood."

Chairman Butler (R-Neb) of the Senate Interior Committee, who once opposed statehood for Hawaii on grounds of Communist influences, said he is "convinced that today the people of Hawaii are alert to the problem of communism and are fully able to cope with the Communist danger."

The exchange of differing views came as a group of Hawaiians made the rounds of senatorial offices urging that the Hawaii statehood bill be permitted to come to a vote on its own merits.

Democrats, however, appeared determined to press their effort to tie in the Alaska statehood bill and seek a vote on the combined measures.

As a concession to Senate Democrats, Majority Leader Knowland (R-Calif) promised that the Alaska statehood bill will be scheduled for separate consideration by the Senate as "early as possible" after the Hawaii legislation is concluded.

He said he had been authorized to make that pledge by the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

Churchill Says British Picture Is Brighter

LONDON, Friday, March 5 (AP)—Winston Churchill said last night things are looking brighter in Britain.

Painting a picture of accomplishments during the 2½ years of his Conservative administration after taking over from the Socialists, the 79-year-old Prime Minister said:

"Next summer will see the end of rationing. Already we have almost forgotten the days of queues and of empty shelves in the shops. Nor is it true that the cost of living is still rising. The index introduced and used by the Labor government is no higher than last March. Food prices on the average rose less in 1953 than in any year since the war."

Avalanche Toll Grows

VIENNA, Austria, March 4 (AP)—Two more avalanche dead were dug out of snowslides in Austria and Germany today. The winter's toll of avalanche victims in Austria mounted to 140.

Lake Victoria, in East Africa, is almost 4,000 feet above sea level and is the source of the Nile river.

Unprecedented Measures Approved By Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—Maryland lawmakers, 1954 style, did the unprecedented.

They passed a veterans' bonus. And they approved home rule for municipalities.

The bonus may not stand up. The attorney general's office said at first glance it probably didn't follow legal channels through the House. Gov. McKeldin is sure to request a formal opinion before he signs the bill.

If by any chance deep study shows it is valid—which seems dubious—and the governor signs it—he won't say—the voters will decide at a November referendum whether a bonus ever should be paid.

It would raise the sales tax from 2 per cent to a rate varying from 3 to 4 per cent. Ex-servicemen would get from $10 to $400, depending on length of service.

While a cloud hung over the bonus, city and town cheers rang over home rule.

Grudgingly by some, and with practical questions by others, senators and delegates this session agreed to let the voters decide in November on amending "home rule" into the constitution.

There would be limits. The General Assembly would retain control of tax rates and debt ceilings. It still might legislate for all communities in any of four population classes.

Also, it would keep its finger in county affairs. County "home rule" wasn't even proposed this year.

In all, 289 bills were introduced between Feb. 3 and today. Eighty-seven were enacted. The governor has signed 16.

One climaxed a campaign by the Maryland Press Assn. It forbade local governments or state agencies to take official action behind closed doors.

Acting in the open, the governor and the General Assembly spent money. They wrote the biggest checks ever seen in Annapolis. The State budget for 1954-55 will total more than 237 million dollars. Loans will exceed 8½ millions.

The State property tax rate will be 10.39 cents on each $100 value in 1955.

The liquor tax will go up a nickel a fifth next year. Subdivisions then will share 50 cents of the proceeds from a $1.50 levy per gallon.

Other taxes hold firm. There won't be another 15 per cent cut in income tax bills this April.

Utility stock shares, actually assessed on equipment and facilities, will continue to be taxed for the most part where company headquarters are located. A bill to give 20 counties a greater share went down in a torrent of acrimony.

Subject to gubernatorial approval, this also will happen:

Boat owners won't have to pay a property tax on craft under 100 feet long.

Car owners won't have to pay any more for license tags next year than this. Increases of about 33 per cent were postponed till 1956.

Used car buyers will know there's a maximum to the interest they're charged. Ceilings range from $9 to $15 per $100, depending on the age of the auto.

Starting in 1956, all property will be reassessed for taxes every year. State aid for schools, especially, goes down when assessments go up.

The roads commission will have greater leeway timing projects in its 12-year building program.

Wind Took Pants Along With $50

INDIANAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—A railroader from Covington, Ky., told police a strong March wind blew open his hotel room door and a window last night and carried his pants right through the window.

The railroader, Harry Winn, said he found his socks on the ground outside but his pants containing $50 were gone. He had hung them on a chair.

Pope Pius Continues Slow Improvement

VATICAN CITY, March 4 (AP)—Vatican sources reported today continued slow improvement in the condition of Pope Pius XII.

Official news on the ailing head of the Roman Catholic Church has been cut to a minimum. Informants said this reflected the wishes of the 78-year-old Pope for less emphasis on reports of his health, especially since the improvement noted in the past few days. His ailment has been diagnosed as gastritis.

The Vatican informants said the amount of food he takes orally is being increased slowly. Small portions of solid food have been added to his liquid diet.

NYC Directors Sued By Young In Control Fight

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—The battle for control of the New York Central Railroad entered the courts today with a suit filed by Robert R. Young against all 15 of the Central's directors.

The suit asked an injunction to prevent the directors from spending the railroad's money in the proxy fight to maintain themselves in office against Young's campaign to unseat them.

It also asked that the directors be made to pay back to the company all money they have spent for that purpose.

"This is not a tactical maneuver nor a strike (nuisance) suit," Young told a news conference. "It means business."

The suit asked the court to adjudge as improper the hiring by Central of a publicity firm and a firm of professional proxy solicitors to help the directors in their fight.

Another demand was that the directors "be required to account for their acts and doings" in respect to their conduct of the proxy war.

The suit was brought on behalf of Young, his old-time associate Allan P. Kirby "and all other stockholders similarly situated." It asked that damages, amount unspecified, be paid the plaintiffs.

William White, president of the Central, was served with the summons and complaint this morning and commented: "It shows Young is up to his customary tactics of trying to intimidate people. It shows what we have always known, that Young doesn't want to have a fight unless his antagonist is disarmed."

M'Carthy Warns Prober Against "Browbeating"

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), with a grin, told a Democratic member of his investigating subcommittee today:

"I wish you'd refrain from browbeating the witness."

That brought a laugh from spectators in the hearing room. They remembered that Secretary of the Army Stevens had accused McCarthy of abusing an Army general on the witness stand. Also, President Eisenhower said yesterday witnesses were entitled to respect and courtesy.

McCarthy's admonition against browbeating was addressed to Sen. Jackson (D-Wash), who quipped back: "Maybe the rest of us have that privilege."

Not States, Commonwealths?

As the Senate turns to consideration of statehood for Hawaii, Senator Smathers (D., Fla.) is trying to revive a proposal to give Hawaii—and Alaska as well—not statehood but commonwealth status. A similar measure was brought out by Senator Monroney (D., Okla.) when statehood for Hawaii was being considered in 1952.

Smathers on February 25 named Monroney as one of four other senators, three Democrats and one Republican, supporting his stand. Their position is that the Atlantic and Pacific coastlines together provide "a logical boundary for the United States."

Commonwealth status for Hawaii and Alaska would put those territories on a footing with Puerto Rico. The Puerto Ricans achieved commonwealth status in 1952. In a referendum on March 3, 1952, the islanders adopted a new constitution which was approved by Congress in the following June.

The popular vote in 1952 was overwhelmingly in favor of the new constitution: 373,418 to 82,473. Puerto Rico became a "commonwealth" or "free associated state" on July 25, 1952.

The new constitution took away from the U. S. Congress its power to repeal laws passed by the island legislature. It also removed from the U. S. President the authority to appoint local officials.

Legislative power is vested in a legislative assembly, made up of a senate and house of representatives. Members of each chamber are elected by direct vote. Executive power is vested in a governor elected by direct vote. The present governor, Luis Munoz Marin, was first elected in 1948 and was re-elected in 1952; he is the first island governor to be chosen in a general election.

Puerto Ricans are U. S. citizens, and therefore have the right freely to move back and forth between the island and the mainland. All U. S. federal laws except those on revenue have effect in Puerto Rico. Like Alaska and Hawaii, Puerto Rico has a voteless spokesman in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Prior to becoming a commonwealth, Puerto Rico had not been designated as a territory by Congress, but Puerto Ricans had been granted many of the territorial privileges enjoyed by Hawaiians and Alaskans. The Organic Act of Puerto Rico of March 2, 1917, granted Puerto Ricans U. S. citizenship and unrestricted suffrage on the island.

Presumably, commonwealth status for Hawaii and Alaska would mean that Hawaiians and Alaskans would cease paying federal taxes and would pay taxes to commonwealth governments. They would, of course, retain U. S. citizenship.

U. S. Ambassador Lodge on November 27, 1953, told the U. N. General Assembly that President Eisenhower would ask the U. S. Congress to grant full independence to Puerto Rico any time the Puerto Rican legislature voted for full independence. Thus the way to full independence is even easier for Puerto Rico than it was for the Philippines, which became a free Republic on July 4, 1946, after ten years as a commonwealth.

Raising The $600

The personal $600 income tax exemption granted each taxpayer is coming under heavy attack by members of the House. At least half a dozen congressmen have advanced plans to raise the exemption. Figures mentioned as the new exemption range all the way from $700 to $1,500.

An exemption of $700 instead of $600 a year wouldn't mean much to the average taxpayer, although it would cut into the government's revenue to a noticeable extent. A $1,500 exemption hasn't a chance, even in an election year.

Those who propose raising the exemption lean most heavily on the old argument of "taxation according to ability to pay," which, translated, means "government take all except subsistence money." That is, raising the exemption would benefit the small taxpayers most. Obviously such a step would not have much impact on the amount of taxes paid by a taxpayer with an income of $100,000 a year or more.

The Treasury's argument against increasing the exemption is that the government cannot afford the loss of revenue. This loss, according to the Treasury's figures, would amount to $2,500,000,000 in the case of an exemption increase to $700, and $10,000,000,000 if the exemption were raised to $1,000.

To date the House Ways and Means Committee has agreed that the $600 limit which a child may earn and still be classed as a dependent is too low and could be adjusted without a great loss of government revenue.

Boom In Turnpikes

Historians writing on major developments of the mid-century in transportation will cite toll turnpikes alongside airlines. Expansion in turnpikes is gaining momentum. The more toll roads are built, the greater is the demand for them.

Revenues of these expressways is usually far higher than original estimates. Nobody—and this includes the engineers who designed the earlier turnpikes—estimated accurately how tremendous public acceptance of the super roads would be. Fears that motorists would continue to use old roads rather than pay toll were completely unfounded.

If the revenues greatly exceed earlier estimates, so do costs of construction. Only the cost estimates for the Pennsylvania and the Ohio turnpikes seem to have held up as adequate.

The New Jersey Turnpike went to the bondholders for an extra $53,000,000 making a total of $288,000,000. The New York Thruway is going from $500,000,000 up to $550,000,000. The Indian Turnpike will cost almost twice as much as originally figured. The story is the same in Connecticut and West Virginia.

But the bondholders, though dizzy, are also happy. The revenues keep booming along in such fashion as to cause no anxiety, merely revisions of contingency funds to take care of rising costs or unforseen traffic bottlenecks.

Pre-Retirement Plans

Aging is normal: But a satisfactory retirement requires (1) money to buy food and lodging; (2) outside interests to avoid loneliness and acquire a feeling of usefulness; and (3) good health to postpone the onset of infirmities. These measures are basic, but preparation is needed so that the individual will have them when the time arrives. They must be taken more seriously by our young and middleaged men and women, who stand an excellent chance of reaching three score and ten. By providing such a reservoir, a problem now confronting many of today's senior folk will be averted.

We do not have full statistical data on the financial condition of our older population but it is reasonable to assume that many do not have enough money to live according to modern standards. According to Clark Tibbetts, chairman of the Committee on Aging and Geriatrics of the Federal Security agency, our public and private pension system support only 3½ million people; and 3 million over 65 are currently employed. One-seventh of the family units whose breadwinners are 60 years of age or older, have a net worth of $25,000.

Despite these encouraging figures, however, the median income of families in this age group is only $1,903, and the average income of oldsters not living with relatives is $650. How to raise these figures is the problem and it is becoming more and more obvious that Uncle Sam is not the answer. There is a limit on how much we can expect from the middle-aged generation who have their own families to support and are overburdened with taxation as it is.

The problem may resolve itself when we alter our pension plans. The man of 60 who is incapacitated or old before his time ought to be able to obtain a partial pension but the man of 65 who is capable of continuing his work need not be retired; if he is healthy, part time employment not only would improve his financial status but give an interest in life. In other words, now that we live longer, we should be able to work longer.

Lack of interests among our present crop of retired folk means that something is lacking in our cultural background. Tibbitts suggests it might be profitable to place higher values on the creative arts such as dramatics, music, literature, painting, and the immense variety of handicraft skills. With this background, more men and women will reach the retirement age prepared to enjoy life more fully. In painting, for example, Grandma Moses and Churchill are getting a lot of fun out of their avocation.

The 40 year old must think ahead, so far as health is concerned. He should begin to practice moderation and seek a more perfect balance between work, sleep, and posture. Persons this age are neither young nor old and the sooner the middle-ager comes to this realization, the easier the adjustment in the most productive time of life.

PEPLESS AT 50

Anyone with your symptoms needs a complete physical examination to determine whether a physical or emotional disturbance is responsible. Today, men of 50 are young and there is no reason why you cannot be helped.

DON'T DELAY

G. B. writes: I have a wart-like lesion on my face near the nose, which has turned dark and scaly. Would it be safe for me to wait six months, when treatment would be more convenient?

REPLY

At your own risk. Any mole or wart that changes in size or color is suspect because this frequently indicates that the lesion has become malignant. We know that 95 per cent of all skin cancers are curable when treated in time. With these facts in mind, you should make this the number one job of the year.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Puerto Rican Nationalists Have Long Threatened Life Of Island's Governor; Commonwealth Constitution Provides Loose Ties With U. S.

WASHINGTON—Driving through the streets of San Juan with Governor Luis Munoz-Marin of Puerto Rico several years ago, I wondered why he purposely cut off all ventilation in his limousine. The weather was sweltering. But the glass windows of the car were closed.

Looking more closely, I noticed that the car windows were of glass half an inch thick—bulletproof.

I asked no questions and waited until the car passed outside the narrow, congested streets of San Juan to the open countryside, when the car windows were rolled down.

It was only a short time afterward, however, when two Puerto Rican fanatics tried to shoot their way into the White House, and I realized how necessary were the safety precautions taken by the governor of Puerto Rico. For on the same day the two Puerto Rican assassins made an attempt on the life of President Truman, a little band of Nationalists also stormed the front entrance to Forteleza, residence of Governor Munoz, and tried to kill him.

Tragic fact about the attempts on Governor Munoz and the gruesome shooting of five congressmen this week is that probably no one has done more for Puerto Rico than Governor Munoz or more than the last session of Congress which passed the "Commonwealth of Puerto Rico" bill.

Munoz-Marin is the first governor ever elected by the Puerto Rican people. Educated at Georgetown University, he spent most of his youth in the nation's capital where his father was Puerto Rican delegate to Congress.

A big, square-jawed man, Munoz-Marin looks like he might have stepped out of a Hollywood western, but he has done more for the Puerto Rican people in regard to housing, schools, agricultural progress and governmental reform than any man in history. Despite attacks on his life, he is loved by the great mass of the people.

Reforming Puerto Rico

Prior to Munoz-Marin's election, Puerto Rican governors had always been appointed by the President of the United States, and the governorship was considered a glorified political plum for the politically faithful. For years Puerto Ricans had every reason to complain. They were the political stepchild of the U. S., with no vote, no representation in Congress, and no governmental administration except that handed them by the Republican or Democratic national committee.

But Munoz-Marin, who had the ear of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, gradually changed all this. Had he not changed it, the Puerto Rican Nationalists might have some excuse for complaint. As it is, their only gripe can be on the ground that the island has been given as much independence as the people wanted.

The balloting for the Puerto Rican commonwealth took place on March 3, 1953, in one of the most unique elections ever seen in the Western Hemisphere. Promptly at 1 o'clock on that day a great calm settled over the island. Business stopped. Automobiles vanished from the streets. Cane cutters left the sugar fields. All of Puerto Rico settled down to vote on the question of whether it should be a commonwealth under the United States or not.

The vote for the new constitution was overwhelming. The Nationalists, who wanted complete independence from the United States, scarcely made a ripple. Apparently they now seek to achieve by terrorism what they could not achieve by the ballot.

Under the new commonwealth constitution, Puerto Rico becomes somewhat the same relationship to the United States as the commonwealth of Australia to England. Defense and foreign policy are administered from Washington. Puerto Rico does not have to pay taxes to support an army and navy, and Puerto Ricans are drafted into the U. S. armed services. But the island collects its own taxes, and fixes its own taxes, though subject to the same tariff provisions as the United States.

However, this system of American guarantees and semi-American independence does not, and probably will never, satisfy the fanatical Nationalists.

White House Lunch

Back in February 1952, when General Eisenhower was chief of NATO in Paris, he received a letter from 17 Republican congressmen urging him to run for President. The other day the same 17 congressmen—some of them now ex's—were invited to lunch at the White House.

During the meal the President passed the letter around to his guests and there was a lot of good-natured kidding.

When Congressman Thor Tollefson of Washington read the two-year-old missive, he observed: "In this case it's true that history doesn't change much. We liked Ike then and we are just as strong for him today."

The "I Like Ike" campaign slogan worked both ways, the President observed. He said he would never forget the friends who have stuck by him before and since the 1952 campaign and that he hoped his 17 callers would have lunch with him again next year on the anniversary of their letter.

He did not, however, suggest continuing the festive occasion beyond that.

"You know, I received your letter while still overseas at a time when some Democrats also were trying to get me to run for the presidency," Eisenhower recalled.

"Well, that just shows that at least some Democrats know a good thing when they see one," piped up Congressman Walter Judd of Minnesota.

Pheasant was the main course at the luncheon. When someone asked if he had personally bagged the birds while hunting with friends in Texas, the President replied:

"No, there were so many people around me at that time, I hardly had a chance to shoot for fear of hitting a Secret Service man."

(Copyright, 1954, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, (INS)—Some people . . . some places . . . some things—

Almost since the organization of the Secret Service, presidents have expressed irritation over the almost constant vigilance maintained over them. Cal Coolidge thought his guards were a waste of money, Herbert Hoover asked that the staff be cut, F.D.R. and Harry Truman delighted in giving them the slip. Eisenhower would have preferred not having them around, especially trailing him about the golf course.

It takes an outrageous incident such as the attempt on Mr. Truman's life and the shocking lunacy of the gun scene in the House of Representatives to show just how casual we can become about protecting our public figures from dangerous crackpots. It is appalling to recall that only a few days ago any assassin could walk into the House, Senate or Supreme Court and blaze away. News conferences by the President and members of his Cabinet were and may still be about as open as the rest rooms at Grand Central.

The President has been playing golf with the most limited kind of protection, a couple of Secret Service men carrying 45's unobstrusively, and two carrying golf bags—in which are a walkie-talkie and a tommy gun. He should have more protection. So should all who serve their country.

Any inquiry into how to keep members of Puerto Rico's fanatical Nationalist Party out of this country should call former Representative Marcantonio to the stand. The Red-voting ex-congressman's political machinery is one of the chief factors in the constant flow of Puerto Ricans into the crime-breeding squalor of Upper Manhattan and Harlem.

Bill "Hopalong Cassidy" Boyd entered the crowded diner of the Super Chief not long ago and was instantly and loudly recognized by a harsh-voiced lady traveling with her young son.

"Hoppy," the lady commanded, "tell this boy to eat his meat." Conversation in the car subsided and all eyes were on Boyd and the boy.

"You like meat, son?" Hoppy asked.

"Hate it," the kid replied.

"Then don't eat it." Boyd said, walking away and the car burst into applause.

The inherent fertility of the American badlands is strikingly evident around Palm Springs, Cal. One can drive for miles across scabrous looking earth on which it would appear impossible to grow even a beard. Then, like an apparition, you can come upon a place like the Tamarisk Golf Club. A couple of years ago it was just another stretch of desert. Today it literally blooms like a great varicolored corsage set in sand and shale. Its bright green fairways and greens are like fine carpets. The dazzling background of citrus trees, palms and distant snow-topped mountains make it one of the world's most breath-taking bits of real estate.

Water, a little topsoil here and there, and seed created the miracle. There is water everywhere in the desert, if men are patient enough to dig for it. Playing at Tamarisk, where Ben Hogan is the pro, my mind kept conjuring pictures of a grizzled old-time prospector staggering across the desert, and thirsting to death, who sees Tamarisk loom up before him.

"Here's one danged mirage ain't going to fool me," he swears, and detours around it to his death.

Sat next to a prominent Los Angeles toy man, Lou J. Cooper, on America's swift DC-7 nonstop trip from L. A. Cooper was enroute to the annual American Toy Manufacturers Association conclave to be held in New York this coming week.

"Space toys are off, despite all the television publicity space gets," he said, in a brief review of trends in the business. "Dollar volume has dropped in the past year. Parents aren't buying high-priced things as they did, like bicycles, good tricycles, big dolls and so forth. The trend is toward smaller, cheaper toys, with plastics getting an increasing play. War toys are not quite as strong as they were, but the plastic jeep is a tremendous seller — as is anything that flies.

"The surest seller over the years? That's easy—the gyroscope top. Kids have been buying it for half a century, and always will, I guess."

It's a tremendous business: Aomunts to $800,000,000 in sales per year.

Think of the wreckage!

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — All the statements from the White House with their hortatory words about "fair play" in dealing with Communists and all the comments by the critics of Senator McCarthy cannot erase the simple fact that Dr. Irving Peress, known to the Army as a Communist, was promoted to be a major and received from the U. S. Army a certificate of honorable service. He received that certificate despite the fact that he refused to tell his own government the full facts about his behavior during his period of service in the Army.

Thus has red tape and Army negligence been responsible once more for one of the tragic distortions of American honor.

For it is military red tape which has kept all the facts from being known as to why the proper orders were not transmitted promptly enough so as to alert our military forces at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. Why were the requests of Admiral Kimmel and General Short for a court-martial refused?

Recognizes Gravity Of Problem

It is Army red tape which to this day keeps all the facts from being known as to why the anguished appeal of General Van Fleet for ammunition to supply our troops in Korea was disregarded and who were the persons responsible.

It is Army red tape which to this day prevents a congressional committee from uncovering the facts as to who were the persons responsible recently for the inefficiency of Army officers in handling Communists inside the Army.

President Eisenhower has recognized the gravity of the problem. In his latest statement he says:

"The Department of the Army made serious errors in handling the Peress case and the secretary of the army so stated publicly, almost a month ago.

"The Army is correcting its procedures to avoid such mistakes in the future. I am completely confident that Secretary Stevens will be successful in this effort."

But is this all that's going to happen? What about the persons who made the blunders? Are they to go scot free? And would anything like this have been detected had it not been for the persistence of the permanent subcommittee on investigations of the Senate Committee on Government Operations, of which Senator McCarthy happens to be chairman?

The President discussed "codes of fair procedure" which he hopes congressional committees will establish and said that "in opposing communism, we are defeating ourselves if either by design or carelessness, we use methods that do not conform to the American sense of justice and fair play."

What instances in this whole Peress record can the President cite which any "code" of procedure would cure? Major Peress was before Senator McCarthy's committee and refused to tell whether he had been engaged in espionage while in the Army or whether he had recruited persons in the Army for the Communist cell of which he was a member. He refused to tell who in the Army aided him in avoiding overseas duty. He had counsel at his side at all times during the hearing. Was he not treated fairly?

Vigorous Examination

General Zwicker sat through the hearing at which a New York policewoman identified Peress as a Communist, and he said he learned nothing new or anything to cause him concern. He admitted that, despite his knowledge, he did nothing at all to hold up the honorable discharge certificate. But he admitted that, if he had been told that the night before a man had stolen $50, he would have been able to hold up that man's honorable discharge.

Senator McCarthy conducted a cross-examination of General Zwicker which was vigorous. It was not unusual in congressional committee inquiries except in one respect. Exasperated and angered by the general's indifference to the honorable discharge procedure, the senator said the general wasn't fit to wear the uniform. That was a bad mistake on the senator's part. But a loss of temper is one thing and the right to cross-examine penetratingly is something else, and neither one is going to be restrained by any "codes of fair procedure."

Senators of the "liberal" Democratic side got up on the floor of the Senate the other day and called an innocent man a liar and said he wasn't fit to hold public office. What "code of fair procedure" can restrain the tongue of any senator who says what he pleases on the floor of the Senate? It is distasteful, to be sure, but it is a right inherent in our system of checks and balances. For it was Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who once wrote that "freedom of speech is freedom for the thought we hate."

Condemnation of the loss of temper by Senator McCarthy for his bitter comment at the Zwicker hearing is in order, but this cannot obscure his vigorous pursuit of Communists in government. Nor can it wipe out the simple fact that, but for the Wisconsin senator's crusade against the tragic indifference of the Army system toward Communists in the Army, the new regulations and corrective measures just announced would probably never have been issued. This at least is a creditable achievement and spells progress.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Can Russia Save Itself?

Soviet Russia has, thus far, more or less, won every diplomatic conference and has increased its realm from 180,000,000 persons to 800,000,000 persons since 1938. The question then arises as to whether the Soviet Universal State will continue to expand and to destroy free peoples or whether it will be destroyed by an internal revolution. Eugene Lyons, whose knowledge of the subject cannot be doubted, has written a book, "Our Secret Allies," which is being widely read by our policy-makers and which sets out to tell the story of the seizure of Russia by the Bolsheviks and the inner resistance of the people to them.

Lyons belongs to the sentimental school of experts on Russia, which draws fine lines of distinction between the Kremlin and the millions over whom it rules. He almost treats the Kremlin as though it were the seat of an alien, conquering host. The Russians, while often admirable and always fascinating as individuals, have shown little capacity for freedom throughout their history. Conquered by aliens and ruled by them for a thousand years, their society has accustomed itself to autocracy. After a few months of freedom to the point of anarchy in the Kerensky period, the Russians returned to the absolutism to which they are accustomed in a new and worse guise under Lenin and Trotsky, and after them Stalin and Malenkov. There has never been a democratic revolution, such as Western peoples have witnessed, in the whole of Russian history.

Eugene Lyons, once the United Press correspondent in Russia, then for many years the editor of "The American Mercury," is now a senior editor of "The Readers Digest." In the late 1930's, his book "Assignment in Utopia" became a best-seller and an eye-opener for thousands of Americans hypnotized by their illusions about the "great experiment" in the USSR. His "Red Decade" is a most important contribution to the study of communism. Therefore, when Lyons writes on Russia, he must be taken seriously even if one disagrees with his present position that the forces of revolution against the Kremlin are readying themselves inside Russia.

His thesis is that the overwhelming mass of Soviet citizens has never accepted the Red dictatorship. Despite nearly 40 years of propaganda and terror, despite the fact that a new generation has grown up, he argues that the regime has failed to win the loyalties of its subjects. What has been going on in Soviet Russia since 1917, Lyons says, is "a permanent civil war—in the first years open and military, since then largely concealed and political but even bloodier. Once you grasp this fact, much about the Soviet scene that seems baffling begins to make sense. The many millions who have perished in the struggle against the regime, whether finished off in police dungeons and slave camps or starved in man-made famine, are the casualties in that war. The great hordes of inmates of prisons and concentration camps are its prisoners of war. The perennial purges, the liquidation of this or that class of the population, the abolition of entire 'republics' and 'autonomous regions' are battles in the war. And the incessant thunder of propaganda is the psychological offense that has become an essential part of modern warfare."

There are those who believe that the desire for liberty is ever existent in man and that while, for a period, he may submit to tyranny, ultimately he will strike out for freedom. Although there is evidence to support a phase of Lyons' theory, namely, that the Russian government has had to struggle to exist, there is no evidence that the opposition comes from the masses. It has been a conflict for power within the Communist party. Nothing has yet appeared to prove that the millions of non-political persons living under the despotism will risk much for freedom. The 1917 revolutions were not mass uprisings. The Kerensky government was the end of a palace revolution; the Bolshevik seizure of power was the effort of a small group of intellectuals. The Stalin purges were all against his associates in the party and government. Malenkov murdered Beria to get rid of a rival.

"Our Secret Allies" projects Soviet life from a novel viewpoint. Lyons has retold the history of the Soviet epoch in the struggle between the masters and the slaves.

Not States, Commonwealths?

As the Senate turns to consideration of statehood for Hawaii, Senator Smathers (D., Fla.) is trying to revive a proposal to give Hawaii—and Alaska as well—not statehood but commonwealth status. A similar measure was brought out by Senator Monroney (D., Okla.) when statehood for Hawaii was being considered in 1952.

Smathers on February 25 named Monroney as one of four other senators, three Democrats and one Republican, supporting his stand. Their position is that the Atlantic and Pacific coastlines together provide "a logical boundary for the United States."

Commonwealth status for Hawaii and Alaska would put those territories on a footing with Puerto Rico. The Puerto Ricans achieved commonwealth status in 1952. In a referendum on March 3, 1952, the islanders adopted a new constitution which was approved by Congress in the following June.

The popular vote in 1952 was overwhelmingly in favor of the new constitution: 373,418 to 82,473. Puerto Rico became a "commonwealth" or "free associated state" on July 25, 1952.

The new constitution took away from the U. S. Congress its power to repeal laws passed by the island legislature. It also removed from the U. S. President the authority to appoint local officials.

Legislative power is vested in a legislative assembly, made up of a senate and house of representatives. Members of each chamber are elected by direct vote. Executive power is vested in a governor elected by direct vote. The present governor, Luis Munoz Marin, was first elected in 1948 and was re-elected in 1952; he is the first island governor to be chosen in a general election.

Puerto Ricans are U. S. citizens, and therefore have the right freely to move back and forth between the island and the mainland. All U. S. federal laws except those on revenue have effect in Puerto Rico. Like Alaska and Hawaii, Puerto Rico has a voteless spokesman in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Prior to becoming a commonwealth, Puerto Rico had not been designated as a territory by Congress, but Puerto Ricans had been granted many of the territorial privileges enjoyed by Hawaiians and Alaskans. The Organic Act of Puerto Rico of March 2, 1917, granted Puerto Ricans U. S. citizenship and unrestricted suffrage on the island.

Presumably, commonwealth status for Hawaii and Alaska would mean that Hawaiians and Alaskans would cease paying federal taxes and would pay taxes to commonwealth governments. They would, of course, retain U. S. citizenship.

U. S. Ambassador Lodge on November 27, 1953, told the U. N. General Assembly that President Eisenhower would ask the U. S. Congress to grant full independence to Puerto Rico any time the Puerto Rican legislature voted for full independence. Thus the way to full independence is even easier for Puerto Rico than it was for the Philippines, which became a free Republic on July 4, 1946, after ten years as a commonwealth.

Raising The $600

The personal $600 income tax exemption granted each taxpayer is coming under heavy attack by members of the House. At least half a dozen congressmen have advanced plans to raise the exemption. Figures mentioned as the new exemption range all the way from $700 to $1,500.

An exemption of $700 instead of $600 a year wouldn't mean much to the average taxpayer, although it would cut into the government's revenue to a noticeable extent. A $1,500 exemption hasn't a chance, even in an election year.

Those who propose raising the exemption lean most heavily on the old argument of "taxation according to ability to pay," which, translated, means "government take all except subsistence money." That is, raising the exemption would benefit the small taxpayers most. Obviously such a step would not have much impact on the amount of taxes paid by a taxpayer with an income of $100,000 a year or more.

The Treasury's argument against increasing the exemption is that the government cannot afford the loss of revenue. This loss, according to the Treasury's figures, would amount to $2,500,000,000 in the case of an exemption increase to $700, and $10,000,000,000 if the exemption were raised to $1,000.

To date the House Ways and Means Committee has agreed that the $600 limit which a child may earn and still be classed as a dependent is too low and could be adjusted without a great loss of government revenue.

Boom In Turnpikes

Historians writing on major developments of the mid-century in transportation will cite toll turnpikes alongside airlines. Expansion in turnpikes is gaining momentum. The more toll roads are built, the greater is the demand for them.

Revenues of these expressways is usually far higher than original estimates. Nobody—and this includes the engineers who designed the earlier turnpikes—estimated accurately how tremendous public acceptance of the super roads would be. Fears that motorists would continue to use old roads rather than pay toll were completely unfounded.

If the revenues greatly exceed earlier estimates, so do costs of construction. Only the cost estimates for the Pennsylvania and the Ohio turnpikes seem to have held up as adequate.

The New Jersey Turnpike went to the bondholders for an extra $53,000,000 making a total of $288,000,000. The New York Thruway is going from $500,000,000 up to $550,000,000. The Indian Turnpike will cost almost twice as much as originally figured. The story is the same in Connecticut and West Virginia.

But the bondholders, though dizzy, are also happy. The revenues keep booming along in such fashion as to cause no anxiety, merely revisions of contingency funds to take care of rising costs or unforseen traffic bottlenecks.

Pre-Retirement Plans

Aging is normal: But a satisfactory retirement requires (1) money to buy food and lodging; (2) outside interests to avoid loneliness and acquire a feeling of usefulness; and (3) good health to postpone the onset of infirmities. These measures are basic, but preparation is needed so that the individual will have them when the time arrives. They must be taken more seriously by our young and middleaged men and women, who stand an excellent chance of reaching three score and ten. By providing such a reservoir, a problem now confronting many of today's senior folk will be averted.

We do not have full statistical data on the financial condition of our older population but it is reasonable to assume that many do not have enough money to live according to modern standards. According to Clark Tibbetts, chairman of the Committee on Aging and Geriatrics of the Federal Security agency, our public and private pension system support only 3½ million people; and 3 million over 65 are currently employed. One-seventh of the family units whose breadwinners are 60 years of age or older, have a net worth of $25,000.

Despite these encouraging figures, however, the median income of families in this age group is only $1,903, and the average income of oldsters not living with relatives is $650. How to raise these figures is the problem and it is becoming more and more obvious that Uncle Sam is not the answer. There is a limit on how much we can expect from the middle-aged generation who have their own families to support and are overburdened with taxation as it is.

The problem may resolve itself when we alter our pension plans. The man of 60 who is incapacitated or old before his time ought to be able to obtain a partial pension but the man of 65 who is capable of continuing his work need not be retired; if he is healthy, part time employment not only would improve his financial status but give an interest in life. In other words, now that we live longer, we should be able to work longer.

Lack of interests among our present crop of retired folk means that something is lacking in our cultural background. Tibbitts suggests it might be profitable to place higher values on the creative arts such as dramatics, music, literature, painting, and the immense variety of handicraft skills. With this background, more men and women will reach the retirement age prepared to enjoy life more fully. In painting, for example, Grandma Moses and Churchill are getting a lot of fun out of their avocation.

The 40 year old must think ahead, so far as health is concerned. He should begin to practice moderation and seek a more perfect balance between work, sleep, and posture. Persons this age are neither young nor old and the sooner the middle-ager comes to this realization, the easier the adjustment in the most productive time of life.

Tomorrow: A revolutionary PW.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Puerto Rican Nationalists Have Long Threatened Life Of Island's Governor; Commonwealth Constitution Provides Loose Ties With U. S.

WASHINGTON—Driving through the streets of San Juan with Governor Luis Munoz-Marin of Puerto Rico several years ago, I wondered why he purposely cut off all ventilation in his limousine. The weather was sweltering. But the glass windows of the car were closed.

Looking more closely, I noticed that the car windows were of glass half an inch thick—bulletproof.

I asked no questions and waited until the car passed outside the narrow, congested streets of San Juan to the open countryside, when the car windows were rolled down.

It was only a short time afterward, however, when two Puerto Rican fanatics tried to shoot their way into the White House, and I realized how necessary were the safety precautions taken by the governor of Puerto Rico. For on the same day the two Puerto Rican assassins made an attempt on the life of President Truman, a little band of Nationalists also stormed the front entrance to Forteleza, residence of Governor Munoz, and tried to kill him.

Tragic fact about the attempts on Governor Munoz and the gruesome shooting of five congressmen this week is that probably no one has done more for Puerto Rico than Governor Munoz or more than the last session of Congress which passed the "Commonwealth of Puerto Rico" bill.

Munoz-Marin is the first governor ever elected by the Puerto Rican people. Educated at Georgetown University, he spent most of his youth in the nation's capital where his father was Puerto Rican delegate to Congress.

A big, square-jawed man, Munoz-Marin looks like he might have stepped out of a Hollywood western, but he has done more for the Puerto Rican people in regard to housing, schools, agricultural progress and governmental reform than any man in history. Despite attacks on his life, he is loved by the great mass of the people.

Reforming Puerto Rico

Prior to Munoz-Marin's election, Puerto Rican governors had always been appointed by the President of the United States, and the governorship was considered a glorified political plum for the politically faithful. For years Puerto Ricans had every reason to complain. They were the political stepchild of the U. S., with no vote, no representation in Congress, and no governmental administration except that handed them by the Republican or Democratic national committee.

But Munoz-Marin, who had the ear of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, gradually changed all this. Had he not changed it, the Puerto Rican Nationalists might have some excuse for complaint. As it is, their only gripe can be on the ground that the island has been given as much independence as the people wanted.

The balloting for the Puerto Rican commonwealth took place on March 3, 1953, in one of the most unique elections ever seen in the Western Hemisphere. Promptly at 1 o'clock on that day a great calm settled over the island. Business stopped. Automobiles vanished from the streets. Cane cutters left the sugar fields. All of Puerto Rico settled down to vote on the question of whether it should be a commonwealth under the United States or not.

The vote for the new constitution was overwhelming. The Nationalists, who wanted complete independence from the United States, scarcely made a ripple. Apparently they now seek to achieve by terrorism what they could not achieve by the ballot.

Under the new commonwealth constitution, Puerto Rico becomes somewhat the same relationship to the United States as the commonwealth of Australia to England. Defense and foreign policy are administered from Washington. Puerto Rico does not have to pay taxes to support an army and navy, and Puerto Ricans are drafted into the U. S. armed services. But the island collects its own taxes, and fixes its own taxes, though subject to the same tariff provisions as the United States.

However, this system of American guarantees and semi-American independence does not, and probably will never, satisfy the fanatical Nationalists.

White House Lunch

Back in February 1952, when General Eisenhower was chief of NATO in Paris, he received a letter from 17 Republican congressmen urging him to run for President. The other day the same 17 congressmen—some of them now ex's—were invited to lunch at the White House.

During the meal the President passed the letter around to his guests and there was a lot of good-natured kidding.

When Congressman Thor Tollefson of Washington read the two-year-old missive, he observed: "In this case it's true that history doesn't change much. We liked Ike then and we are just as strong for him today."

The "I Like Ike" campaign slogan worked both ways, the President observed. He said he would never forget the friends who have stuck by him before and since the 1952 campaign and that he hoped his 17 callers would have lunch with him again next year on the anniversary of their letter.

He did not, however, suggest continuing the festive occasion beyond that.

"You know, I received your letter while still overseas at a time when some Democrats also were trying to get me to run for the presidency," Eisenhower recalled.

"Well, that just shows that at least some Democrats know a good thing when they see one," piped up Congressman Walter Judd of Minnesota.

Pheasant was the main course at the luncheon. When someone asked if he had personally bagged the birds while huntin with friends in Texas, the President replied:

"No, there were so many people around me at that time, I hardly had a chance to shoot for fear of hitting a Secret Service man."

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, (INS)—Some people . . . some places . . . some things—

Almost since the organization of the Secret Service, presidents have expressed irritation over the almost constant vigilance maintained over them. Cal Coolidge thought his guards were a waste of money, Herbert Hoover asked that the staff be cut, F.D.R. and Harry Truman delighted in giving them the slip. Eisenhower would have preferred not having them around, especially trailing him about the golf course.

It takes an outrageous incident such as the attempt on Mr. Truman's life and the shocking lunacy of the gun scene in the House of Representatives to show just how casual we can become about protecting our public figures from dangerous crackpots. It is appalling to recall that only a few days ago any assassin could walk into the House, Senate or Supreme Court and blaze away. News conferences by the President and members of his Cabinet were and may still be about as open as the rest rooms at Grand Central.

The President has been playing golf with the most limited kind of protection, a couple of Secret Service men carrying 45's unobstrusively, and two carrying golf bags—in which are a walkie-talkie and a tommy gun. He should have more protection. So should all who serve their country.

Any inquiry into how to keep members of Puerto Rico's fanatical Nationalist Party out of this country should call former Representative Marcantonio to the stand. The Red-voting ex-congressman's political machinery is one of the chief factors in the constant flow of Puerto Ricans into the crime-breeding squalor of Upper Manhattan and Harlem.

Bill "Hopalong Cassidy" Boyd entered the crowded diner of the Super Chief not long ago and was instantly and loudly recognized by a harsh-voiced lady traveling with her young son.

"Hoppy," the lady commanded, "tell this boy to eat his meat." Conversation in the car subsided and all eyes were on Boyd and the boy.

"You like meat, son?" Hoppy asked.

"Hate it," the kid replied.

"Then don't eat it." Boyd said, walking away and the car burst into applause.

The inherent fertility of the American badlands is strikingly evident around Palm Springs, Cal. One can drive for miles across scabrous looking earth on which it would appear impossible to grow even a beard. Then, like an apparition, you can come upon a place like the Tamarisk Golf Club. A couple of years ago it was just another stretch of desert. Today it literally blooms like a great varicolored corsage set in sand and shale. Its bright green fairways and greens are like fine carpets. The dazzling background of citrus trees, palms and distant snow-topped mountains make it one of the world's most breath-taking bits of real estate.

He admitted that, despite his knowledge, he did nothing at all to hold up the honorable discharge certificate. But he admitted that, if he had been told that the night before a man had stolen $50, he would have been able to hold up that man's honorable discharge.

Senator McCarthy conducted a cross-examination of General Zwicker which was vigorous. It was not unusual in congressional committee inquiries except in one respect. Exasperated and angered by the general's indifference to the honorable discharge procedure, the senator said the general wasn't fit to wear the uniform. That was a bad mistake on the senator's part. But a loss of temper is one thing and the right to cross-examine penetratingly is something else, and neither one is going to be restrained by any "codes of fair procedure."

Senators of the "liberal" Democratic side got up on the floor of the Senate the other day and called an innocent man a liar and said he wasn't fit to hold public office. What "code of fair procedure" can restrain the tongue of any senator who says what he pleases on the floor of the Senate? It is distasteful, to be sure, but it is a right inherent in our system of checks and balances. For it was Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who once wrote that "freedom of speech is freedom for the thought we hate."

Condemnation of the loss of temper by Senator McCarthy for his bitter comment at the Zwicker hearing is in order, but this cannot obscure his vigorous pursuit of Communists in government. Nor can it wipe out the simple fact that, but for the Wisconsin senator's crusade against the tragic indifference of the Army system toward Communists in the Army, the new regulations and corrective measures just announced would probably never have been issued. This at least is a creditable achievement and spells progress.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Can Russia Save Itself?

Soviet Russia has, thus far, more or less, won every diplomatic conference and has increased its realm from 180,000,000 persons to 800,000,000 persons since 1938. The question then arises as to whether the Soviet Universal State will continue to expand and to destroy free peoples or whether it will be destroyed by an internal revolution. Eugene Lyons, whose knowledge of the subject cannot be doubted, has written a book, "Our Secret Allies," which is being widely read by our policy-makers and which sets out to tell the story of the seizure of Russia by the Bolsheviks and the inner resistance of the people to them.

Lyons belongs to the sentimental school of experts on Russia, which draws fine lines of distinction between the Kremlin and the millions over whom it rules. He almost treats the Kremlin as though it were the seat of an alien, conquering host. The Russians, while often admirable and always fascinating as individuals, have shown little capacity for freedom throughout their history. Conquered by aliens and ruled by them for a thousand years, their society has accustomed itself to autocracy. After a few months of freedom to the point of anarchy in the Kerensky period, the Russians returned to the absolutism to which they are accustomed in a new and worse guise under Lenin and Trotsky, and after them Stalin and Malenkov. There has never been a democratic revolution, such as Western peoples have witnessed, in the whole of Russian history.

Eugene Lyons, once the United Press correspondent in Russia, then for many years the editor of "The American Mercury," is now a senior editor of "The Readers Digest." In the late 1930's, his book "Assignment in Utopia" became a best-seller and an eye-opener for thousands of Americans hypnotized by their illusions about the "great experiment" in the USSR. His "Red Decade" is a most important contribution to the study of communism. Therefore, when Lyons writes on Russia, he must be taken seriously even if one disagrees with his present position that the forces of revolution against the Kremlin are readying themselves inside Russia.

His thesis is that the overwhelming mass of Soviet citizens has never accepted the Red dictatorship. Despite nearly 40 years of propaganda and terror, despite the fact that a new generation has grown up, he argues that the regime has failed to win the loyalties of its subjects. What has been going on in Soviet Russia since 1917, Lyons says, is "a permanent civil war—in the first years open and military, since then largely concealed and political but even bloodier. Once you grasp this fact, much about the Soviet scene that seems baffling begins to make sense. The many millions who have perished in the struggle against the regime, whether finished off in police dungeons and slave camps or starved in man-made famine, are the casualties in that war. The great hordes of inmates of prisons and concentration camps are its prisoners of war. The perennial purges, the liquidation of this or that class of the population, the abolition of entire 'republics' and 'autonomous regions' are battles in the war. And the incessant thunder of propaganda is the psychological offense that has become an essential part of modern warfare."

There are those who believe that the desire for liberty is ever existent in man and that while, for a period, he may submit to tyranny, ultimately he will strike out for freedom. Although there is evidence to support a phase of Lyons' theory, namely, that the Russian government has had to struggle to exist, there is no evidence that the opposition comes from the masses. It has been a conflict for power within the Communist party. Nothing has yet appeared to prove that the millions of non-political persons living under the despotism will risk much for freedom. The 1917 revolutions were not mass uprisings. The Kerensky government was the end of a palace revolution; the Bolshevik seizure of power was the effort of a small group of intellectuals. The Stalin purges were all against his associates in the party and government. Malenkov murdered Beria to get rid of a rival.

"Our Secret Allies" projects Soviet life from a novel viewpoint. Lyons has retold the history of the Soviet epoch in the struggle between the masters and the slaves.

Lent Practices Differ With Denominations But Through Most Runs Idea Of Dedication

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—Ahead of most churches today are six weeks of intensified dedication.

Congregations generally will be larger. Services will be more frequent. Prayer, meditation and devotional study will be increased.

A heightened mood of solemnity will temper song and sermon.

The special notes of consecration, like the slow advance of far-off drums, will move in a gradual crescendo to the climax of Easter.

All this is in the spirit and custom of Lent, as observed variously in most of the nation's churches, and among Christians throughout the world.

The season began this week, on Ash Wednesday, and takes its theme of selfless devotion from the sacrifice of Christ on the cross.

For many, the 40-day period commemorates the 40 days and nights Jesus fasted and prayed in the desert.

Lenten practices differ among the various denominations, but through nearly all of them, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Anglican and Eastern Orthodox Catholic, threads the idea of deepened dedication.

Only the Roman and Orthodox churches specify fasting requirements.

But among others, varying by ing by individual church and personal choice and conscience, there are many forms of giving up things to serve God.

Worshippers may forego certain foods, or drink, or entertainment. Many Protestants emphasize greater service, special offerings to missions and other menas of devotion.

Two major interdenominational events, "The World Day of Prayer" today, and the "One Great Hour of Sharing" on March 28, will mark the season.

Thousands of Protestant and Orthodox churches take part in these observances, including prayer vigils, special offerings for missions and aid to the needy.

Allowing for numerous differences among individual churches, the following customs typify observances in several representative denominations:

Congregational-Christian — recommended daily devotional readings; holding of "schools of churchmanship"; special midweek services; emphasis on deeper spiritual introspection, usually greater reception of new members than at any other period; increased attendance.

Eastern Orthodox — First and last full weeks of Lent, and on Wednesdays and Fridays, no cheese, fish, eggs or milk; no meat entire 40 days; on Good Friday, no food, only tea, water or juices; special services each night and on Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Methodists — Mission offerings in "week of dedication" this week; special "upper room" devotional programs recorded for broadcast over 800 stations through Lent; special devotional literature distributed; stimulated attendance; evangelistic emphasis, with large reception of new members, often on Palm Sunday; additional worship services week-days and Sunday nights.

Friends (Quakers) — No special observances, except participation in interdenominational prayer days and giving.

Roman Catholic — For adults, meat at only one meal each day (except Sunday) during Lent; other meals light; no meat Ash Wednesday, any Fridays, or Ember Wednesday, March 10, or Ember Saturday, March 13; parish teaching missions; higher incidence of converts; American bishops urge daily mass; frequent Holy Communion, generous giving to charity; self-denial regarding alcoholic drink and worldly amusements.

American Baptists — Nightly services in some cases; others, special midweek worship; training classes for new members, leading to Easter baptism; accelerated attendance; Sunday night worship in some churches where ordinarily not held; preaching stresses self-sacrifice and service.

Lutherans — Additional midweek services, stressing events leading to crucifixion; special devotional studies and reading; emphasis on self-denial and giving more in service to faith.

Christian Scientists — No special observances.

Episcopalians — Lent termed "a season of fasting and abstinence," but no dietary rules specified; emphasis on learning and reading to strengthen faith; setting aside distracting interests, and more spiritual devotion; extra weekday services, with guest ministers, special vestments; sanctuary cross veiled in black Good Friday; Holy Saturday, before Easter, a special day of baptism.

Presbyterians — Special study courses; increased weekday and Sunday evening worship; some churches hold nightly services in last week; fewer church suppers or socials; preaching more centered on Bible and life of Christ.

Latter-Day Saints — No special observances.

Disciples of Christ — Emphasis on evangelism; reception of new members usually highest on Palm Sunday, preceding Easter, of any time of year; attendance greater throughout Lent; preaching emconsecration and self-sacrifice.

"Fighting Friars" Using Motor Scooters, Cars To Combat Reds In Northern Italy

By FRANK BRUTTO

BOLOGNA, Italy, March 4 (AP)—A score of priests have taken to motor scooters and automobiles to fight communism in this Red stronghold of northern Italy.

They are selected for broad shoulders as well as their knowledge of theology and social science. Their official name is Fraternitas, but they have become known as Flying Friars.

They criticize "abusive capitalism" as well, but their job essentially is to fight Communists on their own ground.

"They don't search for us in the churches," said one of the friars, "so we go after them in the piazzas."

Their most common tactics is to take one of their automobiles, equipped with loud speakers, into a small-town square or a crossroads meeting to confound some Red orator.

The immediate leader is the Rev. Tommaso Toschi, a husky Franciscan who was a parish priest of Monte Caleraro, near here. One day last November, while he was speaking in the town square, a passing prelate paused to listen. The prelate was Bologna's two-fisted, 62-year-old archbishop, Giacomo Cardinal Lercaro. His archdiocese is in the center of the Emilia region's Red belt. Bologna is known as "the Red". Its mayor is a Communist.

"Fraternitas" grew out of Cardinal Lercaro's talk with Father Toschi. The Flying Friars began their work with an ancient borrowed automobile. Their work still is a shoe-string operation, although they have acquired three small station wagons and several motor scooters, paid for by private contributions and church funds.

Their headquarters is in Bologna's outskirt monastery and church of the Most Holy Annunciation. There, in sparsely furnished rooms, the monks live and plan their moves.

They are mostly in their 30s. Energetic and aggressive, they have been chosen from the Franciscan Minor, Capuchin, Dominican, Servants of Mary, Salesian, Sacred Heart and Lateran canons religious orders. Highly educated, they also can speak in the colloquial dialect of the area.

They have no regular assignments. At a moment's notice they may be sent to intervene in a political gathering to answer Red accusations or promises. Or they may be dispatched to say mass in some distant hamlet, where the parish priest is old or sick, or where there may be none. Also, they organize shows or present educational movies.

"We have nothing to do with any political party—not even the Christian Democrat," they say.

"We are not hunting votes, but lost, strayed souls. We want to restore respect for religion. If necessary, we are ready to begin at the beginning . . . as in a mission land of infidels. We are fighting for heaven, not for Parliament."

A major aspect of the Flying Friars' task is to move the priesthood against "abusive capitalism," described in their catechism as "the true despot."

At San Giovanni, Father Toschi helped rice workers win a pay increase. The Communists later tried to take credit. At Copparo, in the Ferrara zone—another Communist stronghold—a friar appeared to speak on the theme "Who betrays and who serves the working class."

Some in the crowd jeered, "Go say your rosary."

Fighting spirit up, the friar retorted: "Al rusari al dig quand am per me."

Italians of Rome would not have known what he meant. But at Copparo it meant, roughly, "Don't tell me when to say my rosary; I say it when I wish."

The people cheered, then listened.

The United States accounts for only about six per cent of the world's population, but accounts for more than 85 per cent of the world's coffee consumption.

Firemen Repair Broken Alarm System Wiring

Tree Grounds Circuit In South Cumberland

High winds and wet weather were believed responsible for a break in the fire alarm system in South End yesterday which temporarily knocked out calls from fire boxes in the area, Chief Virgil A. Parker said.

Parker said firemen worked six to eight hours tracing the break in the line before locating the trouble early in the afternoon at the junction of Oldtown Road and Memorial Avenue.

Explaining the alarm system, Chief Parker pointed out that the call boxes are on "closed" circuits throughout the city. Alarms go through the station located in the area of the box, as well as into Central's main board, thus alerting the entire Fire Department.

Were Grounded On Tree

The break, caused when the alarm system's wiring became entangled in a tree and was grounded, actually did not close out all calls but cut off the circuit between South End and Central so the main control board could not receive an alarm from South Cumberland.

When the break showed on the meters on the main control board at Fire Headquarters, firemen immediately bridged out the separate circuits from the city's four stations and cut in each circuit individually on the main control board. When the break showed up on the meter on South End's circuit firemen set out to find the trouble.

Using a small magneto box which locates breaks in the circuit, the Fire Department electrician traced the 33 miles of wire in the South End circuit to find the break.

The magneo box contains a small generator which, when clamped to the main circuit, establishes contact and rings a bell on the box, thus indicating the circuit is all right. If the bell fails to ring the circuit is still broken and the break is located somewhere between the points where the box is hooked to the circuit, Parker explained. After the break was found, firemen cut the lines from the tree, freeing the wires.

Cumberland's fire alarm system has approximately 80 call boxes throughout the four sections guarded by East Side, West Side, South End and Central stations.

Emergency Warnings Issued

When a box alarm is turned in, Central and the station nearest the alarm are alerted. If a second alarm is turned in Central covers with an engine and the hook-and-ladder truck. Other stations are alerted to cover in event of another outbreak.

Because of the circuit break South End's only protection in case of a second alarm or another fire was by telephone.

When firemen discovered the break in the main circuit lines, hospitals, county home, radio stations and other establishments were alerted by phone calls from the Fire Department urging them to use a telephone in event of fire alarm because the alarm boxes were out of order.

Parker said last night the emergency alert was still in effect, although the trouble apparently has been cleared. The emergency measurs will be dropped today if no further trouble develops.

Inserts Planned For Waste Paper Containers Here

Metal inserts are being made for the Street Department for use in the 42 waste paper containers used in this city.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner, said the metal containers will replace cotton bags which have been used to line the devices.

The galvanized metal containers, officials said, will save time, be more sanitary and will save money within a few years.

The new interliners made locally, will cost $12.50 each. Cotton bags cost $1.50 each and must be replaced several times a year as they rot quickly when wet and are destroyed when lighted cigarets are dropped into the containers.

At Allegany, J. Hubert Radcliffe conducted his sample a little differently.

Radcliffe found that only three per cent of the boys and none of the girls with driver education reported having been in an accident.

Among those without driver training, nine per cent of the boys and 16 per cent of the girls had been involved in an accident. None of the driver education graduates sampled had been arrested, whereas 14 per cent of the boys without training and none of the girls had accidents.

Only in the matter of police warnings did those without driving training at Allegany seem to rate nearly on a par. Of those with driver education experience, six per cent of the boys and eight per cent of the girls had received warnings from police. Among those without such training the warned percentages were eight each for both boys and girls.

Rizer explained that some 292 boys and girls from seven county schools are enrolled in driver education classes now. Among them are 90 at Fort Hill, 80 at Allegany, 38 at Beall, 26 each at Bruce and Valley, 22 at Mt. Savage and 10 at Carver.

The driver education program began locally in 1947 at Fort Hill and Allegany with Fritz and Radcliffe as the teachers. Raymond M. Sauder then started similar training at Beall, gradually expanded it to include other George's Creek area schools. He now divides his time between Beall and Bruce. Charles E. Waterman has been directing such classes at Carver about six years. Leslie C. Amtower has been in charge of Mt. Savage driver training two years and James D. Preaskorn has been directing the Valley High program for the first time this year.

Specially-equipped automobiles are furnished for the driver education classes by dealers, Eiler's in Cumberland and Green's in Frostburg. The first semester is confined to safety education in the classroom. Physical characteristics for safe driving such as vision, color blindness, reaction time and vision against glare are tested. In the second semester each pupil has 18 clock hours on the road including six hours of actual driving. This is an elective course and all students must be at least 16 years old, the legal age for driving.

Douglas Expedition To Start March 20

A walking and camping party which plans to make the 189-mile trek along the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal from Washington to Cumberland announced yesterday it probably will get started about March 20.

The party will be led by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Co-leaders of the journey will be Merlo Pusey and Robert Estabrook, editors of The Washington Post. Members of the party will consist of some of the country's leading conservationists, biologists, naturalists, historians, newspapermen, photographers and outdoor enthusiasts.

This unusual walking party resulted from a letter that Justice Douglas, long noted for his interest in the outdoors, wrote on January 17 to the Post editors regarding a modern highway proposal along the old canal. The highway is part of a parkway suggested in a 1950 report of the Department of the Interior in response to a 1948 request by the Congress for a reconnaissance survey of the canal site as a parkway possibility.

The Department estimated (in 1950) the cost of construction of the 168 miles at $17,107,000 which includes provision for 25 miles of four-lane highway, the remainder being two-lane; and also includes restoring water to 26 miles of the canal, reconditioning of historic structures, and a modest number of new buildings for recreation needs. About 4,764 acres were in government ownership in 1950, and at that time 11,900 acres more would be needed to bring the total up to 100 acres per mile, the standard needed for a parkway and its roadside recreational areas. The width of the government right-of-way varies from 30 feet to 900 feet and averages 230 feet. The roadway would be about 32 feet wide.

Among those, at this time, who have tentatively accepted invitations to make the hike are the following:

Olaus J. Murie, Moose, Wyo., president of The Wilderness Society, a conservation organization dedicated to preservation of wilderness areas throughout the United States; Howard Zahniser, executive secretary of The Wilderness Society and editor of The Living Wilderness; Harvey Broome, lawyer, Knoxville, Tenn., a leader of the Smoky Mountains Hiking Club who is vice president of The Wilderness Society; Irston Barnes, ornithologist, and president of the Washington Audubon Society; Paul Schaefer, conservationist, president of The Friends of the Forest Preserve, Schenectady, N. Y.; Drew Chick, naturalist, The National Capital Parks Service; Anthony W. Smith, chairman, conservation committee of the CIO, Washington; Sigurd Olson, biologist, Ely, Minn., president of the National Parks Association, and Prof. Walter J. Sanderlin, Washington, Pa., author of a history of the valley and canal, called "The Great National Project."

In Africa, a Zulu woman may have a divorce summons served on her husband by paying $1.25 to a native commissioner. A week later she may look for a new man.

Auto Damage Action Settled By Court

Papers were filed in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon noting Court Wednesday noting settlement of a damage action as a result of a car accident on U. S. Route 40 near Hancock last April 23.

Donald Ware, who had filed suit through his father, Roy C. Ware, of Cresaptown, against Richard E. Braz, of the Bronx, New York, for $1,000 damage for injuries received in the crash of a car he was riding in and one driven by Braz, claimed his nose was broken and he also suffered back and chest injuries.

Walter C. Capper, this city, was attorney for the defendant.

Firemen Repair Broken Alarm System Wiring

Tree Grounds Circuit In South Cumberland

High winds and wet weather were believed responsible for a break in the fire alarm system in South End yesterday which temporarily knocked out calls from fire boxes in the area, Chief Virgil A. Parker said.

Parker said firemen worked six to eight hours tracing the break in the line before locating the trouble early in the afternoon at the junction of Oldtown Road and Memorial Avenue.

Explaining the alarm system, Chief Parker pointed out that the call boxes are on "closed" circuits throughout the city. Alarms go through the station located in the area of the box, as well as into Central's main board, thus alerting the entire Fire Department.

Were Grounded On Tree

The break, caused when the alarm system's wiring became entangled in a tree and was grounded, actually did not close out all calls but cut off the circuit between South End and Central so the main control board could not receive an alarm from South Cumberland.

When the break showed on the meters on the main control board at Fire Headquarters, firemen immediately bridged out the separate circuits from the city's four stations and cut in each circuit individually on the main control board. When the break showed up on the meter on South End's circuit firemen set out to find the trouble.

Using a small magneto box which locates breaks in the circuit, the Fire Department electrician traced the 33 miles of wire in the South End circuit to find the break.

The magneo box contains a small generator which, when clamped to the main circuit, establishes contact and rings a bell on the box, thus indicating the circuit is all right. If the bell fails to ring the circuit is still broken and the break is located somewhere between the points where the box is hooked to the circuit, Parker explained. After the break was found, firemen cut the lines from the tree, freeing the wires.

Cumberland's fire alarm system has approximately 80 call boxes throughout the four sections guarded by East Side, West Side, South End and Central stations.

Emergency Warnings Issued

When a box alarm is turned in, Central and the station nearest the alarm are alerted. If a second alarm is turned in Central covers with an engine and the hook-and-ladder truck. Other stations are alerted to cover in event of another outbreak.

Because of the circuit break South End's only protection in case of a second alarm or another fire was by telephone.

When firemen discovered the break in the main circuit lines, hospitals, county home, radio stations and other establishments were alerted by phone calls from the Fire Department urging them to use a telephone in event of fire alarm because the alarm boxes were out of order.

Parker said last night the emergency alert was still in effect, although the trouble apparently has been cleared. The emergency measurs will be dropped today if no further trouble develops.

Inserts Planned For Waste Paper Containers Here

Metal inserts are being made for the Street Department for use in the 42 waste paper containers used in this city.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner, said the metal containers will replace cotton bags which have been used to line the devices.

The galvanized metal containers, officials said, will save time, be more sanitary and will save money within a few years.

The new interliners made locally, will cost $12.50 each. Cotton bags cost $1.50 each and must be replaced several times a year as they rot quickly when wet and are destroyed when lighted cigarets are dropped into the containers.

Next Election Will Bring Cumberland Its First Four-Year Mayor And City Council

Forty-seven different men have been chosen as chief executive of the Queen City since it was incorporated in 1816.

This year marks a change in the office. Cumberland's mayor, for the first time in history, will serve a four-year term.

Cumberland was incorporated by an act of the General Assembly in January 1815 and provided for the appointment of councilmen who would choose a mayor from their group.

The law provided for the first election of five commissioners on June 1816 and elections thereafter annually in June.

The first mayor chosen by the councilmen was John Scott. In January 1834 the town limits were extended by the legislature and an act amended the 1815 law to provide for the election of seven councilmen. The councilmen were still to select one of their members as mayor. The first mayor elected under this system was John Gephart.

It was not until January 1874 that drastic changes were made in the city government. This year the General Assembly divided the city into six wards and provided for the election of a mayor and 12 councilmen.

The first election under this form of government was in May 1874 and the first mayor to be chosen by a popular vote of the citizens was William R. McCulley.

Again in 1910 the charter was amended by the General Assembly to change the type of government from the alderman-form, or ward system, to the commission type.

Under this, four commissioners and a mayor were elected. This is the type Cumberland still retains. George G. Young was the first mayor under this setup.

In the 1952 election the charter proposal providing for a city manager was defeated.

The mayor chosen in the general election Tuesday, June 14, will be the first to serve four years.

As far as tenure is concerned, Dr. Thomas W. Koon holds the record for both the number of years in office and the number of times elected mayor.

Dr. Koon was first chosen mayor in 1914 and he was re-elected nine consecutive terms. In 1932 in one of the hardest fought city battles of recent years, the doctor was defeated by George Henderson, now an associate judge of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mayor Roger Perry, it has been pointed out, served ten terms. He was one of the commissioners who originally surveyed Cumberland before its incorporation. In addition to being the chief burgess, he went to the General Assembly four terms.

Thomas Shriver was elected seven years following 1843. He was an engineer who worked on railroad construction.

John Scott, the city's first mayor, or chief burgess, was named for six one-year terms by the aldermen between 1816 and 1822.

John Gephart, the first chief executive to be elected by a popular vote, was chosen two times—in 1835 and 1842.

A five termer was John Humbird who was elected in 1860, 1866, 1867 and 1868 in regular elections. In 1875 he was elected to fill the vacancy of W. R. McCulley who died December 4, 1874, after being re-elected to a second term, and served during 1875.

Thomas S. Post, who was Cumberland's mayor from 1944 until 1952, being selected four times, is currently "taking a vacation from politics" at his farm in West Virginia.

The average male lion weighs about 500 pounds.

Local Officials, W. Va. SRC To Discuss Road Work

Cumberland and Ridgeley municipal officials will confer with the West Virginia State Roads Commission in Charleston Monday concerning the relocation of Route 28 during future flood protection work in the West Virginia town.

Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, and Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor, will accompany Jesse Simmons, town advisor and member of the town Ridgeley flood protection committee.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said Simmons arranged for the session that will discuss the coordination of the West Virginia SRC's plans for Route 28 in Ridgeley and the Corps of Army Engineers work on the highway.

Affected by both plans will be about 600 feet between Mulligan Street and Lyons Street.

According to Nuzum, the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection design calls for levees to be erected on the West Virginia side, necessitating the relocation of Route 28 at Mulligan Street and the town's main street. This will eliminate a sharp curve.

The City of Cumberland, which under the flood works agreement, has to purchase land for rights of way and also to replace all streets or alleys torn up in the project in Ridgeley.

Nuzum said it is understood the West Virginia SRC has in its future program a different plan for the S curve section of Ridgeley that covers Bridge Street, Mulligan Street and Route 28.

Under this situation any relocation of the highway by the City of Cumberland would be torn up at a latter date by the State of West Virginia when it undertakes its project for this route.

Next Election Will Bring Cumberland Its First Four-Year Mayor And City Council

Forty-seven different men have been chosen as chief executive of the Queen City since it was incorporated in 1816.

This year marks a change in the office. Cumberland's mayor, for the first time in history, will serve a four-year term.

Cumberland was incorporated by an act of the General Assembly in January 1815 and provided for the appointment of councilmen who would choose a mayor from their group.

The law provided for the first election of five commissioners on June 1816 and elections thereafter annually in June.

The first mayor chosen by the councilmen was John Scott. In January 1834 the town limits were extended by the legislature and an act amended the 1815 law to provide for the election of seven councilmen. The councilmen were still to select one of their members as mayor. The first mayor elected under this system was John Gephart.

It was not until January 1874 that drastic changes were made in the city government. This year the General Assembly divided the city into six wards and provided for the election of a mayor and 12 councilmen.

The first election under this form of government was in May 1874 and the first mayor to be chosen by a popular vote of the citizens was William R. McCulley.

Again in 1910 the charter was amended by the General Assembly to change the type of government from the alderman-form, or ward system, to the commission type.

Under this, four commissioners and a mayor were elected. This is the type Cumberland still retains. George G. Young was the first mayor under this setup.

In the 1952 election the charter proposal providing for a city manager was defeated.

The mayor chosen in the general election Tuesday, June 14, will be the first to serve four years.

As far as tenure is concerned, Dr. Thomas W. Koon holds the record for both the number of years in office and the number of times elected mayor.

Dr. Koon was first chosen mayor in 1914 and he was re-elected nine consecutive terms. In 1932 in one of the hardest fought city battles of recent years, the doctor was defeated by George Henderson, now an associate judge of the Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mayor Roger Perry, it has been pointed out, served ten terms. He was one of the commissioners who originally surveyed Cumberland before its incorporation. In addition to being the chief burgess, he went to the General Assembly four terms.

Thomas Shriver was elected seven years following 1843. He was an engineer who worked on railroad construction.

John Scott, the city's first mayor, or chief burgess, was named for six one-year terms by the aldermen between 1816 and 1822.

John Gephart, the first chief executive to be elected by a popular vote, was chosen two times—in 1835 and 1842.

A five termer was John Humbird who was elected in 1860, 1866, 1867 and 1868 in regular elections. In 1875 he was elected to fill the vacancy of W. R. McCulley who died December 4, 1874, after being re-elected to a second term, and served during 1875.

Thomas S. Post, who was Cumberland's mayor from 1944 until 1952, being selected four times, is currently "taking a vacation from politics" at his farm in West Virginia.

The average male lion weighs about 500 pounds.

Local Officials, W. Va. SRC To Discuss Road Work

Cumberland and Ridgeley municipal officials will confer with the West Virginia State Roads Commission in Charleston Monday concerning the relocation of Route 28 during future flood protection work in the West Virginia town.

Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, and Thomas B. Finan, city solicitor, will accompany Jesse Simmons, town advisor and member of the town Ridgeley flood protection committee.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said Simmons arranged for the session that will discuss the coordination of the West Virginia SRC's plans for Route 28 in Ridgeley and the Corps of Army Engineers work on the highway.

Affected by both plans will be about 600 feet between Mulligan Street and Lyons Street.

According to Nuzum, the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection design calls for levees to be erected on the West Virginia side, necessitating the relocation of Route 28 at Mulligan Street and the town's main street. This will eliminate a sharp curve.

The City of Cumberland, which under the flood works agreement, has to purchase land for rights of way and also to replace all streets or alleys torn up in the project in Ridgeley.

Nuzum said it is understood the West Virginia SRC has in its future program a different plan for the S curve section of Ridgeley that covers Bridge Street, Mulligan Street and Route 28.

Under this situation any relocation of the highway by the City of Cumberland would be torn up at a latter date by the State of West Virginia when it undertakes its project for this route.

Beall Opposes Drainage In Bay

Senator J. Glenn Beall, of Maryland, yesterday called on the United States Bureau of Mines for a full report on its proposal to drain Pennsylvania coal mines into the Chesapeake Bay.

The Senator said that "as long as I am a member of the Senate, and a member of the committee on public works, I will do everything I can to see that not one drop of the polluted water goes into the Chesapeake Bay."

In a statement following his demand for a full report on the proposal from the Bureau of Mines, he said:

"To the best of my knowledge there is no sure way of protecting streams and other waters from pollution by mine waste, and the Chesapeake Bay is too valuable a resource to leave to the chance or declarations that it is big enough to take care of itself."

He referred to earlier statements attributed to officials of the Bureau of Mines that the bay was a large enough body of water to disperse any injurious ingredients.

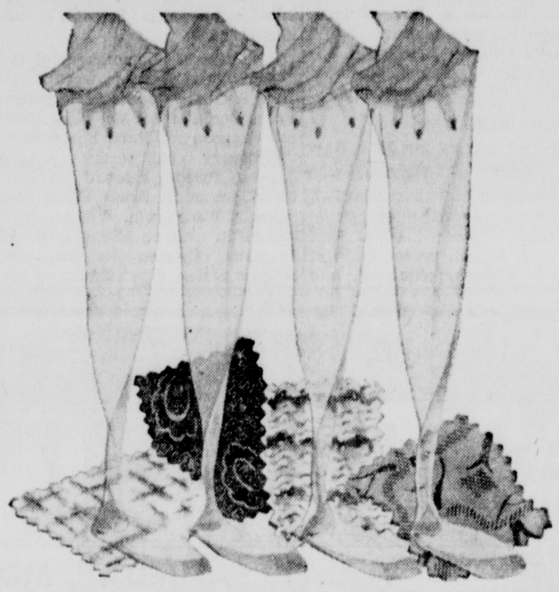
Senator Beall, however, said that the bureau's proposal "should be carefully studied by every agency of the state and federal governments concerned with conservation of natural resources, and also citizens who make a living from the bay's resources, or who use it for recreational purposes."

January Road Work Costs County $18,276

The Allegany County Roads Department spent $18,276.42 for the repair and maintenance of roads and bridges and snow removal during January, according to a report filed with the county commissioners yesterday by J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor.

Snow removal costs were $8,307.21 while road and bridge work expenditures amounted to $9,756.31. Expense at the shop and yard totaled $212.90.

Labor costs during the period were $13,399.21, materials were $1,661.50 and equipment costs were $3,215.71. Besides the snow removal the county road crews spread salt, cinders and calcium during the wintry weather of January. Cleaning of roadside ditches and drainage pipes took up most of the time when snow removal was not necessary.



For smartness in prints, choose the hosiery color that assures you of a "costumed look!"

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It takes no great artistry to accessorize a print dress interestingly—yet many a costume falls to pieces because its owner failed to consider the importance of the shade of hosiery worn with it.

Something almost like a small revolution has been taking place in stocking colors. Consequently, you will find more definite coloring in stockings this season than ever before. Yet, definite as the coloring is, it is always subtle and sufficiently muted to be flattering and in good taste.

Choice To Make

Consider for a moment, the black and white print, always a prime darling of fashion. What shade of stocking would you choose with it? Well, if you wish to look as new as the season, your shade of hose would be a shadowy black.

With blue prints, perhaps several grouped on a white ground or a print combining the new dissonant shades of royal, turquoise or violet hosiery of the new navy blue shade would be sure to put the stamp of fashion on your costume.

Red prints in two or three intensities, mostly cerise and cardinal hues, are flashing on the current scene. Stockings with pink or rose undertones will reflect the glow of your costume to give it a smart finish.

Yellow prints are blossoming everywhere with dappled flower and citrus shades. Whether your is one of the pale tones or among those verging on orange red, choose the new gold-toned hosiery and you will be most attractive.

One-color Effect

Since the one-color effect from top to stem is what coordinates the print into a costumed finish, it is decidedly unwise to attempt to select the hose you will wear with a new print unless you actually get the two together.

So great is the variation in shades, you cannot rely on your eye's memory to guide you in making the perfect choice. There are, for instance, in the yellow range such variations as summer apricot highlight and vibrant nasturtium, just to mention a few. Don't think that they are different merely in name! Each has a character of its own and choosing the right one is definitely up to you.

36 To Receive Draft Physicals

Cumberland draft boards have received orders to send 36 registrants to Fairmont (W.Va.) for physical examinations this month.

Clerk Coordinator P. Emmett Fahey said 18 men will depart next Thursday at 7 a. m. from the Union Street County Building via chartered bus. The contingent will be made up of those who served less than six months in the armed forces.

Fahey explained the group previously was released from military service due to physical disabilities.

Board 27 will dispatch six men March 11; Board 28, five and Board 29, seven. Frostburg Board 30 will send 13 for tests the same day.

On March 25, examinations will be given at Fairmont to 10 registrants of Board 27, four each in Boards 28 and 29, and 15 from the Frostburg board.

Sixteen Allegany County men reported yesterday in Fairmont for induction.

The Department of Defense had requested Selective Service to provide 18,000 Marylanders for Army duty during March.

Fahey said the state induction call was the same as last month's. The monthly call for the seven months preceding February was for 23,000. The small 18,000 order was reportedly due to the relatively small turnover in the Army.

Firm Begins Work On Local Building

The firm of J. F. Valentine and Sons of Ridgeley has begun refacing work on the three-story brick property from 40 to 48 North Centre Street.

According to the building permit issued in the city engineer's office, the work will entail removal of wood sills from windows and repointing brick.

A one-story wooden protective shelter has been erected over the sidewalk to keep debris from falling on pedestrians.

Cumberland draft boards have received orders to send 36 registrants to Fairmont (W.Va.) for physical examinations this month.

Clerk Coordinator P. Emmett Fahey said 18 men will depart next Thursday at 7 a. m. from the Union Street County Building via chartered bus. The contingent will be made up of those who served less than six months in the armed forces.

Fahey explained the group previously was released from military service due to physical disabilities.

Board 27 will dispatch six men March 11; Board 28, five and Board 29, seven. Frostburg Board 30 will send 13 for tests the same day.

On March 25, examinations will be given at Fairmont to 10 registrants of Board 27, four each in Boards 28 and 29, and 15 from the Frostburg board.

Sixteen Allegany County men reported yesterday in Fairmont for induction.

The Department of Defense had requested Selective Service to provide 18,000 Marylanders for Army duty during March.

Fahey said the state induction call was the same as last month's. The monthly call for the seven months preceding February was for 23,000. The small 18,000 order was reportedly due to the relatively small turnover in the Army.

Firm Begins Work On Local Building

The firm of J. F. Valentine and Sons of Ridgeley has begun refacing work on the three-story brick property from 40 to 48 North Centre Street.

According to the building permit issued in the city engineer's office, the work will entail removal of wood sills from windows and repointing brick.

A one-story wooden protective shelter has been erected over the sidewalk to keep debris from falling on pedestrians.

Governor Calls Meeting On Bay Pollution

Will Study Mine Waste Problem

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin announced tonight he has called a meeting of interested department and agency heads for tomorrow to consider action in connection with a proposal to empty Pennsylvania mine water into Chesapeake Bay.

The governor said in a statement each department and agency represented will be asked to conduct separate studies of the situation as rapidly as possible and report back to him.

The meeting has been set for 10 a.m. in the governor's Annapolis office.

Both house of the Legislature this week expressed alarm at the federal government proposal in resolution forms.

Pennsylvania mine interests said that if the mine water is not pumped out the mines will be flooded out of existence within 10 years. The plan proposed by the U.S. Bureau of Mines is to pump the water into the bay at the rate of 325,000 gallons a minute through a tunnel from Scranton, Pa. It would be carried to a point below Conowingo Dam.

Legislators rose quickly to the fight Monday, saying they protested use of Chesapeake Bay as a dumping ground for polluted water from neighboring states.

Resolutions were introduced in each house of the Legislature and were quickly adopted. They charged such a practice would be extremely destructive to marine and plant life in the bay, "Maryland's greatest natural resource."

S. H. Ash of the Bureau of Mines claimed the water would be neutralized "in no time" and would not be harmful.

M'Carthy Says Reds In Army Should Be On Latrine Duty

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) thought for a moment today he had the answer to what to do with Communists in the Army—put them on latrine duty.

A witness before his investigating subcommittee, Pfc. Marvin S. Belsky, had refused to say whether he was a Communist. Belsky said he was a doctor but had been refused a commission. Asked about his duties, he said he was doing various medical tasks around an Army hospital at Waltham, Mass., and also performing the work of an enlisted man, including latrine duty.

"In the answer to that question," McCarthy remarked, "we may have found the solution to what the Army should do with Communists in the Army."

A moment later McCarthy said his comment should be stricken from the record and it was.

Latrine duty amounts to mopping and otherwise cleaning toilets, lavatories and showers.

Pastor Talked Wife Into Entering Contest

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 4 (AP)—What does a church pastor think about his wife entering the Mrs. America contest?

"He talked me into it," says Mrs. Betty Jane Bell. "It was his idea."

Mrs. Bell's husband, the Rev. Robert Bell, is pastor of the First Christian Church in Cheyenne. They came here about a year ago from Springfield, Mo., where he was pastor for three years.

Not only is her husband behind the idea of her entering the contest, but the church congregation also approves.

"There's been some talk about it, but no one seems to be opposed," Mrs. Bell said. "In fact, a lot of the church members have volunteered to help me all they can."

The Bells have two sons, James, 3½, and Jerry 1½.

Md. Legislative Council Gets 4 New Members

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—Four new members, two from the Senate and two from the House, were named to Maryland's Legislative Council today.

New Senate members are John Grason Turnbull (D-Balto County), chairman of the Judicial Proceedings Committee and William Mason Shehan (D-Talbot).

New members from the House are Charles Awdry Thompson (D-Dorchester), majority floor leader, and J. Paull Marshall (R-Montgomery).

Others appointed by the president of the Senate and speaker of the House today just before adjournment are:

Legislature Praised By Gov. McKeldin

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin congratulated the Legislature tonight and said he was "particularly proud" it had approved self-government for the cities and counties.

In a farewell message to the General Assembly he declared he "may not agree with the wisdom" of some of its budget cuts. But he said his administration would "with good management seek to do all in our power to avoid any serious lessening of services essential to our citizens."

The Legislature trimmed almost a million dollars from the 238-million appropriations bill McKeldin submitted a month ago.

Baltimore Shipyard May Close In Fall

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP)—Bethlehem's Sparrows Point shipyard, world record holders for delivered tonnage in 1953, announced today it is faced with the possibility of suspending operations for the last quarter of this year.

Vice President D. D. Strohmeier said the prospect is imminent unless new business develops immediately. The yard employs 3,500.

He reported the yard delivered ten ships with a combined deadweight of 218,860 long tons last year, and termed it the highest total for any shipyard in the world. Strohmeier cited statistics of the American Bureau of Shipping as his authority.

This year's deliveries should total about 210,000 tons, but the backlog is whittled down to where operations will be finished by October, under current conditions.

Student Is State's "Citizen Of Year"

WESTMINSTER, Md., March 4 (AP)—Miss Arlene Krimgold, Mt. Airy High School pupil, has been named Maryland's Good Citizen of the Year by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She will be awarded a $100 bond at the state DAR conference March 10 in Baltimore.

Miss Krimgold won the competition on the basis of her paper on "the John Evans House" and her answers to a questionaire on constitution and government.

Pollack Backs Trial Plea With Clippings

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP) — James H. (Jack) Pollack today filed in Criminal Court exhibits of newspaper clippings to back up a petition to have his trial moved from here to an outlying county court.

The Democratic political leader of Baltimore's Fourth District is charged with trying to obstruct justice in the recent morals trial of the son of Mayor D'Alesandro.

Pollack is accused of attempting to influence the testimony of a witness in that trial in which the youth was found innocent.

Pollack and Mayor D'Alesandro are political associates.

Moon Search Might Ultimately Tie In With Idea Of 'Station' In Space

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—An Army ordnance scientists said today a search for natural "space satellites" might ultimately tie in with the idea of establishing a permanent "station" in space. But he declared a more immediate outgrowth of the research might be the development of instruments to aid in the operation of guided missiles.

Dr. Ervin H. Bramhall of the Ordnance Department's Research and Development Division was referring to a project disclosed yesterday by scientists at White Sands, N.M.

He said the project is aimed at "discovering any satellites (moons) of the earth or any rapidly-moving (celestial) objects which may well have escaped detection."

Asked if the Ordnance Department had in mind utilizing any such satellites as "stepping stones" to establishing an "artificial satellite" station in space, Dr. Bramhall said:

"It's a little premature to be talking about space stations. Certainly that is not an immediate purpose of this research, although maybe we'd be thinking of such things in about five years. On the whole, the idea is pretty fanciful."

But he said that if some natural, previously-undetected satellite or "moon" of the earth were discovered, "this would presumably take the place of an artificial satellite."

He said the primary purpose of the research is to gain new knowledge of the universe "as a means of obtaining better understanding of matter and forces — understanding which is difficult to obtain on the earth."

Legislature Praised By Gov. McKeldin

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin congratulated the Legislature tonight and said he was "particularly proud" it had approved self-government for the cities and counties.

In a farewell message to the General Assembly he declared he "may not agree with the wisdom" of some of its budget cuts. But he said his administration would "with good management seek to do all in our power to avoid any serious lessening of services essential to our citizens."

The Legislature trimmed almost a million dollars from the 238-million appropriations bill McKeldin submitted a month ago.

Baltimore Shipyard May Close In Fall

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP)—Bethlehem's Sparrows Point shipyard, world record holders for delivered tonnage in 1953, announced today it is faced with the possibility of suspending operations for the last quarter of this year.

Vice President D. D. Strohmeier said the prospect is imminent unless new business develops immediately. The yard employs 3,500.

He reported the yard delivered ten ships with a combined deadweight of 218,860 long tons last year, and termed it the highest total for any shipyard in the world. Strohmeier cited statistics of the American Bureau of Shipping as his authority.

This year's deliveries should total about 210,000 tons, but the backlog is whittled down to where operations will be finished by October, under current conditions.

Student Is State's "Citizen Of Year"

WESTMINSTER, Md., March 4 (AP)—Miss Arlene Krimgold, Mt. Airy High School pupil, has been named Maryland's Good Citizen of the Year by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

She will be awarded a $100 bond at the state DAR conference March 10 in Baltimore.

Miss Krimgold won the competition on the basis of her paper on "the John Evans House" and her answers to a questionaire on constitution and government.

Pollack Backs Trial Plea With Clippings

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP) — James H. (Jack) Pollack today filed in Criminal Court exhibits of newspaper clippings to back up a petition to have his trial moved from here to an outlying county court.

The Democratic political leader of Baltimore's Fourth District is charged with trying to obstruct justice in the recent morals trial of the son of Mayor D'Alesandro.

Pollack is accused of attempting to influence the testimony of a witness in that trial in which the youth was found innocent.

Pollack and Mayor D'Alesandro are political associates.

Moon Search Might Ultimately Tie In With Idea Of 'Station' In Space

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—An Army ordnance scientists said today a search for natural "space satellites" might ultimately tie in with the idea of establishing a permanent "station" in space. But he declared a more immediate outgrowth of the research might be the development of instruments to aid in the operation of guided missiles.

Dr. Ervin H. Bramhall of the Ordnance Department's Research and Development Division was referring to a project disclosed yesterday by scientists at White Sands, N.M.

He said the project is aimed at "discovering any satellites (moons) of the earth or any rapidly-moving (celestial) objects which may well have escaped detection."

Asked if the Ordnance Department had in mind utilizing any such satellites as "stepping stones" to establishing an "artificial satellite" station in space, Dr. Bramhall said:

"It's a little premature to be talking about space stations. Certainly that is not an immediate purpose of this research, although maybe we'd be thinking of such things in about five years. On the whole, the idea is pretty fanciful."

But he said that if some natural, previously-undetected satellite or "moon" of the earth were discovered, "this would presumably take the place of an artificial satellite."

He said the primary purpose of the research is to gain new knowledge of the universe "as a means of obtaining better understanding of matter and forces — understanding which is difficult to obtain on the earth."

District Basketball Tourney Opens Today At Fort Hill

Campers Meet Hagerstown In Feature Game

Bruce And Smithsburg Clash At 4:30; Three Night Tilts Carded

Bruce High School's Bulldogs and Smithsburg High's Smitties of Washington County will launch the Maryland District No. 1 basketball tournament today when they clash at 4:30 o'clock on the Fort Hill High School court.

The Westernport quint and Smithsburg are two of four schools competing for district Class "B" honors. Bruce swept through everything in the state to win the title last year.

Other Class B schools in tonight's tourney, Northern, of Accident and Brunswick High, of Frederick County, will open the night triple-header at 6:30 o'clock.

Cadets Meet Southern

The second night contest will bring together Coach Homer Brooks' Frederick High Cadets and the Southern High Highlanders of Oakland at 8 o'clock, in a Class A tilt.

As a climax to the opening day's program, Hagerstown High School will do battle with Allegany High School's Campers at 9:30 o'clock in a Class A contest.

Coach Augie Eichhorn's Bulldogs from Bruce enter tonight's semi-final with an 18-3 record. Smithsburg has won 10 of 14 games.

Frederick, which faces Southern, has a season record of 12 wins and nine losses while Southern High owns a record of eight wins and 13 losses. Northern High, Brunswick's foe, has won six and lost 14.

Clash Third Time

The Campers and Hubs will be meeting for the third time this season. Allegany, victorious in its last 12 starts, has a season record of 20 and 1, and holds 70-41 and 76-60 decisions over Coach Mel Henry's outfit. Hagerstown's record to date is 15 wins and five losses.

Finals of the district tournament are scheduled Saturday night.

McKevlin Award Goes To Selvy

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 4 (AP) — All-America Frank Selvy of Furman University received the McKevlin award tonight as Southern Conference Athlete of the year.

Charley Karmosky, sports editor of the Newport News, Va., Daily Press and vice-president of the Southern Conference Sports Writers Assn., made the presentation between games of the annual conference basketball tournament.

Selvy, with an average of 42.5 points a game this season, was the nation's leading college basketball scorer.

Ned Garver Signs

LAKELAND, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Tiger skipper Fred Hutchinson had all his pitchers in the fold today with the signing of righthander Ned Garver for a reported $22,000.

Garver, who drew $25,000 last year when he won 11 and lost 11, was one of Detroit's three holdouts. He was the critical one of the three.

Still holding out were infielders Johnny Pesky and Buddy Hicks.

Garver sat it out at his Ney, Ohio, home. He said he would arrive in camp early next week.

Coach Loeffler And All-America Tom Gola Will Speak At LaSalle Banquet March 28

Sports Awards Event Is Set For SS. Peter And Paul Parish Hall

Coach Kenneth Loeffler and Tom Gola, two-times All-America basketball player of LaSalle College, Philadelphia, will be the guest speakers at LaSalle High School's annual Sports Banquet to be held at SS. Peter and Paul parish hall, Sunday, March 28, at 6 p. m., it was announced last night by Brother Thomas, director of athletics at the local school.

Ken Loeffler

Arrangements for the appearance of Loeffler and Gola were completed yesterday by Brother Nicholas following a communication with the LaSalle College mentor at Philadelphia.

Made All-America Twice

Gola, spa plug of LaSalle's great basketball teams, made the Associated Press' All - America quint during the 1953 season as a sophomore and was a repeater this year. Other members of the 1954 All-America recently announced were Frank Selvy, Furman; Don Schlundt, Indiana; Bob Pettit, Louisiana State and Cliff Hagan, Kentucky. Gola is a resident of Philadelphia.

Loeffler, who hails from Pittsburgh, was an outstanding pro star with the Second Story Morrys back in the days of the Keyser Collegians, the Cumberland K. O. G. and Taylor A. A. and the Broadway A. C. of Meyersdale.

Under Loeffler's guidance, LaSalle College won the National Invitation Tournament at New York in 1952, defeating Dayton in the finals at Madison Square Garden, 75-64. Last ye: LaSalle lost out in the quarter-finals to St. John's of Brooklyn, 75-74.

TOM GOLA . . . All-America Player Of La Salle College

To Play In NCAA Games

The current "Explorers" from Philadelphia are ranked eighth in the AP national poll and 13th in the INS poll. This year LaSalle will vie in the NCAA tourney. LaSalle College is a Christian Brothers school like LaSalle High of Cumberland.

Harry Stuhldreher, one of Notre Dame University's "Four Horsemen" of gridiron fame, and now of the public relations department of the United States Steel Corporation, was the guest speaker at LaSalle's Sports Award Banquet last year.

Joseph Stakem will act as toastmaster at the March 28th banquet. Father Marius Elsener, O. F. M. Cap., pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church will give the invocation and Father Regis Larkin, of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, will pronounce the benediction.

Awards for baseball, basketball, football, rifle team, managers and cheerleaders will be presented.

The meal will be prepared and served by the Mothers Club of LaSalle.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 4 (INS) — Bret Harte knew "The Heathen Chinee" only as a pig-tailed gent who was handy with a frying pan or a wash boiler.

He certainly never dreamed that the wily oriental would ever figure prominently in the sports world.

But the fact is that the orientals are becoming more sports-minded every day. At least those who are now busily engaged in slitting one another's throats in China.

Of course, we knew that the Chinese Mongols had been superb horsemen for centuries; that the Japanese had had wrestlers in ancient times and that polo originated in India.

But we never thought that we would see the day when a Japanese kitei son, would win an olympic marathon, or that Japanese would turn out record-breaking swimmers, and that they, Chinese, Filipinos, Indians and Koreans would be at least contenders in tennis, football, baseball, track, swimming and even boxing.

Only recently, Dr. Sammy Lee, world champion diver, an American of Korean parentage, won the Sullivan award.

In recent years we have had stars from India, Filipinos, Japanese and Chinese playing in our national tennis tournament. The Japanese are more enthusiastic about baseball than we are. In fact, it is their national game.

We recall that Buck Lee had a long try-out with John McGraw's Giants more than 25 years ago and we have had any number of boys of oriental parentage playing football.

The orientals in Siam and other Asiatic countries have taken rapidly to basketball and the star of the U. S. Coast Guard team in New York is Hal Fong Yee, a Chinese boy from Sacramento who, incidentally, is the school's top engineering student.

The world champion flyweight today is Yoshio Shirai of Japan and the third ranking bantam is Chamrern Songkitrat of Thailand.

Benny Leonard knocked out one Ah Chung in six rounds more than 40 years ago. Some years ago there was a pretty good featherweight named Ling Sing Que who now owns a restaurant in Brooklyn and when not dishing out chow mein sells socks and ties to the fight mob.

Blinky Palermo is managing lightweight Jimmy Soo, an American of Chinese-Irish parentage.

And that reminds us that Lew Raymond was running a small fight club down around New York's Chinatown many years ago. Lew thought he could pack the house if he had a Chinese fighter on the card.

There was no Chinese available but a little thing like that never stopped Lew. He put on a slant-eyed light-skinned colored boy, gave him a Chinese name and packed the house to the rafters.

Lew's phony Chinese was knocked out in the first round and as the Chinese crowd was leaving, one of them grabbed Lew and said:

"That no China boy but maybe your own brother."

Hi Dee Club Women Beat Clingerman's

The Hi Dee Club won two out of three games from Clingerman's to open the six-game playoff for fourth place in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

The next three-game match between the teams is set for Wednesday night at Clingerman's.

Alvena Gibson was high scorer for Hi-Dee with 24 points while Evelyn Gray paced Clingerman's with 23 tallies.

SS. Peter-Paul Captures Title In CYO League

Trounces Mt. Savage For 19th Win In Row

SS. Peter and Paul quint sewed up the championship of the CYO Basketball League last night by posting its 19th consecutive victory of the season at the expense of St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 65-16.

Last night's triumph gave Coach Bob Mattingly's quint a 9-0 record for the second half race of the split season schedule with one more game to be played Sunday with St. Michael's at Frostburg. SS. Peter and Paul won the first half race with a record of ten consecutive victories.

St. Michael's of Frostburg had won the CYO League title for the past five years.

Coach Mattingly used his entire squad of 17 players in last night's game. The loss was Mt. Savage's 20th in a row.

St. Mary's defeated St. Patrick's, of Cumberland, last night on St. Mary's court to the tune of 45-26. Howell sparked the winners with 18 points while Imes equalled this performance for St. Patrick's.

St. Peter's, of Westernport, upset St. Michael's at Frostburg by the score of 47-44.

Joe Niland went on a scoring rampage for the Westernport quint and sparked the victors with 23 points on eight field goals and 7-12 fouls. Harris and Winfield collected 10 points each for St. Michael's.

Lions Lead In Wins • • • Old Home Week Here

Whitey Wenzel Dies • • • Haneke Changes Mind

By C. V. BURNS

WILLIAM "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High School basketball teams have won more games than any of the schools in the tri-state area over a three-season span.

"Huck" Miers

The Lions have rolled up 62 victories against 16 losses and they still have an opportunity to better that mark in state, regional and area contests.

Piedmont's 1952 quint bagged 20 out of 26, followed up with a 20-8 record last season and is 22-2 for the current campaign.

The Lions figure to scalp Wardensville in the opener of the regional tonight at Shepherd College.

WITH Mel Henry, Homer Brooks, Jr., Augie Eichhorn and Dean Walter L. Bowers present the Maryland District No. 1 basketball tournament at Fort Hill High School today will have all the appearances of "Old Home Week."

Homer Brooks, Jr., one of Prof. Bowers' former pupils, brings his Frederick High Cadets here for the Class "A" opener with Southern High of Oakland.

Mel Henry, a pupil of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, back in the Penn Avenue High School days, is tutor of the Hagerstown quint which engages Allegany in the last game of tonight's triple-header. Major Cavanaugh will be there helping direct the program.

And last but not least will be Augie Eichhorn, the mentor of the Bruce High Bulldogs who tackle Smithsburg in this afternoon's contest.

Augie was a pupil of Mel Henry back in 1943 when Central High of Lonaconing won the W.M.I. League title. Other members of that Orange and Black cast were Charley Miller, John Muster, Robert "Babe" Johnson, Charley Robertson, Jackie Morton, Bob Thomas, Adrian Anderson, Jim Steele and Bill Smith.

This is Brooks' 12th year of coaching. He spent one year at Elk Garden, two at Rowlesburg, four at Parsons and is now in his fifth at Frederick.

Henry broke in as mentor at Central in 1943 and was there for one season. He took over the football reins at Fort Hill in 1943, 1944 and 1945, served as backfield coach at Virginia Tech in 1947 and 1948 and has coached football and basketball at Hagerstown since 1949.

Eichhorn is the "freshman" of the mentors here for homecoming. He made his debut as soccer coach at Flintstone in 1950 and has handled soccer, basketball and baseball at Bruce since 1951.

Incidentally, both Henry and Eichhorn are former W.M.I. scoring champs. Mel paced the league in 1934 at Penn Avenue with 155 points while Eichhorn was the top man 10 years later when he slammed in 153 tallies while playing for Central.

KEN HOLLOWAY, diminutive forward, who will play for Smithsburg High against Bruce's Bulldogs in the District No. 1 tournament at Fort Hill this afternoon averaged 22.6 points a game, scoring 317 points in 14 contests.

Holloway's goal enabled the Smitties to edge Williamsport, 60-58, and thus qualify for the tourney. He scored 26 points in the final game, giving Smithsburg a 10-4 record for the season.

Charley Durbin, sharpshooting center of Southern High, Oakland, who will be seen in action against Frederick tonight, scored more points than any player in Western Maryland or nearby West Virginia this season—a grand total of 446 points in 21 games for an average of 21.2.

SPEAKING of high average players, Rod (Hot Rod) Hundley, the West Virginia U. freshman flash, posted a 34.04 mark for 22 games, rolling up a total of 749 tallies as Quentin Barnette's Little Mountaineers wound up the campaign with an 18-4 record.

AND here's another item from Morgantown:

Eddie Becker, who banked in 402 points for the West Virginia varsity quint, has been voted the outstanding player on the W.V.U. team this season, and has earned the Roger L. (Shorty) Hicks Memorial Trophy, awarded in honor of one of the stars of the 1942 N.I.T. championship team, who was killed in action in Europe during the war.

Eddie is a brother of Larry Becker, assistant grid mentor and varsity track coach at Allegany High School, and Gerald "Gee" Becker, who wowed 'em when he played for the Wheeling Blues in 1950 and romped off with the point scoring title in the All-American Pro Basketball League.

OTTO (Whitey) Wenzel, 60 prominent North Side middleweight boxer of 40 years ago, died in Pittsburgh the other day.

Our own Fay Keiser decisioned him a 10-round bout in 1915.

Wenzel boxed Harry Greb 12 times and won decisions over George Chip, middleweight king; Buck Crouse, Steve Choynski and Jack Burke and closed his career in a bout with Gene Tunney in 1922.

JACK GEORGE who played here several times against LaSalle basketball teams when he attended St. John's High School, the Christian Brothers School in Washington, D. C., has signed with the Philadelphia Athletics for an undisclosed bonus.

George, a catcher, is now 23-years-old, stands 6-feet-2 and tips the beam at 195. He starred in basketball at LaSalle College, Philadelphia, before he entered the Army. He is now with the Philadelphia Warriors pro quint of the NBA.

The A's are sending Jack to Lancaster of the Piedmont League, the same circuit in which Hagerstown is represented.

FROM Hagerstown comes word that the Fountain Head Country Club will not have a new golf pro after all.

Several weeks ago Arnold (Hank) Haneke reported that he was leaving his job to accept a similar position at the new Norbeck (Md.) Country Club near Washington.

Now Haneke has decided to continue his assignment at Hagerstown and Bill Buppert will stay as his assistant.

"Hank" didn't give any reason for his switch in plans.

Elkins Spills Parsons, 55-35, In Sectional

Tigers Score Upset, Shut Out Fairbanks, Advance To Regional

ELKINS, W. Va., March 4 — Elkins High School provided an upset tonight by beating the Parsons High School Panthers to the tune of 55-35 to win the Section 13, Class A basketball tournament.

The outcome of tonight's game came as a stunning surprise in view of the fact that Parsons had given the Tigers two sound trouncings, 56-43 and 61-43, during the regular season.

The contest highlighted by the defensive play of Coach Frank Wimer's aggregation which limited the Panthers to eleven field goals and blanked the high-scoring Terry Fairbanks from the field. The Parsons' scoring ace collected four points at the charity line. He fouled out in the final period.

Elkins racked up 22 field goals, Carver headed the attack with seven while Wilmoth had six and Wimer five. Carver tossed in 15 points and Wimer and Wilmoth garnered ten each.

The Tigers led at the quarters, 11-9, 24-18 and 43-27. The score was knotted at 13-13 and 15-all.

Phil Long was Parsons' high scorer with eight tallies.

The victory moved Elkins into the Region 4 Tournament next weekend at Davis and Elkins College. Lineups:

McKevlin Award Goes To Selvy

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 4 (AP) — All-America Frank Selvy of Furman University received the McKevlin award tonight as Southern Conference Athlete of the year.

Charley Karmosky, sports editor of the Newport News, Va., Daily Press and vice-president of the Southern Conference Sports Writers Assn., made the presentation between games of the annual conference basketball tournament.

Ned Garver Signs

LAKELAND, Fla., March 4 (AP)—Tiger skipper Fred Hutchinson had all his pitchers in the fold today with the signing of righthander Ned Garver for a reported $22,000.

Garver, who drew $25,000 last year when he won 11 and lost 11, was one of Detroit's three holdouts. He was the critical one of the three.

Still holding out were infielders Johnny Pesky and Buddy Hicks.

Garver sat it out at his Ney, Ohio, home. He said he would arrive in camp early next week.

Sports Awards Event Is Set For SS. Peter And Paul Parish Hall

Coach Kenneth Loeffler and Tom Gola, two-times All-America basketball player of LaSalle College, Philadelphia, will be the guest speakers at LaSalle High School's annual Sports Banquet to be held at SS. Peter and Paul parish hall, Sunday, March 28, at 6 p. m., it was announced last night by Brother Thomas, director of athletics at the local school.

Ken Loeffler

Arrangements for the appearance of Loeffler and Gola were completed yesterday by Brother Nicholas following a communication with the LaSalle College mentor at Philadelphia.

Made All-America Twice

Gola, spa plug of LaSalle's great basketball teams, made the Associated Press' All - America quint during the 1953 season as a sophomore and was a repeater this year. Other members of the 1954 All-America recently announced were Frank Selvy, Furman; Don Schlundt, Indiana; Bob Pettit, Louisiana State and Cliff Hagan, Kentucky. Gola is a resident of Philadelphia.

Loeffler, who hails from Pittsburgh, was an outstanding pro star with the Second Story Morrys back in the days of the Keyser Collegians, the Cumberland K. O. G. and Taylor A. A. and the Broadway A. C. of Meyersdale.

Under Loeffler's guidance, LaSalle College won the National Invitation Tournament at New York in 1952, defeating Dayton in the finals at Madison Square Garden, 75-64. Last ye. LaSalle lost out in the quarter-finals to St. John's of Brooklyn, 75-74.

TOM GOLA . . . All-America Player Of La Salle College

To Play In NCAA Games

The current "Explorers" from Philadelphia are ranked eighth in the AP national poll and 13th in the INS poll. This year LaSalle will vie in the NCAA tourney. LaSalle College is a Christian Brothers school like LaSalle High of Cumberland.

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, March 4 (INS) — Bret Harte knew "The Heathen Chinee" only as a pig-tailed gent who was handy with a frying pan or a wash boiler.

He certainly never dreamed that the wily oriental would ever figure prominently in the sports world.

But the fact is that the orientals are becoming more sports-minded every day. At least those who are now busily engaged in slitting one another's throats in China.

Of course, we knew that the Chinese Mongols had been superb horsemen for centuries; that the Japanese had had wrestlers in ancient times and that polo originated in India.

But we never thought that we would see the day when a Japanese kitei son, would win an olympic marathon, or that Japanese would turn out record-breaking swimmers, and that they, Chinese, Filipinos, Indians and Koreans would be at least contenders in tennis, football, baseball, track, swimming and even boxing.

Only recently, Dr. Sammy Lee, world champion diver, an American of Korean parentage, won the Sullivan award.

In recent years we have had stars from India, Filipinos, Japanese and Chinese playing in our national tennis tournament. The Japanese are more enthusiastic about baseball than we are. In fact, it is their national game.

We recall that Buck Lee had a long try-out with John McGraw's Giants more than 25 years ago and we have had any number of boys of oriental parentage playing football.

The orientals in Siam and other Asiatic countries have taken rapidly to basketball and the star of the U. S. Coast Guard team in New York is Hal Fong Yee, a Chinese boy from Sacramento who, incidentally, is the school's top engineering student.

The world champion flyweight today is Yoshio Shirai of Japan and the third ranking bantam is Chamrern Songkitrat of Thailand.

Benny Leonard knocked out one Ah Chung in six rounds more than 40 years ago. Some years ago there was a pretty good featherweight named Ling Sing Que who now owns a restaurant in Brooklyn and when not dishing out chow mein sells socks and ties to the fight mob.

Blinky Palermo is managing lightweight Jimmy Soo, an American of Chinese-Irish parentage.

And that reminds us that Lew Raymond was running a small fight club down around New York's Chinatown many years ago. Lew thought he could pack the house if he had a Chinese fighter on the card.

There was no Chinese available but a little thing like that never stopped Lew. He put on a slant-eyed light-skinned colored boy, gave him a Chinese name and packed the house to the rafters.

Lew's phony Chinese was knocked out in the first round and as the Chinese crowd was leaving, one of them grabbed Lew and said:

"That no China boy but maybe your own brother."

Hi Dee Club Women Beat Clingerman's

The Hi Dee Club won two out of three games from Clingerman's to open the six-game playoff for fourth place in the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League.

The next three-game match between the teams is set for Wednesday night at Clingerman's.

Alvena Gibson was high scorer for Hi-Dee with 24 points while Evelyn Gray paced Clingerman's with 23 tallies.

SS. Peter-Paul Captures Title In CYO League

Trounces Mt. Savage For 19th Win In Row

SS. Peter and Paul quint sewed up the championship of the CYO Basketball League last night by posting its 19th consecutive victory of the season at the expense of St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage on SS. Peter and Paul court. The score was 65-16.

Last night's triumph gave Coach Bob Mattingly's quint a 9-0 record for the second half race of the split season schedule with one more game to be played Sunday with St. Michael's at Frostburg. SS. Peter and Paul won the first half race with a record of ten consecutive victories.

St. Michael's of Frostburg had won the CYO League title for the past five years.

Coach Mattingly used his entire squad of 17 players in last night's game. The loss was Mt. Savage's 20th in a row.

St. Mary's defeated St. Patrick's, of Cumberland, last night on St. Mary's court to the tune of 45-26. Howell sparked the winners with 18 points while Imes equalled this performance for St. Patrick's.

St. Peter's, of Westernport, upset St. Michael's at Frostburg by the score of 47-44.

Joe Niland went on a scoring rampage for the Westernport quint and sparked the victors with 23 points on eight field goals and 7-12 fouls. Harris and Winfield collected 10 points each for St. Michael's.

Lions Lead In Wins — Old Home Week Here — Whitey Wenzel Dies — Haneke Changes Mind

By C. V. BURNS

WILLIAM "Huck" Miers' Piedmont High School basketball teams have won more games than any of the schools in the tri-state area over a three-season span.

"Huck" Miers

The Lions have rolled up 62 victories against 16 losses and they still have an opportunity to better that mark in state, regional and area contests.

Piedmont's 1952 quint bagged 20 out of 26, followed up with a 20-8 record last season and is 22-2 for the current campaign.

The Lions figure to scalp Wardensville in the opener of the regional tonight at Shepherd College.

WITH Mel Henry, Homer Brooks, Jr., Augie Eichhorn and Dean Walter L. Bowers present the Maryland District No. 1 basketball tournament at Fort Hill High School today will have all the appearances of "Old Home Week."

Homer Brooks, Jr., one of Prof. Bowers' former pupils, brings his Frederick High Cadets here for the Class "A" opener with Southern High of Oakland.

Mel Henry, a pupil of John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, back in the Penn Avenue High School days, is tutor of the Hagerstown quint which engages Allegany in the last game of tonight's triple-header. Major Cavanaugh will be there helping direct the program.

And last but not least will be Augie Eichhorn, the mentor of the Bruce High Bulldogs who tackle Smithsburg in this afternoon's contest.

Augie was a pupil of Mel Henry back in 1943 when Central High of Lonaconing won the W.M.I. League title. Other members of that Orange and Black cast were Charley Miller, John Muster, Robert "Babe" Johnson, Charley Robertson, Jackie Morton, Bob Thomas, Adrian Anderson, Jim Steele and Bill Smith.

This is Brooks' 12th year of coaching. He spent one year at Elk Garden, two at Rowlesburg, four at Parsons and is now in his fifth at Frederick.

Henry broke in as mentor at Central in 1943 and was there for one season. He took over the football reins at Fort Hill in 1943, 1944 and 1945, served as backfield coach at Virginia Tech in 1947 and 1948 and has coached football and basketball at Hagerstown since 1949.

Eichhorn is the "freshman" of the mentors here for homecoming. He made his debut as soccer coach at Flintstone in 1950 and has handled soccer, basketball and baseball at Bruce since 1951.

Incidentally, both Henry and Eichhorn are former W.M.I. scoring champs. Mel paced the league in 1934 at Penn Avenue with 155 points while Eichhorn was the top man 10 years later when he slammed in 153 tallies while playing for Central.

KEN HOLLOWAY, diminutive forward, who will play for Smithsburg High against Bruce's Bulldogs in the District No. 1 tournament at Fort Hill this afternoon averaged 22.6 points a game, scoring 317 points in 14 contests.

Holloway's goal enabled the Smitties to edge Williamsport, 60-58, and thus qualify for the tourney. He scored 26 points in the final game, giving Smithsburg a 10-4 record for the season.

Charley Durbin, sharpshooting center of Southern High, Oakland, who will be seen in action against Frederick tonight, scored more points than any player in Western Maryland or nearby West Virginia this season—a grand total of 446 points in 21 games for an average of 21.2.

SPEAKING of high average players, Rod (Hot Rod) Hundley, the West Virginia U. freshman flash, posted a 34.04 mark for 22 games, rolling up a total of 749 tallies as Quentin Barnette's Little Mountaineers wound up the campaign with an 18-4 record.

AND here's another item from Morgantown:

Eddie Becker, who banked in 402 points for the West Virginia varsity quint, has been voted the outstanding player on the W.V.U. team this season, and has earned the Roger L. (Shorty) Hicks Memorial Trophy, awarded in honor of one of the stars of the 1942 N.I.T. championship team, who was killed in action in Europe during the war.

Eddie is a brother of Larry Becker, assistant grid mentor and varsity track coach at Allegany High School, and Gerald "Gee" Becker, who wowed 'em when he played for the Wheeling Blues in 1950 and romped off with the point scoring title in the All-American Pro Basketball League.

OTTO (Whitey) Wenzel, 60 prominent North Side middleweight boxer of 40 years ago, died in Pittsburgh the other day.

Our own Fay Keiser decisioned him a 10-round bout in 1915.

Wenzel boxed Harry Greb 12 times and won decisions over George Chip, middleweight king; Buck Crouse, Steve Choynski and Jack Burke and closed his career in a bout with Gene Tunney in 1922.

JACK GEORGE who played here several times against LaSalle basketball teams when he attended St. John's High School, the Christian Brothers School in Washington, D. C., has signed with the Philadelphia Athletics for an undisclosed bonus.

George, a catcher, is now 23-years-old, stands 6-feet-2 and tips the beam at 195. He starred in basketball at LaSalle College, Philadelphia, before he entered the Army. He is now with the Philadelphia Warriors pro quint of the NBA.

The A's are sending Jack to Lancaster of the Piedmont League, the same circuit in which Hagerstown is represented.

FROM Hagerstown comes word that the Fountain Head Country Club will not have a new golf pro after all.

Several weeks ago Arnold (Hank) Haneke reported that he was leaving his job to accept a similar position at the new Norbeck (Md.) Country Club near Washington.

Now Haneke has decided to continue his assignment at Hagerstown and Bill Buppert will stay as his assistant.

"Hank" didn't give any reason for his switch in plans.

Many birds have a poor sense of smell. The buzzard depends almost entirely on sight to locate his special diet and the horned owl's favorite dinner is skunk.

The largest bats in the world are found in the Old World tropics. They have a wing-spread of about five feet and are popularly called "flying foxes."

Elkins Spills Parsons, 55-35, In Sectional

Tigers Score Upset, Shut Out Fairbanks, Advance To Regional

ELKINS, W. Va., March 4 — Elkins High School provided an upset tonight by beating the Parsons High School Panthers to the tune of 55-35 to win the Section 13, Class A basketball tournament.

The outcome of tonight's game came as a stunning surprise in view of the fact that Parsons had given the Tigers two sound trouncings, 56-43 and 61-43, during the regular season.

The contest highlighted by the defensive play of Coach Frank Wimer's aggregation which limited the Panthers to eleven field goals and blanked the high-scoring Terry Fairbanks from the field. The Parsons' scoring ace collected four points at the charity line. He fouled out in the final period.

Elkins racked up 22 field goals, Carver headed the attack with seven while Wilmoth had six and Wimer five. Carver tossed in 15 points and Wimer and Wilmoth garnered ten each.

The Tigers led at the quarters, 11-9, 24-18 and 43-27. The score was knotted at 13-13 and 15-all.

Phil Long was Parsons' high scorer with eight tallies.

The victory moved Elkins into the Region 4 Tournament next weekend at Davis and Elkins College. Lineups:

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

TAMPA, Fla., March 4 (AP) — Orestes (Minnie) Minoso, last remaining unsigned Chicago White Sox player, came to terms today.

Frank Lane, White Sox general manager wouldn't say so, but it's reported Minoso received a sizeable increase, probably getting between $25,000 and $30,000 on his new contract.

Minoso, 30, hit .313 for the White Sox last season. He slammed 15 homeruns and led the American League in stolen bases with 25.

MESA, Ariz., March 4 (AP)—Ernie Banks, 23-year-old rookie shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, was hit on the back of the head by a pitched ball in the third inning of an intrasquad game here today.

Knocked down by the pitch thrown by rookie righthander Don Elston, Banks was semi-conscious when he was removed by ambulance to a hospital.

It was the second club injury of the day. An inning earlier Gene Baker, rookie second baseman, sprained his right knee running out a single. Baker, however, is expected to be ready to resume play in a day or two.

PHOENIX, Airz., March 4 (AP)—Southpaw Johnny Antonelli, acquired for Bobby Thomson in the recent trade with the Milwaukee Braves, pitched three scoreless innings today, as the New York Giants regulars defeated the Yanningans 8-2. Centerfielder Willie Mays and catcher Ray Katt clouted homers to pace the winning team's attack.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 4 (AP) — Billy Martin bade goodbye to his New York Yankee teammates today, then left on a 2 p.m. plane for San Francisco, where he'll be inducted into the Army Monday morning.

The infielder predicted a sixth straight pennant for the Yankees and also fired a parting shot at the Dodgers, his World Series victims last fall.

"So long, Brooklyn," he said. "You're on your own, now."

Martin made 12 hits against the Brooks and drove in the winning run in the sixth and final game at Yankee Stadium.

Extra Day Of Racing Approved For Laurel

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature approved today a bill under which Laurel Race Course could be compensated a program cancelled last November because of bad weather.

The measure authorizes the State Racing Commission to give the track an extra day.

Last November Laurel called off all races on the Saturday it had scheduled its famous Washington International turf event. The program was put off until the following Wednesday, but the track failed at the time to get an extension of the meeting and make up the lost Saturday.

Cary Middlecoff Leads In Texas

Holds Stroke Edge In Houston Tourney

HOUSTON, March 4 (AP) — Carey Middlecoff used a red hot putter in 45 degree weather today while carving out a six-under par 66 for a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $30,000 Houston Open.

The defending champion from Memphis, Tenn., sank a 35 foot putt on the first green for a two-under 3 and then methodically matched or beat par on the remaining 17 holes.

He posted his 66 early but it left him one stroke ahead of Freddie Haas, New Orleans, and two in front of Bill Nary, Tucson, Ariz.

Par on the 7,122-yard Memorial Park Golf Course had its roughest day since 1951 as the rock-hard fairways gave added yardage to tee shots.

Ten of the 159 players had scores of 69 or better, compared to only three in last year's first round.

Wake Forest Edges So. Carolina, 58-57

RALEIGH, N.C., March 4 (AP) — Second-seeded Mayland breezed by Clemson, 75-59, but third-ranked Wake Forest had to go all out to squeeze by South Carolina, 58-57, in an overtime struggle this afternoon to open the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament before 6,800 persons.

Wake Forest and Maryland will meet at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow in one semi-final game. The other semi-final, two hours earlier will pair the winners of tonight's Duke-Virginia and North Carolina State-North Carolina contests.

Maryland, ranked No. 17 in this week's Associated Press poll, ran into a stiff first quarter argument before closing with five quick points to lead Clemson, 18-12.

The margin grew to 60-39 in the third quarter with Captain Gene Shue throwing in 14 of his 28 points during the period. High scorer for Clemson was Bill Yarborough with 25.

Wake Forest, which twice during the season smothered South Carolina by a total of 48 points, and which only last week ran up a school record of 103 points against the Gamecocks, had no such waltz today.

With the score 53-53 in the overtime, Dickie Hemric Wake Forest's 6-6 center, scored on a tip-in and a layup in rapid fire order. The teams then went down to the final five seconds with Wake Forest leading by 2 points when forward Ray Lipstas made good one of two fouls. The margin was cut to one point when forward Jack Hufford fired in a South Carolina basket just as the game ending buzzer sounded.

Petersburg Faces Unbeaten Musselman At Shepherd Tonight

Piedmont High And Warriors Open Regional

Thomas And Beverly, Rowlesburg, Kingwood To Clash At Parsons

Petersburg High School's Vikings will face Musselman High School's Applemen, only undefeated quint in West Virginia, and Piedmont High School's Lions, winners of the P.V.C. and Mineral County League titles, are slated to oppose Wardensville Warriors in the opening round games of the Region No. 4 Class "B" basketball tournament tonight at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W. Va.

Piedmont, victorious in its last eight outings and winner of 22 out of 24 games, opposes Wardensville in the opener of tonight's twin bill at 7:30 o'clock. The Musselman-Petersburg game is set for 9 o'clock. Finals are billed for Saturday night with the winner advancing into the Northern Area games next week.

Lions Heavily Favored

The Lions, coached by William "Huck" Miers, are heavily favored to whip Coach Charles "Pete" Vance's Warriors.

Musselman, coached by Kenny Waldeck, has won 15 consecutive games this season and will be facing a most worthy opponent in Jesse Riggleman's Petersburg Vikings who have bagged 15 of 22 contests this season.

Sam Triano and Joe Anderson of Clarksburg will officiate tonight's twin bill.

Tourney At Parsons

The Region No. 3 Class "B" tournament is scheduled to get under way tonight on the Parsons High School court where Beverly will oppose Thomas High at 7 o'clock and Kingwood will do battle with Rowlesburg at 8:30.

Thomas, coached by Ed Supak, enters the tourney with a 17-6 record, including wins over Kasson and Bayard in the Section 12 games last week. Kingwood and Rowlesburg are rivals in the Preston County League and exchanged lopsided wins during the regular season. The River Lions of Coach George Ayersman won the opener, 84-57, while Kingwood bagged the second, 71-56. Kingwood entered the Section 9 tourney with a 10-10 record and ran its winning streak to 10 games by beating Bruceton in the finals. Rowlesburg won 10 and lost 8 before the Section 10 tourney in which the Lions whipped Newburg in the finals.

Clifton Roby and Fred "Tack" Clark will officiate in the game at Parsons.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

TAMPA, Fla., March 4 (AP) — Orestes (Minnie) Minoso, last remaining unsigned Chicago White Sox player, came to terms today.

Frank Lane, White Sox general manager wouldn't say so, but it's reported Minoso received a sizeable increase, probably getting between $25,000 and $30,000 on his new contract.

Minoso, 30, hit .313 for the White Sox last season. He slammed 15 homeruns and led the American League in stolen bases with 25.

MESA, Ariz., March 4 (AP)—Ernie Banks, 23-year-old rookie shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, was hit on the back of the head by a pitched ball in the third inning of an intra-squad game here today.

Knocked down by the pitch thrown by rookie righthander Don Elston, Banks was semi-conscious when he was removed by ambulance to a hospital.

It was the second club injury of the day. An inning earlier Gene Baker, rookie second baseman, sprained his right knee running out a single. Baker, however, is expected to be ready to resume play in a day or two.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 4 (AP)—Southpaw Johnny Antonelli, acquired for Bobby Thomson in the recent trade with the Milwaukee Braves, pitched three scoreless innings today, as the New York Giants regulars defeated the Yanningans 8-2. Centerfielder Willie Mays and catcher Ray Katt clouted homers to pace the winning team's attack.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 4 (AP) — Billy Martin bade goodbye to his New York Yankee teammates today, then left on a 2 p.m. plane for San Francisco, where he'll be inducted into the Army Monday morning.

The infielder predicted a sixth straight pennant for the Yankees and also fired a parting shot at the Dodgers, his World Series victims last fall.

"So long, Brooklyn," he said. "You're on your own, now."

Martin made 12 hits against the Brooks and drove in the winning run in the sixth and final game at Yankee Stadium.

Extra Day Of Racing Approved For Laurel

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—The Maryland Legislature approved today a bill under which Laurel Race Course could be compensated a program cancelled last November because of bad weather.

The measure authorizes the State Racing Commission to give the track an extra day.

Last November Laurel called off all races on the Saturday it had scheduled its famous Washington International turf event. The program was put off until the following Wednesday, but the track failed at the time to get an extension of the meeting and make up the lost Saturday.

Cary Middlecoff Leads In Texas

Holds Stroke Edge In Houston Tourney

HOUSTON, March 4 (AP) — Carey Middlecoff used a red hot putter in 45 degree weather today while carving out a six-under par 66 for a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $30,000 Houston Open.

The defending champion from Memphis, Tenn., sank a 35 foot putt on the first green for a two-under 3 and then methodically matched or beat par on the remaining 17 holes.

He posted his 66 early but it left him one stroke ahead of Freddie Haas, New Orleans, and two in front of Bill Nary, Tucson, Ariz.

Par on the 7,122-yard Memorial Park Golf Course had its roughest day since 1951 as the rock-hard fairways gave added yardage to tee shots.

Ten of the 159 players had scores of 69 or better, compared to only three in last year's first round.

Wake Forest Edges So. Carolina, 58-57

RALEIGH, N.C., March 4 (AP) — Second-seeded Mayland breezed by Clemson, 75-59, but third-ranked Wake Forest had to go all out to squeeze by South Carolina, 58-57, in an overtime struggle this afternoon to open the Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Tournament before 6,800 persons.

Wake Forest and Maryland will meet at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow in one semi-final game. The other semi-final, two hours earlier will pair the winners of tonight's Duke-Virginia and North Carolina State-North Carolina contests.

Maryland, ranked No. 17 in this week's Associated Press poll, ran into a stiff first quarter argument before closing with five quick points to lead Clemson, 18-12.

The margin grew to 60-39 in the third quarter with Captain Gene Shue throwing in 14 of his 28 points during the period. High scorer for Clemson was Bill Yarborough with 25.

Wake Forest, which twice during the season smothered South Carolina by a total of 48 points, and which only last week ran up a school record of 103 points against the Gamecocks, had no such waltz today.

With the score 53-53 in the overtime, Dickie Hemric Wake Forest's 6-6 center, scored on a tip-in and a layup in rapid fire order. The teams then went down to the final five seconds with Wake Forest leading by 2 points when forward Ray Lipstas made good one of two fouls. The margin was cut to one point when forward Jack Hufford fired in a South Carolina basket just as the game ending buzzer sounded.

Charles Claims He Can Defeat Marciano By KO

AP Newsfeatures

CINCINNATI — Former Heavyweight Champion Ezzard Charles was talking about knockouts in his gymnasium the other day. He said he does not think title holder Rocky Marciano is immune despite his granite chin.

"When you hit a guy right, I don't care who he is, he's got to go out," Charles said. "Marciano may think he can't be knocked out. I used to think I couldn't be stopped too—once upon a time."

Charles, who gets another chance at the championship on June 17 at New York's Yankee Stadium, believes he is just the boy to show Marciano that he can be stopped.

"I think I can get to him," he said, "I think he can be slowed down enough to hit. Then, if he's hit right, he's going down like anybody else."

Ex-Major League Catcher Defends Modern Pitchers

AP Newsfeatures

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Take it from Hank Severeid, once a top catcher in the major leagues, the pitchers don't have much chance these days.

Severeid, 62, now a scout for the Boston Red Sox, points to the last World Series when the Yankees and Dodgers set clouting records by smashing six home runs in one game and 17 for the six-game set.

"There are guys hitting home runs now who have no license hitting 'em," says Severeid. "It's all because they've taken away every advantage the pitcher ever had.

"For the first five years (he began with Cincinnati in 1911) that I was up there, pitchers were allowed to throw the shine ball, the spitter, the emery ball and all those other trick pitches. During that time I batted around .270 which was considered good. (He hit .324 for the 1921 Browns).

"But after those pitches were outlawed, my average went up. Pitchers couldn't throw anything but a fast ball, a curve and a knuckler. It was almost impossible to curve a new ball. Now they've raised the seams. It helps a little."

Severeid, the only catcher in major league history to catch no-hit, no-run games on successive days, believes the reason so many pitchers are coming up with sore arms is that they bear down on every pitch because they aren't allowed to throw the servings that have been black-listed.

On May 5, 1917, Ernie Koob, St. Louis lefty, held the White Sox hitless in hurling the Browns to a 1-0 victory. The next day Bob Groom also pitched a no-hitter, beating Chicago 3-0.

HANK Severeid, one-time catcher for four major league teams, claims modern hurlers are at a distinct disadvantage today. No trick pitches are allowed. Here is Hank as he looked in 1926 with the Yankees.

West Virginia Takes Opener

Beats W. & M. Quint In Tourney, 84-69

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 4 (AP)—West Virginia jumped into the lead early in the second period here today and eliminated William and Mary 84-69 in the first round of the 34th annual Southern Conference basketball tournament.

A small weather-bound crowd of about 1,500 was on hand to see the tourney's second game between conference champion George Washington and underdog Washington and Lee get under way almost immediately. Furman will meet Davidson and Richmond will tangle with Virginia Military tonight to complete the first round.

The WVU-W. and M. game got off to a listless start and almost two minutes passed before Eddie Becker registered a free throw to give West Virginia its first lead.

The score changed hands twice in the first period and was tied five times, the last time just as the period ended when WVU's Dubby Morris tossed in a one-hander to knot the count 15-15.

Chick Cornell of W. & M. topped the game scoring with 28 points and Red Holmes led the Mountaineers with 23.

Smart cooks plan desserts according to the weather. That delicious tropical dessert, Baked Bananas, can match any weather. Just vary the flavors of the fixings baked with the bananas, and you'll capture the spirit of winter or spring. Bananas are in season all year 'round, which may be Nature's reminder that they're good all year 'round in all kinds of dishes.

For a spring dessert, serve Baked Bananas with a tangy Lemon Sauce. For a more wintry version, try baking bananas with such hearty flavored fixings as molasses, brown sugar, honey or syrup. Bananas for cooking should have all yellow or slightly green-tipped peel. These are less ripe bananas that will stay firm during cooking, and develop a different delicious flavor you'll enjoy.

Floating Island Easy To Make

Perhaps many of you remember the pleasure of having Floating Island served to you at your grandmothers. Today a restaurant in a large city has achieved a following because they have Floating Island on the menu, regularly and frequently. Most people like this highly nutritious dessert made with milk and eggs. It is delicate in flavor and does not have the filling quality of many richer desserts.

You may be surprised to know if you have never made a Floating Island that it is easy to make, as it is made ahead of time, no dessert preparation at meal time is necessary. It is a fine dessert for all the family because of its nutritious ingredients. Homemakers realize that to plan meals well, the family's food needs for the day must be considered. More and more women are using milk in cooked dishes to increase the daily intake of this high calcium food. When it can be done with such pleasant results as in Floating Island, the family will be pleased, and the meal will be better, nutritionwise.

If there is any of the Floating Island left, be sure to cover and put in refrigerator at once.

FLOATING ISLAND

3 eggs, separated
6 tablespoons sugar
Few grains salt
2½ cups milk
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
⅛ teaspoon almond extract
2 cups well drained, fresh berries or fruit, chilled

Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar and salt, beating constantly, until mixture holds its shape. Pour milk into 10" skillet; heat. Drop spoonfuls of meringue on milk; cook in simmering milk until set. Carefully remove meringues to tray. Cool; chill. Strain milk; there should be two cups. Mix sugar, cornstarch and salt. Gradually add milk. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until slightly thickened. Beat egg yolks; add hot milk mixture gradually. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and coats spoon. Cool; add vanilla and almond extracts. Chill before serving. Serve over fruit with meringues on top. Serves 4 to 6.

Stretch The Food Dollar

You can do three things to help make the food dollar go further even before food is cooked.

First, set aside a special day to plan your menues. If you plan for a week or longer, you can look at the over-all balance of your menues, checking flavor variety and contrast in color and texture. It will also give you a chance to include foods you have on hand.

Planning ahead also gives you a chance to consider the nutritive quality of foods, says nutritionist Janet Coblentz, University of Maryland Extension Service. That way you can be sure every family member receives all the vitamins, minerals and calories he or she needs to keep in good health.

Fewer shopping trips are another result of forward planning. One or two trips to the store can take care of the family's needs, instead of time-consuming daily shopping. This way you can shop when you know produce is fresh and you can plan on using foods in more than one meal in appetizing ways.

A second consideration is to buy with more care. Miss Coblentz points out that with a shopping list you can whiz through shopping and not give into the impulse buying that helps boost the family food bill.

But protective foods first—dairy products, meats, fresh fruits and vegetables—then the other foods. Check the use of foods before buying. Certain lower grades of canned goods, for instance, are better for including in stews and casseroles, instead of top grades which cost more.

Thirdly, be careful with storing food when you get home, says Miss Coblentz. Store food immediately in the place it belongs. Meats, dairy foods, frozen foods, some fruits and tender vegetables require refrigeration. Staple and hardy vegetables (potatoes, onions) need, cool, dry storage.

Vegetable Sauce

3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup finely minced onion
¼ cup finely diced celery, or
1 teaspoon celery seed
3 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk

Melt butter, add onion and celery, cook until tender or about 5 minutes over low heat, stir occasionally but do not brown. Blend in flour and seasonings. Gradually add milk while stirring; cook until smooth and thick, stirring constantly. Serve hot with fish. Makes 1½ cups sauce.

Pears Provide Tasty Filling

The sweet Anjou or the spicy Bosc are both excellent pears for baking. Their delicate flavor is fine whether used "as is" or accentuated with one or more seasonings.

Fresh Western pears and cheese have always been a grand combination so why not combine them in a cooked dish for a delicious dessert. In this recipe for Pear Cheese Turnovers the seasoning is sharp cheese, which is grated and added to the pastry before it is rolled. Each pear half is dipped in spicy sugar which turns to a sweet syrup when baked. The flaky pastry encases the fruit and holds in all the flavorful juices.

These turnovers are simple to prepare and serve for they are already cut in individual servings when taken from the oven. Allow cooling time before serving and accompany with fresh cream.

Pear Cheese Turnovers

2 medium Anjou or Bosc pears
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1½ cups pastry flour
½ cup shortening
6 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons water
⅓ cup grated cheese.

Mix together flour and salt. Add shortening and cheese, combine with pastry blender. Add water and form into dough. Roll out pastry to thickness of pie dough and cut into 5 or 6-inch squares depending on size of pears. Peel, halve and core pears. Combine sugar and cinnamon. Roll each pear in the sugar mixture, coating generously. Place pear half on pastry square and fold corner to corner forming a triangle. Bake at 425 degrees for 35 minutes or until done. To test, insert a toothpick into center of one of pears. Cool and serve with cream. Will serve four.

Combs have been found among the remains of ancient peoples, particularly among those of the Swiss Lake Dwellers.

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. — There's nothing like an International Food Fair to set this pocket-sized melting pot of nations boiling over with international good will.

As an experiment in world brotherhood via the pantry, it couldn't have happened to a better place: Phoenixville boasts 17 nationalities in its 13,000 residents.

The International Food Fair was more than a meeting of old and new world appetites, points out Mrs. Hamilton Gilkyson, who is secretary of the community newspaper, the Phoenixville Republican, and a driving force in the fair's promotion.

Cultural barriers crumbled when she enlisted the aid of townswomen of varying nationalities to supply home-cooked, traditional dishes for the occasion.

They beamed with pride, trooped to their kitchens and turned out an international fare ranging from a seven-layer Hungarian mocha cake to French Ratatouille (vegetable stew).

The school kids chipped in, painting posters symbolic of their own national origins to decorate the town armory, where the culinary extravaganza was staged in a "one world" atmosphere.

More than 2,500 persons braved a sudden snowstorm to feast on such dishes as appel strudel and gefulte fish. About 500 went home hungry — the 2,000 who got there first cleaned the tables.

Booth attendants had to journey to a restaurant and eat hamburgers for dinner.

Mrs. Gilkyson wouldn't venture to estimate how many gallons of Ukranian borscht were consumed, but she did know for a fact that some 3,000 rolls of Hungarian Holubki (stuffed cabbage balls) were sold.

The menu listed, among other foods, Ruthenian Krepli (raised doughnuts), Greek Kourambethes (pastry), Swedish-style meat balls, Italian spaghetti and southern (U.S.A.) fried chicken.

Mrs. Gilkyson reported that the fair cleared more than $3,000 for Phoenixville Hospital. But even more important, she pointed out, it broke down national barriers in the town of Phoenixville.

Will there be any more international food fairs?

"There will be in Phoenixville," Mrs. Gilkyson says. "We'll have one every year — as long as the women can still cook."

Pass the Bozhi Milosti, please.

Have Creole Sauce In Jiffy

With a can of beef gravy, sliced mushrooms and some ketchup, you're all set to stir up a glorious creole sauce. It's the elegant touch for pork chops or hamburgers. To make sauce: Brown 2 tablespoons each of chopped onion and green pepper plus 1 can sliced mushrooms (1 cup) in 1 tablespoon shortening. Stir in 1 can of beef gravy (1¼ cups) and ⅓ cup ketchup. Simmer for a few minutes to blend flavors. Pour this hot rich Creole Sauce over 6 to 8 cooked pork chops, hamburgers or slices of meat loaf.

Here's Rolled Lamb Roast Your Carver Will Cheer

If you think of leg of lamb as the only lamb roast, then here's a surprise. Treat your family to a rolled lamb shoulder roast. Ask your meat dealer to remove the bone from a square cut lamb shoulder, then roll and tie the shoulder ready for your oven. Here's the roast your carver will cheer.

Another version of the square cut section is the cushion-style shoulder. The roast is boned and left flat. The cavity, made by removing the bones, is filled with a stuffing before it goes in the oven for roasting.

According to Reba Staggs, meat expert, to prepare the rolled shoulder season it with salt and pepper, then place it on a rack in an open roasting pan. If you have a roast meat thermometer, insert it so the bulb reaches the center of the roll. Do not add moisture or cover the pan.

Roast the lamb roll in a slow oven (300° F.) for 35 to 40 minutes per pound. The roast meat thermometer will register 170° F. to 180° F. when the meat is done. A warmed platter should be ready to receive the lamb.

If the rolled shoulder roast is taken from the oven about 20 minutes before serving carving will be made simpler, as this gives the meat time to become firm. Uniform slices of ⅛ to ⅜ inch thickness make attractive servings. A five to six pound roast will make from 10 to 12 servings.

Plan an appropriate menu around the lamb roast. Your garnish might be firm pear halves filled with mint jelly and touched with mint leaves or parsley. As the first course serve jellied consomme. Browned potatoes make a good accompaniment for the lamb. Cube the potatoes and cook in a frying-pan with bacon drippings until well browned. Include buttered green beans, a lettuce salad, hot corn sticks and a dessert of date-nut pudding.

Q. What is the name of these cuts of meat?
A. Lamb shanks.
Q. How are they identified?
A. As the name implies, they contain the shank bone.
Q. How are they prepared?
A. By braising or cooking in liquid. To braise, the shanks are browned in lard or drippings, then a small amount of water added, covered and cooked slowly until tender. Cooking in liquid differs in the amount of liquid used. For this method, the shanks are completely covered with liquid, then cooked covered until tender.

A New Role For Molybdenum

Science now ranks molybdenum as equally essential in the human diet as iron, copper, iodine, manganese, and cobalt among other mineral elements. Molybdenum has been proved by scientists at Oak Ridge to be part of the catalyst, xanthine Oxidase, which facilitates the work of the liver and other digestive organs.

These minerals in the body are called trace elements because only tiny amounts are needed to carry on the vital process of blood building, respiration and the activities in cells which give us energy. A speck of iron no larger than a pin head, for example, meets the daily need for this essential element. The others are effective in even smaller amounts.

Molybdenum was discovered two hundred years ago in a black ore resembling lead (molybda). Like lead, the ore could be used to write on paper, hence the name which is appropriate now as it was then, but it is still hard to pronounce.

The value of molybdenum for growth in plants, particularly in vegetables, was proved some years ago, but its value in animal nutrition was discovered only recently. Early research conducted at Wisconsin and Syracuse Universities by scientists working under the sponsorship of The Nutrition Foundation showed that something in addition to protein was needed to form normal amounts of the catalyst in the body. This spring a group at Lederle Laboratories discovered that the unknown factor, present in liver, kidney, spleen, soybean flour, and buttermilk, contained molybdenum. More recently workers at Oak Ridge using a radioactive molybdenum salt clinched the argument definitely.

As research yields more of the body's secrets and we learn more of additional elements needed for its normal functioning, it is reassuring to find that the nutritionist can view these discoveries with satisfaction rather than alarm. In the case of molybdenum, it is present in such a wide variety of foods — whole grain cereals, vegetables, liver and other meats —that a balanced diet will furnish an adequate supply.

Canned Kraut Makes Dishes Low In Cost And Calories

Rich in nutrients and low in calories—that's the nutrition story of flavorful canned sauerkraut. One cup of kraut contains only 39 calories and provides over half the daily allowance of vitamin C. In addition, sauerkraut supplies two B vitamins, thiamine and riboflavin, as well as calcium, the mineral necessary for strong, healthy teeth and bones. Hearty kraut dishes like the two below can be included in the weight-watcher's menu without worry of gaining extra pounds.

Kraut, Apple And Frankfurter Bake

(Makes 4-6 servings)
1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut
4 medium-sized apples, cored, pared and thinly sliced
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup all-purpose flour
8 frankfurters, cut in half lengthwise
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Place ⅓ of sauerkraut in bottom of 2½-quart casserole; arrange half of apples on top. Combine brown sugar and flour and sprinkle half of mixture on apples; top with half of frankfurters. Repeat layers, using remaining ingredients. Finish with layer of sauerkraut. Dot with butter or margarine and bake, covered, in moderate oven (350°) 1½ hours.

Spanish-Style Kraut And Frankfurters

(Make 4-6 servings)
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅔ cup uncooked rice
1 cup thinly sliced onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 canned pimientos, chopped
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut
2 tablespoons brown sugar
Salt and pepper to taste
6 frankfurters, sliced into crosswise pieces.

Melt butter or margarine and add rice; cook over medium heat until rice is lightly browned. Add onions, green pepper and pimientos and cook until onions are tender. Add tomatoes, sauerkraut and brown sugar; cook, covered, until rice is tender, about 30 minutes. Add salt and pepper and frankfurters; continue cooking 15 minutes.

It's just about mid-way through the school year and time to take a fresh approach to packing the school lunchbox. Are you using all the different kinds of bread available to get some variety into the schoolday lunch? Just to refresh your memory here are some of the many kinds of bread you can use: enriched white, whole wheat, rye, hamburger rolls, frankfurter rolls, hard rolls, cinnamon, nut, Boston Brown, raisin and pumpernickel.

Molybdenum was discovered two hundred years ago in a black ore resembling lead (molybda). Like lead, the ore could be used to write on paper, hence the name which is appropriate now as it was then, but it is still hard to pronounce.

The value of molybdenum for growth in plants, particularly in vegetables, was proved some years ago, but its value in animal nutrition was discovered only recently. Early research conducted at Wisconsin and Syracuse Universities by scientists working under the sponsorship of The Nutrition Foundation showed that something in addition to protein was needed to form normal amounts of the catalyst in the body. This spring a group at Lederle Laboratories discovered that the unknown factor, present in liver, kidney, spleen, soybean flour, and buttermilk, contained molybdenum. More recently workers at Oak Ridge using a radioactive molybdenum salt clinched the argument definitely.

As research yields more of the body's secrets and we learn more of additional elements needed for its normal functioning, it is reassuring to find that the nutritionist can view these discoveries with satisfaction rather than alarm. In the case of molybdenum, it is present in such a wide variety of foods — whole grain cereals, vegetables, liver and other meats —that a balanced diet will furnish an adequate supply.

Canned Kraut Makes Dishes Low In Cost And Calories

Rich in nutrients and low in calories—that's the nutrition story of flavorful canned sauerkraut. One cup of kraut contains only 39 calories and provides over half the daily allowance of vitamin C. In addition, sauerkraut supplies two B vitamins, thiamine and riboflavin, as well as calcium, the mineral necessary for strong, healthy teeth and bones. Hearty kraut dishes like the two below can be included in the weight-watcher's menu without worry of gaining extra pounds.

Kraut, Apple And Frankfurter Bake

(Makes 4-6 servings)
1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut
4 medium-sized apples, cored, pared and thinly sliced
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup all-purpose flour
8 frankfurters, cut in half lengthwise
3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Place ⅓ of sauerkraut in bottom of 2½-quart casserole; arrange half of apples on top. Combine brown sugar and flour and sprinkle half of mixture on apples; top with half of frankfurters. Repeat layers, using remaining ingredients. Finish with layer of sauerkraut. Dot with butter or margarine and bake, covered, in moderate oven (350°) 1½ hours.

Spanish-Style Kraut And Frankfurters

(Make 4-6 servings)
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅔ cup uncooked rice
1 cup thinly sliced onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 canned pimientos, chopped
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 No. 2½ can sauerkraut
2 tablespoons brown sugar
Salt and pepper to taste
6 frankfurters, sliced into crosswise pieces.

Melt butter or margarine and add rice; cook over medium heat until rice is lightly browned. Add onions, green pepper and pimientos and cook until onions are tender. Add tomatoes, sauerkraut and brown sugar; cook, covered, until rice is tender, about 30 minutes. Add salt and pepper and frankfurters; continue cooking 15 minutes.

Fresh Louisiana yams now on the market are especially flavorful because they've been curing since harvest time. This curing period not only enhances their tastiness but permits them to be available in good supply throughout the winter months.

Following is a scallopine recipe with a Southern touch. To go with the main course, Swiss cheese sticks, onion rings and cucumber slices are a tasty relish assortment.

Louisiana Yam Scallopine

(Makes 4 servings)

¼ cup olive oil

Growing World Population May Outstrip Food Potential

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—The world's population was pictured today as growing so fast that it threatens to outstrip the ability of farmers and scientists to provide the necessary food.

The Population Reference Bureau, a private study group, said that unless the problem is solved through population control and increased agricultural output it will mean millions more of hungry people.

The bureau called on the United States and other nations to tackle the situation aggressively through research and education.

This newest study by the bureau said that even with stepped up food production more than half the world's estimated 2,465,000,000 people are now underfed, underclothed and inadequately housed.

The population appears to be growing at an unprecedented rate, the bureau said, and the pace will increase as modern medicine and technology bring longer life to the people of such underdeveloped nations as India, Pakistan and China.

"Potential sources of food do not justify the claim often made that technology will be able to produce enough food for an indefinitely increasing population," the study declared.

". . . If death rates are controlled and fertility continues at the present level, it would take only 30 years or less for world population to double. This would mean seven billion by the year 2010 and 15 billion a century hence."

Baked Fish Fillets With Vegetable Sauce

1½ to 2 pounds halibut fillets
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk

Brush fish fillets on all sides with melted butter; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place in baking dish and cover with milk. Bake uncovered in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 30 minutes or until fish flakes easily with a fork. Drain off liquid, measure 1½ cups and use for sauce. Serve fish with vegetable sauce. Garnish with lemon wedges or parsley. Serves 4 to 6.

Lamb Chops A New Way

Broiled lamb chops are on many persons "favorite food" list. However, broiling is only one method for preparing lamb chops. Use chops for a braised dish, Lar.b Crops New Orleans.

Less demanded shoulder cut arm and blade chops are ideal for this dish, points out Reba Staggs, home economist. Blade chops may be identified by the long thin blade bone they contain; arm chops by their round arm bone. You often find both will retail for several cents per pound under the loin and rib chops.

To prepare this dish, brown and chops, cut 1 inch thick, in lard or drippings. Then season with salt and pepper. To the meat add 1½ cups tomato juice, ¼ cup chopped green pepper, ½ cup of chopped onion. Cover and simmer the chops for 30 minutes. Then remove to a warmed platter and thicken the liquid to serve over the chops.

Bluefield Man Heads W. Va. Republican Finance Committee

James H. Shott Gets Important Position

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 4 (AP) — Jim H. Shott of Bluefield is the new chairman of the Republican State Finance Committee, succeeding Arthur M. Hill of Washington and Charleston.

Shott, son of a former U.S. Senator and prominent in party affairs for many years, was named by State GOP Chairman James O. Lakin of Charleston at a reorganization meeting of the fund-raising group here today.

The session followed a meeting of the finance group's executive committee here yesterday at which Hill and seven others resigned.

Paul O. Summers, Parkersburg manufacturing executive, was named as the finance group's new vice chairman.

Shott is a former Republican state chairman and is a member of a Bluefield family which owns and operates that city's two daily newspapers and a radio station.

His father, the late H. I. Shott Sr., served several terms in Congress from the Fifth District and was elected to a short term in the U.S. Senate in 1942.

In quitting the post yesterday Hill loosed an inferential blast at Republican National Committeeman Walter S. Hallanan in which he said:

"Some have held party positions too long with a consistent and conspicuous record of failure."

Hallanan promptly accepted the challenge. He said:

"I think the Republican party will survive in West Virginia. It survived at the time Mr. Hill was serving as an appointee of President Truman's administration and I have every confidence that we will manage to keep the party going in West Virginia."

Two men from Winchester, Va., were indicted for stealing 32 turkeys from a farm near High View, with one entering a plea of guilty before Circuit Judge Harlan M. Calhoun. Judge Calhoun took the sentence under advisement.

Authorities said the other man is presently being held by Winchester police on a similar charge.

Eugene Cunningham of Romney was indicted for non-support.

Two cases of driving while intoxicated also were brought before the grand jury and indictments were returned against Ralph C. Depoy of Franklin and Charles Sites of near Baltimore.

East Germany Invites Western Deserters

BERLIN, March 4 (AP)—Communist East Germany tonight invited young West Germans to come across the Iron Curtain to evade military service.

The Soviet zone government, in a statement issued by the official ADN news agency, said any West Germans who come east rather than don a uniform "for foreign and German monopoly lords and great landowners" will be treated as citizens.

The propaganda move was made as West Germany was gearing to organize its first armed force since the collapse of Hitler's Reich. The Bonn Parliament has voted to draft Germans over 18.

Although early Romans had little acquaintance with cosmetics, they adopted them after coming in contact with the Greeks.

World Service Truck Due In Keyser Monday

KEYSER—Persons having packages of articles for the Church World Service collection on March 8, are being advised to deliver them to the new headquarters at the Keyser Frozen Food Locker Plant, corner of South Mineral and Lincoln Streets. The announcement was made by the Keyser Ministerium, who has been told by Lee Shepp, owner of the plant, that his place can be used for storage purposes.

There are a number of individuals as well as local churches and other groups who have been active in the Church World Service operations and the new place for depositing and storing packages for shipping is a big help for the groups. Articles must be delivered to the Frozen Food Locker plant during business hours only.

The next collection will be made in Keyser next Monday, and caution is given to wrap packages securely. If credit is wanted, name of the donors should be placed on the outside of the packages. A truck will be here Monday from the Church World Service Center at New Windsor, Md., when all articles on hand will be picked up.

Persons desiring more information are asked to call Miss Wanda Cunningham, South Water Street, Keyser, Phone 29796 or any pastor of local churches affiliated with the World Church Service work.

LONACONING—The Pentecostal Holiness Tabernacle, 19 Jackson Street, will observe today as "World Day Of Fasting And Prayer" in accordance with all the churches of the denomination.

The church will be open throughout the day, enabling individuals to choose the prayer period most convenient.

The Youth Service at 7:30 p. m. will carry the theme of the day in its program, under the direction of Edison Fazenbaker.

Other special services include a revival meeting March 8 through 19. The conference superintendent, Rev. Harrison H. Valentine, of Baltimore, will speak the first week. He will be followed by Rev. Rex R. Coffman of Piedmont. Both men are musicians and singers.

On Saturday March 13, a religious film entitled, "Venture Into Faith," featuring Rev. Oral Roberts and his "Bible Deliverance" ministry will be shown. The place of the showing will be announced later by the pastor, Rev. Walter Veasel.

During January of this year, miners worked an average of only 16 days in commercial mines, compared to 17 days during the corresponding month a year ago.

Westernport Firemen Seek More Space For Equipment

WESTERNPORT — William Mayles, chief of Potomac Fire Company No. 2, asked permission for cutting an opening in the partition of the city building between the engine room of the fire company and the hall. The reason for this additional space for the fire company is to install hose drying equipment.

Mayor Okey E. Michael stated the commissioners would consider the request and discuss the matter with the fire company.

Philip Hertig, Frostburg, conferred with the mayor and council relative to street plans he had prepared of Railroad, Gay and Wood Street extended.

It was ordered that James P. Rogers, Baltimore, certified public accountant be employed again this year to audit the town's books.

Application Of Irrigation To W. Va. Farms Is Studied

Supplemental irrigation, the practice of supplementing natural rainfall to secure increased yields, may be applied in a number of ways. Sprinkler irrigation is best suited to rolling land, and consequently the most popular method of applying water in the eastern United States.

Although more than 100,000 acres of land in the Northeastern United States were irrigated in 1950, very little irrigation is being practiced in West Virginia. Many of the areas where irrigation is used extensively have higher rates of rainfall than West Virginia; one area of the State receives only 30 inches of precipitation per average year, which is about the lowest in any locality east of the Mississippi river.

The practice of irrigation is limited by the amount of water available. It's practical use also depends upon soil fertility, the type of crop produced, and the proper management of the farm so as to take advantage of higher yields that may be realized from supplemental irrigation. Data derived from other areas seem to indicate that West Virginia farmers in the vegetable, dairy, and orchard farming areas might well profit from irrigation practices.

Researchers from the West Virginia University Agricultural Experiment Station are currently engaged in research studies to determine the soil, fertility, and water relationships involved in successful irrigation. The experimental plots are located on Reymann Memorial Farms, Wardensville, and are primarily concerned with hay and pasture crops at present.

Irrigation trials on a mature bluegrass-white clover pasture at Wardensville in 1953 gave a dry matter yield approximately three times that of similar pasture that received only natural rainfall. The non-irrigated areas produced yields only in the spring and early part of the summer. From July to September, appreciable growth occurred only on those plots that received supplemental irrigation.

Dr. P. D. McCoy Named To Head Area Explorers

Westernport Dentist Accepts Appointment

WESTERNPORT—Dr. Paul D. McCoy has been appointed Explorer Commissioner of Potomac Council. Willis Smith, Cumberland, scout executive of the council, stated at the Tri-Towns District Scouters meeting held at the Odd Fellow's Hall here Tuesday that Dr. McCoy had accepted the office.

An Explorer Scout is a Boy Scout 14 years of age or older and he has the privilege of remaining in his troop or joining an Explorer Post, Smith explained.

Dr. McCoy plans to organize a Post here.

Alton Fortney, chairman of camping and activities committee of the district announced that he received a letter of appreciation from Wayne Ritchie, chairman of the United Organizations thanking the scouts for the house to house solicitation of non-perishable, foods last Saturday for the United Organizations. Over 2,000 items which were donated have been placed in the storage rooms of the Wagner Building in Piedmont.

Fortney also stated that he had received much praise of the recent scout circus presented last month by the district Boy and Girl Scouts in the Piedmont High School auditorium. Out of town tributes of the affair were most pleasing.

It was decided to hold it again next year during Boy Scout Week so each troop can begin planning for their part in the event.

The Swanton troops will provide the clown acts and one ring of the circus will be reserved for Girl Scouts acts.

ARTHUR THOMAS

Arthur Thomas Is Candidate At Frostburg

Commissioner Seeks Re-election April 6

FROSTBURG—City Commissioner Arthur Thomas has announced his candidacy for the office of City Commissioner at the municipal election to be held Tuesday, April 6. He was first elected to the city council in 1942, and was re-elected in 1944, 1946, 1948, 1950 and 1952.

Thomas, who resides with his wife at 169 Spring Street, has been employed at the Celanese plant for 30 years. He is the father of Mrs. Rae Pugh, of Frostburg, and Arthur Thomas Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla. Another son, the late Sgt. Douglas Thomas, was killed in action in Korea on September 27, 1950, and was honored with the posthumous citation for bravery.

During his long term as a city official, Thomas has served as police and fire commissioner and more recently as commissioner of water and light.

Thomas, a prominent vocalist, is choir leader at the First Methodist Church and at present is training the young people's choir with members from practically all the churches in the community to sing at the annual Sunrise Service, Easter Sunday at State Teachers College.

The group was entertained by Dusty Shaffer of radio station WKYR of Keyser.

The chapter received an invitation to attend the Academy of Friendship meeting at Charles Town, April 25 and to conduct the closing part of the meeting.

Plans were made to hold a Friendship supper, March 23. It will be in charge of the Ways and Means Committee. Mrs. Ruth High, junior graduate regent chairman of the committee and Mrs. Deana Nogle, graduate regent and chairman of Academy Friendship will be co-chairmen.

The next meeting of the chapter will be March 16.

West Virginia Coal Production Drops

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 4 (AP)—Production in West Virginia's coal mines during January amounted to 8,662,151 tons, a drop of almost two million tons from the January, 1953, figure of 10,422,038.

The State Mines Department's monthly summary, out today, also showed—on the same basis of comparison—fewer accidents per ton of coal mined, fewer working days for the miners, and a drop in the number of men employed.

During January of this year, miners worked an average of only 16 days in commercial mines, compared to 17 days during the corresponding month a year ago.

New Garbage Cards Are Now Available

WESTERNPORT — The annual garbage cards are now available at the office of the Westernport city clerk. The present garbage cards now in use expire on March 31.

Choir Rehearsals Scheduled For Keyser Sunrise Service

KEYSER — Preliminary plans for the annual observance of Easter with the Community Easter Sunrise Service, were announced by the Keyser Ministerium Wednesday. Arrangements have been made to conduct the service on the campus of Potomac State College at 6 a.m. Easter Sunday morning, April 18. The speaker for the service will be John Thomas, lay speaker in the Methodist Church, Romney.

Mrs. E. E. Church will again be the director of the Community Chorus, composed of members of the choirs of each cooperating local church. Mrs. Church announced yesterday that the first rehearsal will be conducted on Sunday, March 21, at 2:30 p.m., in the Presbyterian Church. She said that all interested in singing in the chorus should be present for rehearsals.

Churches cooperating in the Sunrise service are: Calvary Evangelical United Brethren, Keyser Church of the Brethren, First Methodist and Grace Methodist, and Presbyterian. Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will not participate in the service as that church will continue in its traditional annual Eastern morning communion service, which has been conducted for a number of years.

Westernport Firemen Seek More Space For Equipment

WESTERNPORT — William Mayles, chief of Potomac Fire Company No. 2, asked permission for cutting an opening in the partition of the city building between the engine room of the fire company and the hall. The reason for this additional space for the fire company is to install hose drying equipment.

Mayor Okey E. Michael stated the commissioners would consider the request and discuss the matter with the fire company.

Philip Hertig, Frostburg, conferred with the mayor and council relative to street plans he had prepared of Railroad, Gay and Wood Street extended.

It was ordered that James P. Rogers, Baltimore, certified public accountant be employed again this year to audit the town's books.

A request that a street light be placed on Vine Street in the vicinity of William Stine's residence was refused.

The town jail will be repainted.

Estimates for gas furnaces for the city building were read as follows; Sears Roebuck and Co., $549.50 hooked up to present system; Walter Yoeder and Sons of Cumberland, plan A $927 and plan B with new duct line through cellar $2,260 and Sun Heating Company of Cumberland, gas converter $243 and a new gas furnace $911.

Joseph Sullivan was appointed judge at the biennial election to be held May 25. Mrs. Henrietta Kazlo and Howard Fazenbaker were appointed judges at the last meeting. The latter two serve as registration officers. Mrs. Margaret Kelley Daniels and Mrs. Thomas Dolan also have been named clerks of the election.

Application Of Irrigation To W. Va. Farms Is Studied

Supplemental irrigation, the practice of supplementing natural rainfall to secure increased yields, may be applied in a number of ways. Sprinkler irrigation is best suited to rolling land, and consequently the most popular method of applying water in the eastern United States.

Although more than 100,000 acres of land in the Northeastern United States were irrigated in 1950, very little irrigation is being practiced in West Virginia. Many of the areas where irrigation is used extensively have higher rates of rainfall than West Virginia; one area of the State receives only 30 inches of precipitation per average year, which is about the lowest in any locality east of the Mississippi river.

The practice of irrigation is limited by the amount of water available. It's practical use also depends upon soil fertility, the type of crop produced, and the proper management of the farm so as to take advantage of higher yields that may be realized from supplemental irrigation. Data derived from other areas seem to indicate that West Virginia farmers in the vegetable, dairy, and orchard farming areas might well profit from irrigation practices.

Researchers from the West Virginia University Agricultural Experiment Station are currently engaged in research studies to determine the soil, fertility, and water relationships involved in successful irrigation. The experimental plots are located on Reymann Memorial Farms, Wardensville, and are primarily concerned with hay and pasture crops at present.

Irrigation trials on a mature bluegrass-white clover pasture at Wardensville in 1953 gave a dry matter yield approximately three times that of similar pasture that received only natural rainfall. The non-irrigated areas produced yields only in the spring and early part of the summer. From July to September, appreciable growth occurred only on those plots that received supplemental irrigation.

Dr. P. D. McCoy Named To Head Area Explorers

Westernport Dentist Accepts Appointment

WESTERNPORT—Dr. Paul D. McCoy has been appointed Explorer Commissioner of Potomac Council. Willis Smith, Cumberland, scout executive of the council, stated at the Tri-Towns District Scouters meeting held at the Odd Fellow's Hall here Tuesday that Dr. McCoy had accepted the office.

Over 2,000 items which were donated have been placed in the storage rooms of the Wagner Building in Piedmont.

Fortney also stated that he had received much praise of the recent scout circus presented last month by the district Boy and Girl Scouts in the Piedmont High School auditorium. Out of town tributes of the affair were most pleasing.

It was decided to hold it again next year during Boy Scout Week so each troop can begin planning for their part in the event.

The Swanton troops will provide the clown acts and one ring of the circus will be reserved for Girl Scouts acts.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 4—(INS)—"East of Eden," John Steinbeck's best seller, will roll the 1st of April at Warner Brothers. Elia Kazan, director and producer, has signed James Dean for the role of Caleb, one of the brothers.

Dean is now on the Broadway stage with Geraldine Page in "The Immoralist." Kazan, who is taking a three-week vacation in the Caribbean, telephoned Jack W rner saying that he had Dean tied up.

While on his cruise, Kazan will stop at Key West to discuss "Mississippi Woman" with Tennessee Williams. This is another Kazan production for Warners.

Marilyn Monroe gets down to Los Angeles over the weekend. Her voice is still husky from laryngitis and it's difficult for her to talk. However, it's fairly certain that she'll be well enough to go to the Photoplay Golden Awards dinner Monday night and receive her award as "the most popular actress" on two counts, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "How To Marry A Millionaire."

I have a hunch, and a big one, that Marilyn will do "Pink Tights." After all, Sheree North starts rehearsals on "No Business Like Show Business" next week, so this would seem to indicate that 20th hasn't given up the idea of getting the one and only Marilyn.

Just wait until Producer Bill Perlberg plays the critics in "Country Girl"—the Boston critic who pans the show! Bill's going to have his performance gone over with a fine tooth comb by all the real critics.

The way it all happened was, George Seaton and Bill had been looking for an actor to play the critic's role.

Suddenly George took a look at Bill and said, "you look more like a critic than anyone I know—why don't you do it?" And Bill, who like all producers has a touch of the ham, said yes, pronto.

Some 15 years ago, before David Niven met his beautiful wife, and Merle Oberon met Sir Alex Korda, they were seen everywhere together. Most people thought they'd marry.

Now the Woolf brothers have offered Merle the role opposite David in "Carrington, V. C." David and Mrs. Niven leave in June to make the picture.

Merle would much prefer to stay right in town and make a Hollywood picture. She, Paulette Goddard and Corinne Calvet are supposed to star in 39 TV films in a series called "Women in Love."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Fernando Lamas' new flame is Beverly Thompson, who used to be Hyatt Dehn's heartbeat. Fernando and Beverly play a lot of tennis together, and have been at the Harlequin three nights in succession.

Two happy honeymooners, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Brimmer, tell me they read my column in the Cedar Rapids Gazette, their home town. They're relatives of CBS' Jack Mullin.

William Goetz and Danny Kaye have dropped the idea of doing the story of Maurice Chevalier.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, still dizzy from their New York trip, received the good word that their movie, "The Long, Long Trailer," is doing big business.

Dick Contino's reception at the Mocambo was just what everyone expected it would be—great! He got his father out of the audience to sing "Butcher Boy" with him, a song they used to sing in the butcher shop.

Julius La Rosa and Eddie Fisher walked into the Captain's Table arm in arm after La Rosa's last show at Ciro's.

At the Players, Beetsy Wynn and Prax Dexter, who seems to get around.

Tallulah Bankhead catches the plane to New York when she closes at The Sands, to talk to CBS about a TV show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Baering Down On The News

In spite of Mr. Dulles' stuttering optimism we feel Moscow ran the Berlin circus like a ringmaster with two whistles.

The best we got out of it was a switch to Geneva in April. A town that has a good record for peace and a better for gin.

But they mix no better than face powder and birdseed.

This conference-in-the-round is speedily overhauling the record establicated by a prior circular excursion.

That was the congress of peace coagulated at Lugano in 1872, switched to the Hague in 1873, exercised its excursional option to Paris in 1875, cross-countered to Geneva in 1877, went back to Paris for its toothbrush in 1878, sprouted in Brussels in 1882 and had money to Berne in 1884.

The secret word for the program was, "Fancy meeting you here."

What was it all about? Contract bridge hadn't been invented yet.

General Kinkaid hit the nail on the thumb when he said Swiss conventions were hotel-keepers' holidays.

The general should wot of wott he was talking about. He was a lobbyishly successful hotel-keeper hisself.

Switzerland is as neutral as sawdust in a barroom fight. After it's smoothed over the cops never can tell it's been kicked around.

Our only guess as to Molotov's okay of Switzerland is he wants to walk downhill for a change.

En passant, we burn the incense of astuteness to William Tell for putting that apple on the forty-fourth parallel.

For Maryland Junction the drive will be handled by Mrs. A. L. Murrell and Mrs. Edgar Duer and Mrs. George Ott will be in charge of Carpenter's Addition.

John Robb Nominated To Head Elks Lodge

John M. Robb was nominated exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, Wednesday.

Also named were William J. Aumiller, esteemed leading knight; Bruce M. Mackey, esteemed loyal knight; William E. Hixenbaugh, esteemed lecturing knight; James E. Yarnall and Richard C. Wilkinson, secretary.

Edgar A. Dashiell, treasurer; William P. Fricker, tyler; George R. Lyming, representative to the Grand Lodge; Merton A. Wise and John J. Blough, trustee for five years. An election will be held March 17.

Elected to membership were G. A. Taylor, Cecil S. Grimshaw, Harold Skidmore, Lawrence Reed, Edward L. Grimshaw and Arthur N. Spano.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 4—(INS)—"East of Eden," John Steinbeck's best seller, will roll the 1st of April at Warner Brothers. Elia Kazan, director and producer, has signed James Dean for the role of Caleb, one of the brothers.

Dean is now on the Broadway stage with Geraldine Page in "The Immoralist." Kazan, who is taking a three-week vacation in the Caribbean, telephoned Jack Warner saying that he had Dean tied up.

While on his cruise, Kazan will stop at Key West to discuss "Mississippi Woman" with Tennessee Williams. This is another Kazan production for Warners.

Marilyn Monroe gets down to Los Angeles over the weekend. Her voice is still husky from laryngitis and it's difficult for her to talk. However, it's fairly certain that she'll be well enough to go to the Photoplay Golden Awards dinner Monday night and receive her award as "the most popular actress" on two counts, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" and "How To Marry A Millionaire."

I have a hunch, and a big one, that Marilyn will do "Pink Tights." After all, Sheree North starts rehearsals on "No Business Like Show Business" next week, so this would seem to indicate that 20th hasn't given up the idea of getting the one and only Marilyn.

Just wait until Producer Bill Perlberg plays the critics in "Country Girl"—the Boston critic who pans the show! Bill's going to have his performance gone over with a fine tooth comb by all the real critics.

The way it all happened was, George Seaton and Bill had been looking for an actor to play the critic's role.

Suddenly George took a look at Bill and said, "you look more like a critic than anyone I know—why don't you do it?" And Bill, who like all producers has a touch of the ham, said yes, pronto.

Some 15 years ago, before David Niven met his beautiful wife, and Merle Oberon met Sir Alex Korda, they were seen everywhere together. Most people thought they'd marry.

Now the Woolf brothers have offered Merle the role opposite David in "Carrington, V. C." David and Mrs. Niven leave in June to make the picture.

Merle would much prefer to stay right in town and make a Hollywood picture. She, Paulette Goddard and Corinne Calvet are supposed to star in 39 TV films in a series called "Women in Love."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Fernando Lamas' new flame is Beverly Thompson, who used to be Hyatt Dehn's heartbeat. Fernando and Beverly play a lot of tennis together, and have been at the Harlequin three nights in succession.

Two happy honeymooners, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Brimmer, tell me they read my column in the Cedar Rapids Gazette, their home town. They're relatives of CBS' Jack Mullin.

William Goetz and Danny Kaye have dropped the idea of doing the story of Maurice Chevalier.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, still dizzy from their New York trip, received the good word that their movie, "The Long, Long Trailer," is doing big business.

Dick Contino's reception at the Mocambo was just what everyone expected it would be—great! He got his father out of the audience to sing "Butcher Boy" with him, a song they used to sing in the butcher shop.

Julius La Rosa and Eddie Fisher walked into the Captain's Table arm in arm after La Rosa's last show at Ciro's.

At the Players, Beetsy Wynn and Frank Dexter, who seems to get around.

Tallulah Bankhead catches the plane to New York when she closes at The Sands, to talk to CBS about a TV show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Distributed By INS)

In spite of Mr. Dulles' stuttering optimism we feel Moscow ran the Berlin circus like a ringmaster with two whistles.

The best we got out of it was a switch to Geneva in April. A town that has a good record for peace and a better for gin.

But they mix no better than face powder and birdseed.

This conference-in-the-round is speedily overhauling the record establicated by a prior circular excursion.

That was the congress of peace coagulated at Lugano in 1872, switched to the Hague in 1873, exercised its excursional option to Paris in 1875, cross-countered to Geneva in 1877, went back to Paris for its toothbrush in 1878, sprouted in Brussels in 1882 and had money to Berne in 1884.

The secret word for the program was, "Fancy meeting you here."

What was it all about? Contract bridge hadn't been invented yet.

General Kinkaid hit the nail on the thumb when he said Swiss conventions were hotel-keepers' holidays.

The general should wot of wott he was talking about. He was a lobbyishly successful hotel-keeper hisself.

Switzerland is as neutral as sawdust in a barroom fight. After it's smoothed over the cops never can tell it's been kicked around.

Our only guess as to Molotov's okay of Switzerland is he wants to walk downhill for a change.

En passant, we burn the incense of astuteness to William Tell for putting that apple on the forty-fourth parallel.

Ridgeley Red Cross Fund Workers Named

Mrs. Roy W. Ridgely and Mrs. J. C. Arrington have been selected chairmen for the Red Cross fund appeal in Ridgeley and they have completed plans for the drive and named workers.

Volunteers for Ridgeley's campaign are Mrs. Edna Nelson, Mrs. Keith Skidmore, Mrs. Carl Jewell, Miss Jo Ellen Maxon, Mrs. Patrick Jewell, Mrs. Joseph Nelson, Mrs. L. J. Maxon, Mrs. Olin Logsdon, Mrs. Virginia Zimmerman, Mrs. Raymond Winterstine, Mrs. Anna Moreland, Melvin Heiskell.

For Maryland Junction the drive will be handled by Mrs. A. L. Murrell and Mrs. Edgar Duer and Mrs. George Ott will be in charge of Carpenter's Addition.

John Robb Nominated To Head Elks Lodge

John M. Robb was nominated exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, Wednesday.

Also named were William J. Aumiller, esteemed leading knight; Bruce M. Mackey, esteemed loyal knight; William E. Hixenbaugh, esteemed lecturing knight; James E. Yarnall and Richard C. Wilkinson, secretary.

Edgar A. Dashiell, treasurer; William P. Fricker, tyler; George R. Lyming, representative to the Grand Lodge; Merton A. Wise and John J. Blough, trustee for five years. An election will be held March 17.

Elected to membership were G. A. Taylor, Cecil S. Grimshaw, Harold Skidmore, Lawrence Reed, Edward L. Grimshaw and Arthur N. Spano.

The lodge will hold an "open house" program March 20 in honor of Elks bowlers from Johnstown. The Cavaliers will provide music for a dance.

Porpoises formerly were hunted extensively for their meat.

There are almost 60 species in the lily family.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Constructive And Creative

It's always presumptuous for a man to try and judge a show designed entirely for women—but I will anyhow. "Home," the new NBC television show aimed at women, should be a whale of a show on every count. It has aims that are intelligent and ambitious. It has scope. It has taste. It has Arlene Francis. What more do you want?

John Crosby

Its objectives—to start at the beginning — are to instruct and entertain and bedazzle women on the subjects dearest to their hearts—home furnishings, cooking, babies, child psychology, gardening, etiquette, recreation, and health. That would seem to leave out the dearest thing in most womens' hearts—men. But it doesn't. They get experts on this show to tell the girls how to feed the guy better, how to keep him healthy, how to clothe him and even how to understand him better. How good the experts are only time will tell but they seemed, at first blush, to hole.

Essentially, I guess, this will be a "how to do it" and self-help type of program with a dash of culture (interviews with authors and other deep thinkers) and a bit of pure fun. It has been called an electronics magazine, an apt description, and as such it has a bit of the moral fervor of "Readers Digest" and of the peep of "Life."

Pat Weaver, president of NBC, whose brain child this largely is, has succumbed to a weakness for gadgets, but the gadgets make quite a lot of sense. "Home" emanates from a specially built studio surrounded by a translucent plastic skin for rear projection and special effects. It's a 60-foot circular stage with revolving stages, kitchens, gadgets that revolve things and tilt things and lift things—all to show them off better—and a workshop and even a garden to grow things in. There's also a special effects area which supposedly can produce rain, snow, fog or sleet to show the effects of bad weather on various kinds of merchandise. It didn't work very well on the opening show when it was supposed to unlease a downpour of rain, but I'm sure they'll have it in order pretty soon.

On the opening show, after an introduction of the multitudinous editors, there was a fashion show of party dresses for girls from six to sixty (an $8 dimity job for a six-year old to a $50 creation for grandma), all described by the fashion and beauty editor Eve Hunter, who hereby wins the Crosby award for using the most sensible, straight-forward fashion lingo I ever heard. ("This is a two-piece organdy and it sells for about $20.) From those prices you readily gather this show is pitched at the vast mass of women, not at the country club set. (Next day they told how to make a dress.)

Then Dr. Rose Franzblau, who might be described as the problem editor, described what she proposes to do, which is to help people understand their marriage, their children and themselves. This is a little on the Dorothy Dix side—you're invited to write in your problems—but it will be cast, I guess, on a much higher and more enlightened level of human psychology than that of the late Miss Dix.

As for the rest of the hour there were films of a couple of babies being nuzzled by puppies (strictly for laughs), an interview between Miss Francis and a woman connected with a community theater in Greenwich (with movies) describing how to start a community theater and what fun it is, a lesson by Poppy Cannon, the food editor, on how to make vichyssoise, shopping hints on new gadgets to buy ("The Hoover people have just about over-reached themselves," the man said, speaking of a new vacuum cleaner) and a lesson on how to arrange furniture in rooms of various sizes and shapes.

Through it all Miss Francis bubbled and smiled and pulled things together in expert fashion. She talked too fast — everyone talked much too fast — but I imagine they'll settle down to a more respectable pace after they get over opening night jitters.

REVERSE YOUR METHOD

FREQUENTLY recurring combinations of the cards should be learned so thoroughly, by anyone except a casual player, that he can recognize them at a moment's glance and know exactly how to play them for best results. There are some lineups with which it is possible to assure every trick by proper procedure, others with which one method definitely excels any other and some with which it is possible to make certain that no more than one trick will be lost.

	♠ J ♥ A K 7 2 ♦ Q 10 6 3 ♣ Q 8 6 3
♠ Q 9 8 4 2 ♥ Q 10 5 3 ♦ J 8 5 4 ♣ None	N W E S	♠ K 7 6 5 3 ♥ J 9 8 4 ♦ None ♣ J 10 5 4
	♠ A 10 ♥ 6 ♦ A K 9 7 2 ♣ A K 9 7 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
7 NT

The combination of North's second bid, a game demand jump in diamonds, and his later showing of the missing ace with his response to the Blackwood, could well justify South's putting the hand into the highest contract of all on this synthetic deal, the purpose of which is to illustrate the difference between the right ways to play the two minor suits.

Cursory examination will show that the only difference between the diamond and club holdings lies in possession of the 10 in one case and the 8 in the other. That slight variation, however, alters completely the right way to play the two suits. Where the 10 is held, a finesse against the J is possible in either direction, so the first trick in diamonds should be taken in the hand with two top honors; if either defender fails to follow suit, a finesse is taken against his partner. That method is not the best in clubs.

With both the J and 10 missing, the only chance to get all of the tricks, when one defender holds all four outstanding cards, is if East has them; the job could not be done if West held all four. So with that suit the first trick should be taken with the single honor, leaving two top cards over the two lower honors if West discards.

You may every once in a while, in a suit contract, have a trump situation like either of those suits. If so, you now can be sure of how to play for it for all the tricks without having to depend upon a 2-2 or 3-1 split of the missing cards.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 4 2 ♥ K Q 6 2 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ K Q 4 3
♠ 8 6 3 ♥ A 7 5 ♦ J 4 3 ♣ A 6 5 2	N W E S	♠ A J 9 ♥ J 10 8 3 ♦ A 10 7 ♣ J 9 7
	♠ K Q 10 7 5 ♥ 9 4 ♦ K Q 8 6 ♣ 10 8

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

What principle does this deal illustrate regarding the relative value of an ace and a king-queen combination?

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Constructive And Creative

It's always presumptuous for a man to try and judge a show designed entirely for women—but I will anyhow. "Home," the new NBC television show aimed at women, should be a whale of a show on every count. It has aims that are intelligent and ambitious. It has scope. It has taste. It has Arlene Francis. What more do you want?

John Crosby

Its objectives—to start at the beginning — are to instruct and entertain and bedazzle women on the subjects dearest to their hearts—home furnishings, cooking, babies, child psychology, gardening, etiquette, recreation, and health. That would seem to leave out the dearest thing in most womens' hearts—men. But it doesn't. They get experts on this show to tell the girls how to feed the guy better, how to keep him healthy, how to clothe him and even how to understand him better. How good the experts are only time will tell but they seemed, at first blush, t[illegible]hole.

Essentially, I guess, this will be a "how to do it" and self-help type of program wi[illegible] a dash of culture (interviews with authors and other deep thinkers) and a bit of pure fun. It [illegible] been called an electronics magazine, an apt description, and as such it has a bit of the moral fervor of "Readers Digest" and of the [illegible]eep of "Life."

Pat Weaver, president of NBC, whose brain child this largely is, has succumbed to [illegible] weakness for gadgets, but the gadgets make quite a lot of sense. "Home" emanates from a specially built studio surrounded by a translucent plastic skin for rear projection and special effects. It's a 60-foot circular stage with revolving stages, kitchens, gadgets that revolve things and tilt things and lift things—all to show them off better—and a workshop and even a garden to grow things in. There's also a special effects area which supposedly can produce rain, snow, fog or sleet to show the effects of bad weather on various kinds of merchandise. It didn't work very well on the opening show when it was supposed to unlease a downpour of rain, but I'm sure they'll have it in order pretty soon.

On the opening show, after an introduction of the multitudinous editors, there was a fashion show of party dresses for girls from six to sixty (an $8 dimity job for a six-year old to a $50 creation for grandma), all described by the fashion and beauty editor Eve Hunter, who hereby wins the Crosby award for using the most sensible, straight-forward fashion lingo I ever heard. ("This is a two-piece organdy and it sells for about $20.) From those prices you readily gather this show is pitched at the vast mass of women, not at the country club set. (Next day they told how to make a dress.)

Then Dr. Rose Franzblau, who might be described as the problem editor, described what she proposes to do, which is to help people understand their marriage, their children and themselves. This is a little on the Dorothy Dix side—you're invited to write in your problems—but it will be cast, I guess, on a much higher and more enlightened level of human psychology than that of the late Miss Dix.

As for the rest of the hour there were films of a couple of babies being nuzzled by puppies (strictly for laughs), an interview between Miss Francis and a woman connected with a community theater in Greenwich (with movies) describing how to start a community theater and what fun it is, a lesson by Poppy Cannon, the food editor, on how to make vichyssoise, shopping hints on new gadgets to buy ("The Hoover people have just about over-reached themselves," the man said, speaking of a new vacuum cleaner) and a lesson on how to arrange furniture in rooms of various sizes and shapes.

Through it all Miss Francis bubbled and smiled and pulled things together in expert fashion. She talked too fast — everyone talked much too fast — but I imagine they'll settle down to a more respectable pace after they get over opening night jitters.

REVERSE YOUR METHOD

FREQUENTLY recurring combinations of the cards should be learned so thoroughly, by anyone except a casual player, that he can recognize them at a moment's glance and know exactly how to play them for best results. There are some lineups with which it is possible to assure every trick by proper procedure, others with which one method definitely excels any other and some with which it is possible to make certain that no more than one trick will be lost.

	♠ J ♥ A K 7 2 ♦ Q 10 6 3 ♣ Q 8 6 3
♠ Q 9 8 4 2 ♥ Q 10 5 3 ♦ J 8 5 4 ♣ None	N W E S	♠ K 7 6 5 3 ♥ J 9 8 4 ♦ None ♣ J 10 5 4
	♠ A 10 ♥ 6 ♦ A K 9 7 2 ♣ A K 9 7 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
7 NT

The combination of North's second bid, a game demand jump in diamonds, and his later showing of the missing ace with his response to the Blackwood, could well justify South's putting the hand into the highest contract of all on this synthetic deal, the purpose of which is to illustrate the difference between the right ways to play the two minor suits.

Cursory examination will show that the only difference between the diamond and club holdings lies in possession of the 10 in one case and the 8 in the other. That slight variation, however, alters completely the right way to play the two suits. Where the 10 is held, a finesse against the J is possible in either direction, so the first trick in diamonds should be taken in the hand with two top honors; if either defender fails to follow suit, a finesse is taken against his partner. That method is not the best in clubs.

With both the J and 10 missing, the only chance to get all of the tricks, when one defender holds all four outstanding cards, is if East has them; the job could not be done if West held all four. So with that suit the first trick should be taken with the single honor, leaving two top cards over the two lower honors if West discards.

You may every once in a while, in a suit contract, have a trump situation like either of those suits. If so, you now can be sure of how to play for it for all the tricks without having to depend upon a 2-2 or 3-1 split of the missing cards.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 4 2 ♥ K Q 6 2 ♦ 9 5 2 ♣ K Q 4 3
♠ 8 6 3 ♥ A 7 5 ♦ J 4 3 ♣ A 6 5 2	N W E S	♠ A J 9 ♥ J 10 8 3 ♦ A 10 7 ♣ J 9 7
	♠ K Q 10 7 5 ♥ 9 4 ♦ K Q 8 6 ♣ 10 8

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

What principle does this deal illustrate regarding the relative value of an ace and a king-queen combination?

We take this means of expressing our sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors who were so kind to us in our bereavement, the death of our beloved father, Vonda S. Fleegle. 'Pro-Artichoke' Bloc Is Formed On Capitol Hill

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—The newest congressional farm group—the artichoke bloc—is in full swing today.

It's determined to get artichokes into the hands, and the stomachs, of the millions of Midwesterners and Easterners who haven't so much as tasted one.

Usually it's hard to put down exactly which congressmen are members of, say, a cotton bloc or wheat bloc. But there's no question about the artichoke bloc.

It consists of Reps. Younger and Gubser, California Republicans.

Their districts produce 9 out of 10 of all artichokes grown in the United States.

Younger and Gubser have made a pitch for artichokes in the "Congressional Record." And they had a luncheon for the Republican leaders, Speaker Martin (Mass.) and Arends, (Ill), and the Democratic leaders, Reps. Rayburn (Tex) and McCormack (Mass).

Gubser's comment on this bipartisan feasting: "Not a one had ever eaten artichokes before. We had to show them how, step by step."

And did they like them?

"I think so," Gubser said hopefully, "But artichokes are like olives. They're an acquired taste."

Nevertheless artichokes are one of man's oldest foods. Henry VIII for example, was fond of them. And early day garden books have such comments as:

Hyll, in 1563: "The artichoke (sic) groweth like the heade unto the pine apple."

B. Googe, in 1477: "The hartichoch is a kind of thistell, by the diligence of the gardner brought to be a good garden hearbe."

In France, Spain and Italy artichokes continue to be a principal vegetable. The reason they haven't caught on here is simple. They need a special climate, warm and preferably right by the sea.

Pete Heller, in Gubser's office, explains that special California climate this way: "The fog moves in each night and sits on them." The Artichokes love it.

Because of air freight, Younger points out, it now is possible to buy fresh artichokes anywhere in the country. At a price, of course. He says artichokes in Washington are 35 cents whereas they would be 15 out West.

Still, he'd like to see more people nibbling artichokes, thereby increasing what has been a relatively small but steady three million dollar a year business.

Heller, a Minnesota boy before he turned Californian, said he had to go into the Army and be sent to France before he ever tasted artichokes.

Which explains why Younger and Gubser are shopping it up. They don't think many persons will go that far, even for artichokes.

Market Weathers Selling Influences, Closes Higher

NEW YORK, March 4 (AP)—The Stock Market weathered some early selling influences today and closed higher, but there was little vigor in the performance.

The market on average is currently in new high ground for the past year. At that level it is within a short distance of establishing a new high for nearly 24 years. The present mark was set 14 months ago.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 50 cents at $115.50, only 80 cents away from the 1953-54 high established Jan. 4 of last year, the best since June of 1930.

The industrial component of the average was up 60 cents at a new high, railroads were ahead 90 cents, and utilities were up 10 cents.

The list was composed of 1,154 individual issues, 27 less than yesterday when the market declined slightly on average. The 50-cent gain in the average was not reflected prominently in the number of stocks advancing. There were 467 up and 339 down. Fifty-nine new highs and 4 new lows for 1953-54 were set.

Curtiss-Wright, yesterday's most active issue up ⅜, also topped the list today up ⅜ at 9⅜ with 53,400 shares traded.

It was followed by Southern Pacific up 1¾ at 43½, Westinghouse Electric up ¼ at 63⅜, RKO Theaters up ¼ at 4⅞, and Beguet Consolidated Mining up 1-16 at 15-16.

KC Council Backs Bishop

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP)—Carroll Council 1976 of the Knights of Columbus declared today "we choose the Bishop" in an intra-order dispute over racial policies.

The Baltimore group thus took a stand beside the Most Rev. Floyd L. Begin, auxiliary bishop of Cleveland, who threatened to leave the Cleveland K. of C. and join an interracial council which was refused a charter.

"The only reason they're keeping them out is their color," Bishop Begin said in announcing his decision.

In a publication signed by William F. Allenbaugh, grand knight of the Carroll Council, the Baltimore group said:

"Now that the proposition is set forth to Carroll Council that we make a choice between the Supreme Board of the Knights of Columbus and the lack of proper appreciation of the great and universal Catholicity of the brotherhood of man on the one hand, and the brave and fearless Bishop Begin who speaks to us with the real authority and who holds out to us the teachings of Christ on the other, we do not hesitate.

"We choose the bishop."

The Carroll Council, in its official publication, charged the Supreme Board of the order with attempting to squelch any criticism from members, with summary treatment of members charged with offenses against the rules and regulations of the order, and with a "growing tendency toward secularization."

Group Offers To Assist Naturalization Class

The Americanism Group of the Woman's Civic Club is working in cooperation with the Americanism Group of the Cresap Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to assist prospective citizens.

The combined project was discussed by Mrs. Lloyd R. Meyers and Miss Ruth Clauson, chairmen of the respective groups.

Recently the DAR distributed booklets to persons expecting to become naturalized citizens and anyone of the class needing interpretation of the rules and regulations is asked to call Mrs. Meyers, telephone 389.

Captured Mau Mau Leader Posts Peace Pleas In Jungle Mail Boxes

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 4 (AP)—A captured Mau Mau leader is posting peace appeals in secret jungle mail boxes in a dramatic move by the British aimed at ending the anti-White terror in Kenya.

"Gen. China," a 32-year-old Mau Mau leader who was wounded and taken prisoner 2½ months ago, has convinced the British the time is ripe to seek peace meetings with leaders of the terror group.

His activities, undertaken against a background of secrecy and intrigue, have brought him this reward thus far: His death sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Details of the British gamble at ending terror that has taken thousands of lives in the British East African colony were disclosed recently at a news conference by Sir Evelyn Baring, the colonial governor.

Sir Evelyn said "encouraging replies" had already been received from the letters written by China and distributed by him in the Nyeri District of south central Kenya.

China, whose real name is Waruhiu Itote, formerly commanded 4,000 terrorists in the Nyeri area. He was considered second in command to Dedan Kimathi, field commander of Mau Mau.

During World War II China served with the British Military Labor Corps in Burma, attaining the rank of corporal. Later he was transferred to the Kings African Rifles and won several medals. After the war he worked for the East African Railways' locomotive department.

China was wounded in the throat Jan. 15 in a skirmish with British forces fighting a Mau Mau gang in the Nyeri district 60 miles north of Nairobi.

Flown to Nairobi, he was shackled with a ball and chain and placed under close surveillance.

On Feb. 3, a British court sentenced China to die, after convicting him of consorting with armed persons and unlawfully possessing two rounds of ammunition.

He did not ask for reprieve and was not offered one. But during interrogations he convinced the British there was a widespread feeling among the terrorists that further armed insurrection would only bring hardship to the Kikuyu tribesmen from whom Mau Mau draws recruits.

The British decided not to miss any opportunity to end the emergency. They agreed to let China make contact with other gang leaders to negotiate a surrender.

China was removed from the condemned cell in Nairobi prison, hidden among bags in a police vehicle, and taken to police headquarters. In an empty office his manacles were taken off, and he was dressed in the uniform of an African policeman. When he emerged later for the flight to Nyeri, he carried a heavy cashbox containing his ball and chain.

Flown to his old stamping ground, he was lodged in a building heavily guarded by British troops. There he wrote 26 letters to his former associates.

Officials said no promises regarding surrender conditions were made.

Many of the letters were placed in secret hollow tree "boxes" known only to the Mau Mau. Others were dispatched to gang leaders by couriers. One courier carrying three such letters swallowed them while being pursued mistakenly by security forces.

'Pro-Artichoke' Bloc Is Formed On Capitol Hill

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP)—The newest congressional farm group—the artichoke bloc—is in full swing today.

It's determined to get artichokes into the hands, and the stomachs, of the millions of Midwesterners and Easterners who haven't so much as tasted one.

Usually it's hard to put down exactly which congressmen are members of, say, a cotton bloc or wheat bloc. But there's no question about the artichoke bloc.

It consists of Reps. Younger and Gubser, California Republicans.

Their districts produce 9 out of 10 of all artichokes grown in the United States.

Younger and Gubser have made a pitch for artichokes in the "Congressional Record." And they had a luncheon for the Republican leaders, Speaker Martin (Mass.) and Arends, (Ill), and the Democratic leaders, Reps. Rayburn (Tex) and McCormack (Mass).

Gubser's comment on this bipartisan feasting: "Not a one had ever eaten artichokes before. We had to show them how, step by step."

And did they like them?

"I think so," Gubser said hopefully, "But artichokes are like olives. They're an acquired taste."

Nevertheless artichokes are one of man's oldest foods. Henry VIII for example, was fond of them. And early day garden books have such comments as:

Hyll, in 1563: "The artichoke (sic) groweth like the heade unto the pine apple."

B. Googe, in 1477: "The hartichoch is a kind of thistell, by the diligence of the gardner brought to be a good garden hearbe."

In France, Spain and Italy artichokes continue to be a principal vegetable. The reason they haven't caught on here is simple. They need a special climate, warm and preferably right by the sea.

Pete Heller, in Gubser's office, explains that special California climate this way: "The fog moves in each night and sits on them." The Artichokes love it.

Because of air freight, Younger points out, it now is possible to buy fresh artichokes anywhere in the country. At a price, of course. He says artichokes in Washington are 35 cents whereas they would be 15 out West.

Still, he'd like to see more people nibbling artichokes, thereby increasing what has been a relatively small but steady three million dollar a year business.

Heller, a Minnesota boy before he turned Californian, said he had to go into the Army and be sent to France before he ever tasted artichokes.

Which explains why Younger and Gubser are shopping it up. They don't think many persons will go that far, even for artichokes.

Captured Mau Mau Leader Posts Peace Pleas In Jungle Mail Boxes

NAIROBI, Kenya, March 4 (AP)—A captured Mau Mau leader is posting peace appeals in secret jungle mail boxes in a dramatic move by the British aimed at ending the anti-White terror in Kenya.

"Gen. China," a 32-year-old Mau Mau leader who was wounded and taken prisoner 2½ months ago, has convinced the British the time is ripe to seek peace meetings with leaders of the terror group.

His activities, undertaken against a background of secrecy and intrigue, have brought him this reward thus far: His death sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Details of the British gamble at ending terror that has taken thousands of lives in the British East African colony were disclosed recently at a news conference by Sir Evelyn Baring, the colonial governor.

Sir Evelyn said "encouraging replies" had already been received from the letters written by China and distributed by him in the Nyeri District of south central Kenya.

China, whose real name is Waruhiu Itote, formerly commanded 4,000 terrorists in the Nyeri area. He was considered second in command to Dedan Kimathi, field commander of Mau Mau.

During World War II China served with the British Military Labor Corps in Burma, attaining the rank of corporal. Later he was transferred to the Kings African Rifles and won several medals. After the war he worked for the East African Railways' locomotive department.

China was wounded in the throat Jan. 15 in a skirmish with British forces fighting a Mau Mau gang in the Nyeri district 60 miles north of Nairobi.

Flown to Nairobi, he was shackled with a ball and chain and placed under close surveillance.

On Feb. 3, a British court sentenced China to die, after convicting him of consorting with armed persons and unlawfully possessing two rounds of ammunition.

He did not ask for reprieve and was not offered one. But during interrogations he convinced the British there was a widespread feeling among the terrorists that further armed insurrection would only bring hardship to the Kikuyu tribesmen from whom Mau Mau draws recruits.

The British decided not to miss any opportunity to end the emergency. They agreed to let China make contact with other gang leaders to negotiate a surrender.

China was removed from the condemned cell in Nairobi prison, hidden among bags in a police vehicle, and taken to police headquarters. In an empty office his manacles were taken off, and he was dressed in the uniform of an African policeman. When he emerged later for the flight to Nyeri, he carried a heavy cashbox containing his ball and chain.

Flown to his old stamping ground, he was lodged in a building heavily guarded by British troops. There he wrote 26 letters to his former associates.

Officials said no promises regarding surrender conditions were made.

Many of the letters were placed in secret hollow tree "boxes" known only to the Mau Mau. Others were dispatched to gang leaders by couriers. One courier carrying three such letters swallowed them while being pursued mistakenly by security forces.

KC Council Backs Bishop

BALTIMORE, March 4 (AP)—Carroll Council 1976 of the Knights of Columbus declared today "we choose the Bishop" in an intra-order dispute over racial policies.

The Baltimore group thus took a stand beside the Most Rev. Floyd L. Begin, auxiliary bishop of Cleveland, who threatened to leave the Cleveland K. of C. and join an interracial council which was refused a charter.

"The only reason they're keeping them out is their color," Bishop Begin said in announcing his decision.

In a publication signed by William F. Allenbaugh, grand knight of the Carroll Council, the Baltimore group said:

"Now that the proposition is set forth to Carroll Council that we make a choice between the Supreme Board of the Knights of Columbus and the lack of proper appreciation of the great and universal Catholicity of the brotherhood of man on the one hand, and the brave and fearless Bishop Begin who speaks to us with the real authority and who holds out to us the teachings of Christ on the other, we do not hesitate.

"We choose the bishop."

The Carroll Council, in its official publication, charged the Supreme Board of the order with attempting to squelch any criticism from members, with summary treatment of members charged with offenses against the rules and regulations of the order, and with a "growing tendency toward secularization."

George Company Offers Low Bid On School Jobs

Carver, Oldtown Additions Planned

Low bids totaling $448,661 were submitted yesterday afternoon by the George Construction Company, this city, for construction of additions to Oldtown and Carver schools.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster observed that the low figures were not much above what he expected to pay. A final decision on acceptance of the bids probably will be made when the Allegany County Board of Education meets Tuesday, March 16.

Combination Same

The George firm submitted a bid of $248,031 on the Oldtown job and $200,630 on the Carver project. The low bidder sliced not a cent off the two prices in its combination bid which still was $9,774 less than the second price.

George F. Hazelwood Company submitted a bid of $210,377 on the Carver job and $252,558 at Oldtown but reduced its combination bid $4,500 to $458,435. The John I. Vandegrift Company, the third bidder, offered a $211,300 price at Carver and $273,200 at Oldtown, slicing the combination $1,500 to $483,000.

When Webster offered cost figures to the County Delegation last year on the county's proposed $3,500,000 school construction program, he estimated that the two jobs would cost a total of $460,000. With architect's fees and furniture and equipment costs that amount probably will be slightly exceeded. One odd note on those estimates is that the superintendent had figured the Carver cost at $250,000 and the Oldtown job at $210,000 whereas the actual prices were reversed.

Architect Present

Present at yesterday's bid opening was Dennis W. Madden of the Mt. Ranier architectural firm of Walton and Madden which devised plans for the two jobs.

The Oldtown project includes conversion of the present auditorium to a cafeteria with kitchen, construction of four new classrooms, two on each floor, a new combination auditorium-gymnasium with stage and dressing room and new shop rooms.

At Carver, the auditorium will be transformed into a home economics room, the old house in which the shop and home economics classes now function will be demolished, a new shop and new comibnation auditorium-gymnasium with stage and dressing room will be constructed. They will be built on the southwest corner of the building, between the existing school and the housing project.

Webster also told the bidders yesterday that bids will be requested in about 10 days to two weeks on the proposed new LaVale Elementary School.

House Cleaning Work Begins At Industrial Dam

Workers of the A. J. Albrecht Company, at the industrial dam project across the Potomac River yesterday began "house-cleaning" the coffer dam of muck and sludge piled up by the recent high waters.

The coffer dam was completed last week to hold back water during construction of the second half of the spillway on the West Virginia side of the river.

Workers yesterday began pumping water from the circular structure. Today, officials said, they will begin removing the mud with a two-and-a-half cubic yard bucket attached to a crane. Although the high water set work on the dam back about a week, it did not do any extensive damage.

A company spokesman said no equipment was lost or damaged by the sudden rush of high water in the Potomac, or at Wills Creek where the company is completing the first phase of channel work.

He added that after sludge and muck is removed from the coffer dam, work of excavating rock on the river bed will get underway as a preliminary process before pouring of concrete.

When the coffer dam was built last week, officials constructed a section in the dam, about 60 feet wide, with one line of steel sheeting running through the earth fill. This was done as a precaution in case of high water.

It was not long before the emergency section had to be used. As the water in the Potomac rose, workers removed the steel sheeting in the 60-foot-wide section and allowed water to flow unobstructed.

In addition, the company deepened the section to 11 to 13 feet from an original depth of six feet. This allowed a greater volume of water to flow downstream.

At the Wills Creek job, the high water washed away wooden forms for the last four per cent of the concrete work on the first phase. Officials said they did not know when the work would resume, but added it would be finished soon after water level fell enough for working conditions.

Clinics Are Planned

The Health Department will hold child hygiene clinics today at 10 a. m. in Mt. Savage and at 9:30 a. m. in Bowman's Addition. A chest clinic, by appointment, will be held today from 9 a. m. to noon in City Hall.

High School Graduates Who Took Driving Course Better Drivers, Officials Discover

Random Samplings At Two City Schools Disclose Contrast In Safety Records

High school graduates who have taken driver education while in school have better driving records in their graduate days than those who did not take such training.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer reported yesterday that random samples conducted by driver education teachers at Fort Hill and Allegany high schools proved this point.

In their samples the driver education teachers each sent questionnaires to about 100 graduates of the past few years, about half of whom had taken the safe driving course and about half of whom had had no such school training.

Alfred W. Fritz, driver education teacher at Fort Hill, disclosed that 17 per cent of those who had driver education had been involved in a minor accident which did not require police action or medical attention, whereas the percentage jumped to 36 for those without such training.

On major accidents the same two-to-one ratio prevailed. Only three per cent of the "Driver Ed" graduates had been involved in a major accident, while six per cent of those without training had had such a crash.

In the matter of police warnings and actual traffic arrests the percentages were even more decisive, Rizer reported. On police warnings, only two per cent of the driver education graduates got them, whereas 16 per cent of the untrained driving graduates were so

Bungalow Burns To Ground In Midnight Blaze

George Schoenadel Residence Destroyed

A Homewood Addition family was left homeless early this morning when their frame bungalow burned to the ground.

The George Schoenadel home on Mt. Savage Road near the Western Maryland Railway underpass was levelled by flames as firemen from two volunteer companies battled the blaze.

No one was home at the time. Schoenadel, a Times & Alleganian Company printer, was at work when the blaze broke out at about midnight, and his wife and children were visiting in Cumberland.

Neighbors called firemen from LaVale, Corriganville and Mt. Savage companies, and notified Schoenadel. No details were available early this morning, but firemen said the 1½-story house was a total loss.

Frigid Spell To Continue In Tri-State

Frigid weather invaded the Tri-State area yesterday in the path of rain and snow which have pounded the district since Monday.

The Weather Bureau said cold temperatures will continue today with lows between 10 and 15 degrees this morning. Yesterday morning thermometers dipped to six degrees in Garrett County and to 12 degrees in Allegany County at Frostburg.

State Roads Commission crews worked all night yesterday cindering roads west of here, and State Police last night said roads were still icy but well-cindered west. Roads east were clear.

Cumbe land registered a low of 17 degrees yesterday, and snow flurries buzzed the city all day. At 7:30 p. m. mercury here was an official 21 degrees and falling very slowly.

West of Cumberland, however, the story was different last night. In temperatures between 10 and 18 degrees, snow was still falling lightly. Yesterday's snow in western sections amounted to three inches, with stiff winds blowing snow last night.

Areas west recorded temperatures between 20 and 25 degrees with skies cloudy. State Police said roads east of here were clear.

At the same time, the Potomac River, which four days ago splashed over its banks at various places, yesterday was falling slowly.

Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the local office of the Geological Survey, said the Savage River Dam has been releasing water for the past two days, and that water level of the Potomac at Cumberland was being kept at a high level because of this fact.

Yesterday the dam was down to about normal and some of the water release was cut down. Beall explained that the dam is used to hold back water during high water periods to protect levels in the Potomac, while in the summer it is used to hold river water at an even level.

Although the water level does not show a sizeable increase at the Potomac, Beall said other streams which do not have the aid of the Saavge River Dam are down to near normal flows. Another cause for their immediate low levels is the fact that the recent cold weather has frozen water in the ground, thus cutting off ground runoff of water.

Local Man Fined $260 At Romney

D. Dale Welch, 28, of 722 Gephart Drive, was fined $250 for illegal transportation of liquor in West Virginia and $10 for hazardous driving by Justice of the Peace V. R. Durst in Romney.

Welch was arrested last week by Sgt. R. E. Schnell of the West Virginia State Police in Romney after authorities had received a call from the principal of one of the schools in that area that a car was speeding through the school zone.

Schnell, who stopped Welch's car about a mile north of Romney on State Route 28, said he found Welch in possession of about three gallons of whiskey. West Virginia law forbids the transportation of more than a gallon of liquor in the state without a permit.

In addition to the fines Welch's liquor and automobile were confiscated by the authorities as contraband. Police said Welch is manager of the Romney Veterans of Foreign Wars club.

Youth Arrested In Entry Into Paw Paw House

Boy, 16, Being Held At Berkeley Springs

West Virginia State Police yesterday arrested a 16-year-old Bethel Community youth on a charge of breaking and entering with possible attempt to molest a Paw Paw housewife the night of February 12.

Authorities picked up the boy at his Hampshire County home about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and said he later confessed he had broken down the door at the home of Mrs. Alden Gordon, Paw Paw, and grabbed her when she caught him peeping through a window of her home.

According to police the youth will be given a preliminary hearing today at 1 o'clock before Squire C. C. Dyche in Berkeley Springs, where he is now being held in Morgan County Jail.

Chief of Police C. R. Roby and Mayor Eldridge Kerns of Paw Paw accompanied State Police during the arrest of the youth and later helped question the boy at Berkeley Springs.

Police said the youth, tall, with a dark beard and rather heavy for his age, finally broke down and confessed he had been involved after intensive grilling.

The youth, who lives in the small church community about 13 miles southeast of Paw Paw, told police he was walking home the night of the incident about 9:30 when he saw Mrs. Gordon in her house through a lighted window.

He said he was accompanied by a smaller boy, about 9 or 10, and went to the window to look into the house. Mrs. Gordon saw him and, becoming frightened, locked the doors and called police.

The Bethel boy was quoted as saying he had suddenly become angered, kicked in the front door of the Gordon home and grabbed at Mrs. Gordon as she picked up the telephone to call for help. Escaping him, Mrs. Gordon ran out of the house with the intruder chasing her.

However, the boy continued, he heard someone approaching the house, became panicky and fled in the opposite direction. Neighbors and police who arrived at that moment gave chase but were unable to catch the youth. The smaller lad also fled the scene, but police said he would not be picked up as he had not entered the Gordon home.

The older boy is being held pending his hearing when bond will be set, police added.

Mrs. Gordon, although badly frightened by the incident, was unharmed.

Senate Defeats Allegany Judge Plan By 2 Votes

Kimble Presses Fight For Delegation Bill

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP) — A move to guarantee that Allegany County would have at least two resident circuit judges stopped in the Maryland Senate today two votes short of enactment.

Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), clashing verbally with Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington) over the measure, was able to muster only 16 votes in the long-postponed showdown.

Because the bill involved a referendum to amend the constitution, he needed 18 out of a possible 29.

Kimble had taken up the fight after the bill cleared the House of Delegates, where it was introduced by the Allegany County delegation.

Referendum Set

He noted that, under legislation adopted last year, the voters will decide this November whether each county except those on the Eastern Shore will have one judge.

Allegany has had two for half a century, he said, and deserves to keep them.

McLaughlin argued that Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish in Hagerstown "is doing 45 per cent of the work" in the circuit, which besides Allegany includes Garrett and Washington counties. The associate judges are George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris, both in Cumberland.

Mish had a falling out with his two associates recently on the appointment of a Washington County court clerk.

McLaughlin Objects

"The only two people who want this bill," said McLaughlin, are "the two judges" in Allegany.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore County), one of those who sided with McLaughlin, took the floor to ask whether "the two jurists from Allegany are registered as lobbyists."

As far as he knew, replied Kimble, they hadn't even been in Annapolis during the entire session of the Legislature.

The Allegany County bill would have let the voters decide whether the county would retain two resident judges.

If the measure had passed and the people so decided next November, and if they also approved the constitutional amendment giving Western Shore counties at least one judge each, the circuit would be composed of one judge from Garrett, two from Allegany and one from Washington County.

Tries Delaying Action

McLaughton had introduced an amendment to the new measure, proposing that Washington County be given an additional judgeship. He admitted this was merely an attempt to kill the bill by delaying action until the Legislature adjourned, and he withdrew the amendment before the showdown vote.

Besides him and Turnbull, opponents in the final vote included Sens. Bailey (R-St. Marys), Crothers (D-Cecil), Dippel (D-Balto 3rd), Goldstein (D-Calvert), Malkus (D-Dorchester), Morgan (R-Wicomico), Preston (D-Balto 5th), Redden (D-Caroline), Shehan (D-Talbot), Sybert (D-Howard), and Turnbull.

Firemen Answer Flue Fire Calls

East Side and South End firemen answered alarms yesterday and extinguished flue fires brought on by overheated homes in the face of the suddenly dropping temperatures.

South End put out a small blaze at 26 Arch Street at 10:01 a. m.

East Side extinguished a flue fire at 311 Emily Street at 3:15 p. m. Both companies were out approximately 45 minutes. No damage was reported in either instance.

This quartet of Harry Thomas, Harry Vogel, Rudy Kompanek and John Weber practice for their part in the Minstrelks of 1954 to be presented on the stage of the Maryland Theatre March 15 and 16 for the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. The quartet is one of the many acts to be seen in the extravaganza being sponsored by B.P.O. Elks Lodge 63.

Welfare Group Approves Plan On Surplus Food

Will Give Views To Commissioners

Tentative plans for the distribution of surplus dairy products among Allegany County residents evolved at a meeting of representatives of welfare agencies in the city yesterday at City Hall.

Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the County Welfare Department, said that the group recommended that each agency certify its own list of needy persons and that they be checked only by her for the elimination of duplication.

At a meeting Tuesday with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, and several representatives of the State Department of Budget and Procurement, all suggested that the private welfare agencies certify their lists which should then be verified by the Welfare Department.

Maximum Earnings Set

The conferees yesterday also established a schedule of maximum weekly earnings of families to be eligible for receipt of butter, cheese and dried milk.

A family of one or two persons would be able to earn up to $25 a week and still be eligible for some of the surplus food, the welfare representatives agreed. The figure for family earnings would increase to $55 for a family of eight or 10 persons still eligible for some of the surplus food.

Mrs. Westerfeld said the welfare agencies also raised the point as to whether some of the food might go to residents living outside of Allegany County. Specifically mentiontioned were Ridgeley and Wiley Ford, Cumberland's West Virginia neighbors; Piedmont, just across the Potomac from Westernport and Bloomington, not far from Westernport but in Garrett County.

To Inform Commissioners

Meeting with Mrs. Westerfeld yesterday were Captain Daniel K. Biggs, commanding officer of the Salvation Army; Miss Jeannette A. Bonig, executive secretary of Associated Charities, and Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the County Red Cross Chapter.

These welfare views will be presented to the County Commissioners this morning by Mrs. Westerfeld. If approved here, she then will contact the State Department of Welfare for an affirmative stand there.

News In Brief

Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, will speak to members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union of America (CIO), at a meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the union hall. She will discuss the Red Cross fund appeal, according to William Rice, president.

A film, "The Way Out," will be shown at a meeting of the Tri-State Youth for Christ, tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, North Mechanic Street.

First Congress Convened In New York 165 Years Ago

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Congress had its 165th birthday yesterday.

The first Congress of the United States was convened in Federal Hall in New York City on March 4, 1789. However, in those days of poor transportation and communication it was over a month before either the Senate or the House of Representatives could muster a quorum and get down to the business of running the brave new nation.

The United States Congressional Dictionary, available for reference at the Cumberland Free Public Library, notes that only eight Senators and 13 members of the House of Representatives showed up on that March 4 some 165 years ago. Finally, on April 6, 1789, both houses got a quorum and began to transact business.

It will be recalled that George Washington was even more delayed than the members of Congress. Although he, too, was to have been inaugurated on March 4, it was not until April 30 that he finally took the oath of office as President.

The two Senators and six members of the House of Representatives from Maryland apparently didn't think too much of the new legislative body. Not one of them died in office and the longest tenure of any of the eight was a little over eight years.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, best known of the group, was a Senator only from 1789 until 1792. He later served in the State Senate, which must have been considered a greater honor in those days. A native of Annapolis, Carroll was the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence. He died in 1832.

The other Senator from Maryland, John Henry of Dorchester County, remained in office until December 1797, when he resigned to become the tenth Governor of Maryland. Carroll was a Federalist and Henry a Democrat.

Among the six Maryland members in the original House of Representatives was Daniel Carroll of Upper Marlboro, a cousin of Senator Carroll and like him a Federalist. He served only one two-year term.

Benjamin Contee, also of Prince George's County, another of the original members of the House of Representatives, later studied for the ministry and became a priest in the Episcopal Church.

George Gale of Somerset County on the Eastern Shore was elected as a Democrat but apparently won favor from President Washington. He was appointed by the first President as supervisor of distilled spirits for the District of Maryland.

Joshua Seney of Queen Anne's County and Michael Jenifer Stone of Charles County both left Congress to become circuit judges in Maryland. William Smith, a native of Lancaster County, Pa., who later moved to Baltimore, became the first auditor of the U. S. Treasury when he left the Congress.

Congressmen continued to start a new Congress on March 4 of each odd year until the so-called Lame Duck Amendment, the 20th Amendment, was adopted in 1933. Since then each new Congress has assumed office on January 3 of each odd year. The current Congress is the 83d.

Among the men who served in that First Congress were two Virginians who later became Presidents of the United States. James Monroe was in the Senate and James Madison in the House of Representatives.

Mt. Savage Woman Conducts Workshop

Mrs. Edward Farrell of Mt. Savage, night school teacher in clothing construction, will conduct a two-day workshop for Frederick County home economics teachers at Frederick High School today and tomorrow.

Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics in the Allegany County public schools, said that plans for the workshop were completed by Miss Elizabeth S. Amery, one of the state supervisors of home economics.

This weekend's workshop is a continuation of a similar program conducted by Mrs. Farrell in Frederick January 29 and 30.

Street Cleaning Ordinance To Be Discussed Today

One of the two subjects to be discussed at an executive session of the Mayor and Council today at 4 p. m. in City Hall is the problem of keeping streets in the downtown area clean.

The other will be the present and future of the Smoke Abatement Department.

Citing that the parking of motor vehicles during the night makes the task of keeping streets almost impossible, the Street Department has proposed an ordinance restricting parking on specified nights.

The ordinance, which would become effective on April 1 if adopted, would provide there would be no parking in listed areas between 1 to 7 a. m. on:

Schedule Proposed

Mondays—on the east side of North and South Mechanic Streets, North and South Liberty Streets, North and South Centre Streets and North and South George Streets.

Tuesdays—on the north side of Market, Bedford, Frederick, Baltimore, Union, Salem and Williams Streets.

Wednesdays—on the west side of Mechanic, Liberty, Centre and George Streets.

Fridays—on the south side of Market, Bedford, Frederick, Baltimore, Union, Salem and Williams Streets.

The ordinance would empower the street superintendent or his employes to tow, or cause to be towed away, unattended vehicles parked in areas during times set aside for street cleaning.

Asks Public Support

Penalties of from $5 to $25 are provided for violations of the ordinance.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, insists the department must have cooperation if it is to succeed in keeping the streets clean.

The city's one street sweeper is being kept on duty for 16 hours a day, and at times around the clock, but cannot do an effective job, officials insist, when it has to zigzag through the streets to avoid parked cars.

Copies of the above ordinance have been supplied to city officials, and is scheduled to be discussed thoroughly today.

Local 1874 Units Begin Elections

Department elections are getting under way at the Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), hall this week.

Engineering Department workers will meet today at 8 p. m. to nominate a chairman, vice chairman, sub-chairmen and a recording secretary, according to Harry Carns, chairman.

Service Department workers will meet today at 7:30 p. m. and tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. to nominate a chairman, vice chairman and committeemen, according to Floyd Grady, chairman.

The Preparation Department and its subdivisions will nominate officers and committeemen at meetings March 12 at 7:30 p. m. and March 13 at 10:30 a. m., according to Thomas Powers, chairman.

Plan Bake Sale

The Sodality of St. Patrick's Church of Mt. Savage will sponsor a bake sale in the school house Saturday. The chairman of the committee is Mrs. Robert Freno.

State Assembly Passes Bill To Give Vets Bonus

Measure May Not Be Constitutional

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—The last piece of legislation enacted today by the Maryland General Assembly was a war veterans' bonus bill that all knew was legally questionable.

The Senate in a rather surprising finish enacted by a 15-13 vote the first bonus legislation in Maryland. The House ended the 30-day session half an hour earlier in unexpected silence on the bonus question which had been a ticklish proposition throughout the last day.

Each side passed a bonus bill with different methods of financing the estimated 100-million-dollar debt. The House bill finally acted upon by the Senate, which would raise the retail sales tax, was in constitutional jeopardy.

May Be Invalid

The attorney general's office informally opined it was invalid because it had been brought out of committee prematurely ahead of the budget on Monday night. It was recalled and sent again through the mill after the budget. But the legal opinion is that it was dead the first time.

The House sponsors were aware of this and reintroduced it this afternoon. But after one unsuccessful attempt, they let it die in the Rules Committee. There was no effort at all in the House to move the Senate bill.

The first question on validity of the bill will be answered when Gov. McKeldin asks the attorney general for an official opinion. He said he will not sign it if the ruling is adverse, but declined comment on what he would do if it is considered constitutional.

The constitutionality might also be subject to a court test. If valid and signed by the governor, it would be up to the voters next November to finally say whether they wanted to pay the bonus.

$400 Bonus Maximum

Maryland residents who served in the two World Wars and in Korea from June 25, 1950 to Dec. 1, 1953 would be eligible to receive $15 a month for overseas duty up to a maximum of $400, $10 a month for stateside service up to $200. The most any one veteran could collect would be $400.

Sponsors estimated it would take 15 years of higher sales taxes to raise the bonus money. The tax would go from two to three cents on sales between 51 cents and a dollar, and from one to two cents on each 50 cents over a dollar.

Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset), sponsor of the bonus bill ignored by the House, carried the ball on the House bonus measure in his chamber.

In a last-ditch stand for some form of legislation rewarding former servicemen, he admitted he did not approve of the House bill's method of financing a bonus.

"It's quite a pill to swallow when you have to vote for a sales tax," he said with a shake of the head. "That sales tax is a bad tax."

Orderly Windup

But he said he had to go along with it because he refused to bow to liquor interests and modify his own bill, which would have financed the bonus by boosting alcoholic beverage taxes.

Nine Democrats and five fellow Republicans joined Phoebus in ramming the measure through. Eight Democrats and five Republicans voted against.

The windup was the most orderly by a Maryland General Assembly in many years. The Senate had only four bills to work on and the House seven. A couple of hours finished everything.

The Senate defeated two of its last subjects, proposed constitutional amendments that would have guaranteed two circuit judges for Allegany County and prohibit diversion of motor vehicle funds from roads.

Police Will Help Get All Eligibles On Voting Books

The Cumberland Police Department will cooperate with the Board of Election Supervisors of Allegany County in a campaign urging all eligible persons to register for the coming elections, according to Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

Commissioner Long will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. with William A. Wilson, president of the election board, on plans for the drive.

Wilson has suggested that the Police Department aid in the project by helping place signs in prominent places throughout the city.

Commissioner Long said the Police Department, at the request of the County Commissioners, has placed signs calling for 15-minute parking on the south side of Washington Street. The restrictions were asked by the commissioners to aid those who stopped at the Court House to get license tags.

Two German Teachers Who Will Spend Three Weeks Here Will Arrive Tuesday

Allegany County public school administrators are completing arrangements for the arrival here next week of two German teachers who are spending a considerable time in the United States studying education methods here.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the two teachers, Miss Kaete Elise Lorenzen and Miss Freia Wunderlich, will be met at the State Department of Education headquarters in Baltimore next Tuesday. They will be transported here and remain in Cumberland and Allegany County until April 1.

Miss Lorenzen, who is a 35-year-old specialist in secondary education, will spend her time at Allegany High School. Miss Wunderlich, a 25-year-old elementary education teacher, will be assigned to West Side School.

Both German teachers have been in this country since last September 16 in the education exchange program of the Education Exchange Service of the International Information Administration of the U. S. Department of State. Under this program the United States exchanges teachers with some 60 nations who study, teach, lecture, do research and conduct other educational activities here.

Miss Lorenzen has been at the University of Kentucky in Lexington from October 1 until February 1. The other teacher from Germany has been on the Pacific coast at Washington State College in Pullman during the same four months.

Information submitted to Webster by the Office of Education of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare shows that both of the visitors from Europe have good knowledge of English.

The older teacher received her doctor of philosophy degree in 194? from the University of Strasburg. Her present teaching job is as instructor in German, English and sports at Staatliches Gymnasium at Kiel. Her special interests include music, traveling, history of art, sports, school activities, civics and modern American literature.

Miss Wunderlich, who has been an elementary teacher for the lower grades in Offenburg since 1949, also has many special interests. The elementary teacher's interests range from organization of schools to factory workers, life of American people, American school system and methods of teaching, student self-government, child psychology, extracurricular activities for youth and music.

George Company Offers Low Bid On School Jobs

Carver, Oldtown Additions Planned

Low bids totaling $448,661 were submitted yesterday afternoon by the George Construction Company, this city, for construction of additions to Oldtown and Carver schools.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster observed that the low figures were not much above what he expected to pay. A final decision on acceptance of the bids probably will be made when the Allegany County Board of Education meets Tuesday, March 16.

Combination Same

The George firm submitted a bid of $248,031 on the Oldtown job and $200,630 on the Carver project. The low bidder sliced not a cent off the two prices in its combination bid which still was $9,774 less than the second price.

George F. Hazelwood Company submitted a bid of $210,377 on the Carver job and $252,558 at Oldtown but reduced its combination bid $4,500 to $458,435. The John I. Vandegrift Company, the third bidder, offered a $211,300 price at Carver and $273,200 at Oldtown, slicing the combination $1,500 to $483.000.

When Webster offered cost figures to the County Delegation last year on the county's proposed $3,500,000 school construction program, he estimated that the two jobs would cost a total of $460,000. With architect's fees and furniture and equipment costs that amount probably will be slightly exceeded. One odd note on those estimates is that the superintendent had figured the Carver cost at $250,000 and the Oldtown job at $210,000 whereas the actual prices were reversed.

Architect Present

Present at yesterday's bid opening was Dennis W. Madden of the Mt. Ranier architectural firm of Walton and Madden which devised plans for the two jobs.

The Oldtown project includes conversion of the present auditorium to a cafeteria with kitchen, construction of four new classrooms, two on each floor, a new combination auditorium - gymnasium with stage and dressing room and new shop rooms.

At Carver, the auditorium will be transformed into a home economics room, the old house in which the shop and home economics classes now function will be demolished, a new shop and new comibnation auditorium - gymnasium with stage and dressing room will be constructed. They will be built on the southwest corner of the building, between the existing school and the housing project.

Webster also told the bidders yesterday that bids will be requested in about 10 days to two weeks on the proposed new LaVale Elementary School.

House Cleaning Work Begins At Industrial Dam

Workers of the A. J. Albrecht Company, at the industrial dam project across the Potomac River yesterday began "house-cleaning" the coffer dam of muck and sludge piled up by the recent high waters.

The coffer dam was completed last week to hold back water during construction of the second half of the spillway on the West Virginia side of the river.

Workers yesterday began pumping water from the circular structure. Today, officials said, they will begin removing the mud with a two-and-a-half cubic yard bucket attached to a crane. Although the high water set work on the dam back about a week, it did not do any extensive damage.

A company spokesman said no equipment was lost or damaged by the sudden rush of high water in the Potomac, or at Wills Creek where the company is completing the first phase of channel work.

He added that after sludge and muck is removed from the coffer dam, work of excavating rock on the river bed will get underway as a preliminary process before pouring of concrete.

When the coffer dam was built last week, officials constructed a section in the dam, about 60 feet wide, with one line of steel sheeting running through the earth fill. This was done as a precaution in case of high water.

It was not long before the emergency section had to be used. As the water in the Potomac rose, workers removed the steel sheeting in the 60-foot-wide section and allowed water to flow unobstructed.

In addition, the company deepened the section to 11 to 13 feet from an original depth of six feet. This allowed a greater volume of water to flow downstream.

At the Wills Creek job, the high water washed away wooden forms for the last four per cent of the concrete work on the first phase. Officials said they did not know when the work would resume, but added it would be finished soon after water level fell enough for working conditions.

Clinics Are Planned

The Health Department will hold child hygiene clinics today at 10 a. m. in Mt. Savage and at 9:30 a. m. in Bowman's Addition. A chest clinic, by appointment, will be held today from 9 a. m. to noon in City Hall.

High School Graduates Who Took Driving Course Better Drivers, Officials Discover

Random Samplings At Two City Schools Disclose Contrast In Safety Records

High school graduates who have taken driver education while in school have better driving records in their graduate days than those who did not take such training.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer reported yesterday that random samples conducted by driver education teachers at Fort Hill and Allegany high schools proved this point.

In their samples the driver education teachers each sent questionnaires to about 100 graduates of the past few years, about half of whom had taken the safe driving course and about half of whom had had no such school training.

Alfred W. Fritz, driver education teacher at Fort Hill, disclosed that 17 per cent of those who had driver education had been involved in a minor accident which did not require police action or medical attention, whereas the percentage jumped to 36 for those without such training.

On major accidents the same two-to-one ratio prevailed. Only three per cent of the "Driver Ed" graduates had been involved in a major accident, while six per cent of those without training had had such a crash.

In the matter of police warnings and actual traffic arrests the percentages were even more decisive, Rizer reported. On police warnings, only two per cent of the driver education graduates got them, whereas 16 per cent of the untrained driving graduates were so

George Schoenadel Residence Destroyed

A Homewood Addition family was left homeless early this morning when their frame bungalow burned to the ground.

The George Schoenadel home on Mt. Savage Road near the Western Maryland Railway underpass was levelled by flames as firemen from two volunteer companies battled the blaze.

No one was home at the time. Schoenadel, a Times & Alleganian Company printer, was at work when the blaze broke out at about midnight, and his wife and children were visiting in Cumberland.

Neighbors called firemen from LaVale, Corriganville and Mt. Savage companies, and notified Schoenadel. No details were available early this morning, but firemen said the 1½-story house was a total loss.

Frigid Spell To Continue In Tri-State

Frigid weather invaded the Tri-State area yesterday in the path of rain and snow which have pounded the district since Monday.

The Weather Bureau said cold temperatures will continue today with lows between 10 and 15 degrees this morning. Yesterday morning thermometers dipped to six degrees in Garrett County and to 12 degrees in Allegany County at Frostburg.

State Roads Commission crews worked all night yesterday cindering roads west of here, and State Police last night said roads were still icy but well-cindered west. Roads east were clear.

Cumbe land registered a low of 17 degrees yesterday, and snow flurries buzzed the city all day. At 7:30 p. m. mercury here was an official 21 degrees and falling very slowly.

West of Cumberland, however, the story was different last night. In temperatures between 10 and 18 degrees, snow was still falling lightly. Yesterday's snow in western sections amounted to three inches, with stiff winds blowing snow last night.

Areas west recorded temperatures between 20 and 25 degrees with skies cloudy. State Police said roads east of here were clear.

At the same time, the Potomac River, which four days ago splashed over its banks at various places, yesterday was falling slowly.

Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the local office of the Geological Survey, said the Savage River Dam has been releasing water for the past two days, and that water level of the Potomac at Cumberland was being kept at a high level because of this fact.

Yesterday the dam was down to about normal and some of the water release was cut down. Beall explained that the dam is used to hold back water during high water periods to protect levels in the Potomac, while in the summer it is used to hold river water at an even level.

Although the water level does not show a sizeable increase at the Potomac, Beall said other streams which do not have the aid of the Saavge River Dam are down to near normal flows. Another cause for their immediate low levels is the fact that the recent cold weather has frozen water in the ground, thus cutting off ground runoff of water.

Local Man Fined $260 At Romney

D. Dale Welch, 28, of 722 Gephart Drive, was fined $250 for illegal transportation of liquor in West Virginia and $10 for hazardous driving by Justice of the Peace V. R. Durst in Romney.

Welch was arrested last week by Sgt. R. E. Schnell of the West Virginia State Police in Romney after authorities had received a call from the principal of one of the schools in that area that a car was speeding through the school zone.

Schnell, who stopped Welch's car about a mile north of Romney on State Route 28, said he found Welch in possession of about three gallons of whiskey. West Virginia law forbids the transportation of more than a gallon of liquor in the state without a permit.

In addition to the fines Welch's liquor and automobile were confiscated by the authorities as contraband. Police said Welch is manager of the Romney Veterans of Foreign Wars club.

Youth Arrested In Entry Into Paw Paw House

Boy, 16, Being Held At Berkeley Springs

West Virginia State Police yesterday arrested a 16 - year - old Bethel Community youth on a charge of breaking and entering with possible attempt to molest a Paw Paw housewife the night of February 12.

Authorities picked up the boy at his Hampshire County home about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and said he later confessed he had broken down the door at the home of Mrs. Alden Gordon, Paw Paw, and grabbed her when she caught him peeping through a window of her home.

According to police the youth will be given a preliminary hearing today at 1 o'clock before Squire C. C. Dyche in Berkeley Springs, where he is now being held in Morgan County Jail.

Chief of Police C. R. Roby and Mayor Eldridge Kerns of Paw Paw accompanied State Police during the arrest of the youth and later helped question the boy at Berkeley Springs.

Police said the youth, tall, with a dark beard and rather heavy for his age, finally broke down and confessed he had been involved after intensive grilling.

The youth, who lives in the small church community about 13 miles southeast of Paw Paw, told police he was walking home the night of the incident about 9:30 when he saw Mrs. Gordon in her house through a lighted window.

He said he was accompanied by a smaller boy, about 9 or 10, and went to the window to look into the house. Mrs. Gordon saw him and, becoming frightened, locked the doors and called police.

The Bethel boy was quoted as saying he had suddenly become angered, kicked in the front door of the Gordon home and grabbed at Mrs. Gordon as she picked up the telephone to call for help. Escaping him, Mrs. Gordon ran out of the house with the intruder chasing her.

However, the boy continued, he heard someone approaching the house, became panicky and fled in the opposite direction. Neighbors and police who arrived at that moment gave chase but were unable to catch the youth. The smaller lad also fled the scene, but police said he would not be picked up as he had not entered the Gordon home.

The older boy is being held pending his hearing when bond will be set, police added.

Mrs. Gordon, although badly frightened by the incident, was unharmed.

Senate Defeats Allegany Judge Plan By 2 Votes

Kimble Presses Fight For Delegation Bill

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP) — A move to guarantee that Allegany County would have at least two resident circuit judges stopped in the Maryland Senate today two votes short of enactment.

Minority Leader Kimble (R-Allegany), clashing verbally with Sen. McLaughlin (R-Washington) over the measure, was able to muster only 16 votes in the long-postponed showdown.

Because the bill involved a referendum to amend the constitution, he needed 18 out of a possible 29.

Kimble had taken up the fight after the bill cleared the House of Delegates, where it was introduced by the Allegany County delegation.

Referendum Set

He noted that, under legislation adopted last year, the voters will decide this November whether each county except those on the Eastern Shore will have one judge.

Allegany has had two for half a century, he said, and deserves to keep them.

McLaughlin argued that Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish in Hagerstown "is doing 45 per cent of the work" in the circuit, which besides Allegany includes Garrett and Washington counties. The associate judges are George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris, both in Cumberland.

Mish had a falling out with his two associates recently on the appointment of a Washington County court clerk.

McLaughlin Objects

"The only two people who want this bill," said McLaughlin, are "the two judges" in Allegany.

Sen. Turnbull (D - Baltimore County), one of those who sided with McLaughlin, took the floor to ask whether "the two jurists from Allegany are registered as lobbyists."

As far as he knew, replied Kimble, they hadn't even been in Annapolis during the entire session of the Legislature.

The Allegany County bill would have let the voters decide whether the county would retain two resident judges.

If the measure had passed and the people so decided next November, and if they also approved the constitutional amendment giving Western Shore counties at least one judge each, the circuit would be composed of one judge from Garrett, two from Allegany and one from Washington County.

Tries Delaying Action

McLaughton had introduced an amendment to the new measure, proposing that Washington County be given an additional judgeship. He admitted this was merely an attempt to kill the bill by delaying action until the Legislature adjourned, and he withdrew the amendment before the showdown vote.

Besides him and Turnbull, opponents in the final vote included Sens. Bailey (R-St. Marys), Crothers (D-Cecil), Dippel (D-Balto 3rd), Goldstein (D-Calvert), Malkus (D-Dorchester), Morgan (R-Wicomico), Preston (D-Balto 5th), Redden (D-Caroline), Shehan (D-Talbot), Sybert (D-Howard), and Turnbull.

Firemen Answer Flue Fire Calls

East Side and South End firemen answered alarms yesterday and extinguished flue fires brought on by overheated homes in the face of the suddenly dropping temperatures.

South End put out a small blaze at 26 Arch Street at 10:01 a. m.

East Side extinguished a flue fire at 311 Emily Street at 3:15 p. m. Both companies were out approximately 45 minutes. No damage was reported in either instance.

Minstrelks Quartet

This quartet of Harry Thomas, Harry Vogel, Rudy Kompanek and John Weber practice for their part in the Minstrelks of 1954 to be presented on the stage of the Maryland Theatre March 15 and 16 for the benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. The quartet is one of the many acts to be seen in the extravaganza being sponsored by B.P.O. Elks Lodge 63.

Welfare Group Approves Plan On Surplus Food

Will Give Views To Commissioners

Tentative plans for the distribution of surplus dairy products among Allegany County residents evolved at a meeting of representatives of welfare agencies in the city yesterday at City Hall.

Mrs. Elinor M. Westerfeld, director of the County Welfare Department, said that the group recommended that each agency certify its own list of needy persons and that they be checked only by her for the elimination of duplication.

At a meeting Tuesday with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, and several representatives of the State Department of Budget and Procurement, all suggested that the private welfare agencies certify their lists which should then be verified by the Welfare Department.

Maximum Earnings Set

The conferees yesterday also established a schedule of maximum weekly earnings of families to be eligible for receipt of butter, cheese and dried milk.

A family of one or two persons would be able to earn up to $25 a week and still be eligible for some of the surplus food, the welfare representatives agreed. The figure for family earnings would increase to $55 for a family of eight or 10 persons still eligible for some of the surplus food.

Mrs. Westerfeld said the welfare agencies also raised the point as to whether some of the food might go to residents living outside of Allegany County. Specifically mentioned were Ridgeley and Wiley Ford, Cumberland's West Virginia neighbors; Piedmont, just across the Potomac from Westernport and Bloomington, not far from Westernport but in Garrett County.

To Inform Commissioners

Meeting with Mrs. Westerfeld yesterday were Captain Daniel K. Biggs, commanding officer of the Salvation Army; Miss Jeannette A. Bonig, executive secretary of Associated Charities, and Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the County Red Cross Chapter.

These welfare views will be presented to the County Commissioners this morning by Mrs. Westerfeld. If approved here, she then will contact the State Department of Welfare for an affirmative stand there.

News In Brief

Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, will speak to members of Local 26, United Rubber Workers Union of America (CIO), at a meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. at the union hall. She will discuss the Red Cross fund appeal, according to William Rice, president.

A film, "The Way Out," will be shown at a meeting of the Tri-State Youth for Christ, tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, North Mechanic Street.

First Congress Convened In New York 165 Years Ago

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Congress had its 165th birthday yesterday.

The first Congress of the United States was convened in Federal Hall in New York City on March 4, 1789. However, in those days of poor transportation and communication it was over a month before either the Senate or the House of Representatives could muster a quorum and get down to the business of running the brave new nation.

The United States Congressional Dictionary, available for reference at the Cumberland Free Public Library, notes that only eight Senators and 13 members of the House of Representatives showed up on that March 4 some 165 years ago. Finally, on April 6, 1789, both houses got a quorum and began to transact business.

It will be recalled that George Washington was even more delayed than the members of Congress. Although he, too, was to have been inaugurated on March 4, it was not until April 30 that he finally took the oath of office as President.

The two Senators and six members of the House of Representatives from Maryland apparently didn't think too much of the new legislative body. Not one of them died in office and the longest tenure of any of the eight was a little over eight years.

Charles Carroll of Carrollton, best known of the group, was a Senator only from 1789 until 1792. He later served in the State Senate, which must have been considered a greater honor in those days. A native of Annapolis, Carroll was the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence. He died in 1832.

The other Senator from Maryland, John Henry of Dorchester County, remained in office until December 1797, when he resigned to become the tenth Governor of Maryland. Carroll was a Federalist and Henry a Democrat.

Among the six Maryland members in the original House of Representatives was Daniel Carroll of Upper Marlboro, a cousin of Senator Carroll and like him a Federalist. He served only one two-year term.

Benjamin Contee, also of Prince George's County, another of the original members of the House of Representatives, later studied for the ministry and became a priest in the Episcopal Church.

George Gale of Somerset County on the Eastern Shore was elected as a Democrat but apparently won favor from President Washington. He was appointed by the first President as supervisor of distilled spirits for the District of Maryland.

Joshua Seney of Queen Anne's County and Michael Jenifer Stone of Charles County both left Congress to become circuit judges in Maryland. William Smith, a native of Lancaster County, Pa., who later moved to Baltimore, became the first auditor of the U. S. Treasury when he left the Congress.

Congressmen continued to start a new Congress on March 4 of each odd year until the so-called Lame Duck Amendment, the 20th Amendment, was adopted in 1933. Since then each new Congress has assumed office on January 3 of each odd year. The current Congress is the 83d.

Among the men who served in that First Congress were two Virginians who later became Presidents of the United States. James Monroe was in the Senate and James Madison in the House of Representatives.

Mt. Savage Woman Conducts Workshop

Mrs. Edward Farrell of Mt. Savage, night school teacher in clothing construction, will conduct a two-day workshop for Frederick County home economics teachers at Frederick High School today and tomorrow.

Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics in the Allegany County public schools, said that plans for the workshop were completed by Miss Elizabeth S. Amery, one of the state supervisors of home economics.

This weekend's workshop is a continuation of a similar program conducted by Mrs. Farrell in Frederick January 29 and 30.

Street Cleaning Ordinance To Be Discussed Today

One of the two subjects to be discussed at an executive session of the Mayor and Council today at 4 p. m. in City Hall is the problem of keeping streets in the downtown area clean.

The other will be the present and future of the Smoke Abatement Department.

Citing that the parking of motor vehicles during the night makes the task of keeping streets almost impossible, the Street Department has proposed an ordinance restricting parking on specified nights.

The ordinance, which would become effective on April 1 if adopted, would provide there would be no parking in listed areas between 1 to 7 a. m. on:

Schedule Proposed

Mondays—on the east side of North and South Mechanic Streets, North and South Liberty Streets, North and South Centre Streets and North and South George Streets.

Tuesdays—on the north side of Market, Bedford, Frederick, Baltimore, Union, Salem and Williams Streets.

Wednesdays—on the west side of Mechanic, Liberty, Centre and George Streets.

Fridays—on the south side of Market, Bedford, Frederick, Baltimore, Union, Salem and Williams Streets.

The ordinance would empower the street superintendent or his employes to tow, or cause to be towed away, unattended vehicles parked in areas during times set aside for street cleaning.

Asks Public Support

Penalties of from $5 to $25 are provided for violations of the ordinance.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, insists the department must have cooperation if it is to succeed in keeping the streets clean.

The city's one street sweeper is being kept on duty for 16 hours a day, and at times around the clock, but cannot do an effective job, officials insist, when it has to zigzag through the streets to avoid parked cars.

Copies of the above ordinance have been supplied to city officials, and is scheduled to be discussed thoroughly today.

Local 1874 Units Begin Elections

Department elections are getting under way at the Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), hall this week.

Engineering Department workers will meet today at 8 p. m. to nominate a chairman, vice chairman, sub-chairmen and a recording secretary, according to Harry Carns, chairman.

Service Department workers will meet today at 7:30 p. m. and tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. to nominate a chairman, vice chairman and committeemen, according to Floyd Grady, chairman.

The Preparation Department and its subdivisions will nominate officers and committeemen at meetings March 12 at 7:30 p. m. and March 13 at 10:30 a. m., according to Thomas Powers, chairman.

Plan Bake Sale

The Sodality of St. Patrick's Church of Mt. Savage will sponsor a bake sale in the school house Saturday. The chairman of the committee is Mrs. Robert Freno.

State Assembly Passes Bill To Give Vets Bonus

Measure May Not Be Constitutional

ANNAPOLIS, March 4 (AP)—The last piece of legislation enacted today by the Maryland General Assembly was a war veterans' bonus bill that all knew was legally questionable.

The Senate in a rather surprising finish enacted by a 15-13 vote the first bonus legislation in Maryland. The House ended the 30-day session half an hour earlier in unexpected silence on the bonus question which had been a ticklish proposition throughout the last day.

Each side passed a bonus bill with different methods of financing the estimated 100 - million - dollar debt. The House bill finally acted upon by the Senate, which would raise the retail sales tax, was in constitutional jeopardy.

May Be Invalid

The attorney general's office informally opined it was invalid because it had been brought out of committee prematurely ahead of the budget on Monday night. It was recalled and sent again through the mill after the budget. But the legal opinion is that it was dead the first time.

The House sponsors were aware of this and reintroduced it this afternoon. But after one unsuccessful attempt, they let it die in the Rules Committee. There was no effort at all in the House to move the Senate bill.

The first question on validity of the bill will be answered when Gov. McKeldin asks the attorney general for an official opinion. He said he will not sign it if the ruling is adverse, but declined comment on what he would do if it is considered constitutional.

The constitutionality might also be subject to a court test. If valid and signed by the governor, it would be up to the voters next November to finally say whether they wanted to pay the bonus.

$400 Bonus Maximum

Maryland residents who served in the two World Wars and in Korea from June 25, 1950 to Dec. 1, 1953 would be eligible to receive $15 a month for overseas duty up to a maximum of $400, $10 a month for stateside service up to $200. The most any one veteran could collect would be $400.

Sponsors estimated it would take 15 years of higher sales taxes to raise the bonus money. The tax would go from two to three cents on sales between 51 cents and a dollar, and from one to two cents on each 50 cents over a dollar.

Sen. Phoebus (R-Somerset), sponsor of the bonus bill ignored by the House, carried the ball on the House bonus measure in his chamber.

In a last-ditch stand for some form of legislation rewarding former servicemen, he admitted he did not approve of the House bill's method of financing a bonus.

"It's quite a pill to swallow when you have to vote for a sales tax," he said with a shake of the head. "That sales tax is a bad tax."

Orderly Windup

But he said he had to go along with it because he refused to bow to liquor interests and modify his own bill, which would have financed the bonus by boosting alcoholic beverage taxes.

Nine Democrats and five fellow Republicans joined Phoebus in ramming the measure through. Eight Democrats and five Republicans voted against.

The windup was the most orderly by a Maryland General Assembly in many years. The Senate had only four bills to work on and the House seven. A couple of hours finished everything.

The Senate defeated two of its last subjects, proposed constitutional amendments that would have guaranteed two circuit judges for Allegany County and prohibit diversion of motor vehicle funds from roads.

Police Will Help Get All Eligibles On Voting Books

The Cumberland Police Department will cooperate with the Board of Election Supervisors of Allegany County in a campaign urging all eligible persons to register for the coming elections, according to Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long.

Commissioner Long will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. with William A. Wilson, president of the election board, on plans for the drive.

Wilson has suggested that the Police Department aid in the project by helping place signs in prominent places throughout the city.

Commissioner Long said the Police Department, at the request of the County Commissioners, has placed signs calling for 15-minute parking on the south side of Washington Street. The restrictions were asked by the commissioners to aid those who stopped at the Court House to get license tags.

Two German Teachers Who Will Spend Three Weeks Here Will Arrive Tuesday

Allegany County public school administrators are completing arrangements for the arrival here next week of two German teachers who are spending a considerable time in the United States studying education methods here.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the two teachers, Miss Kaete Elise Lorenzen and Miss Freia Wunderlich, will be met at the State Department of Education headquarters in Baltimore next Tuesday. They will be transported here and remain in Cumberland and Allegany County until April 1.

Miss Lorenzen, who is a 35-year-old specialist in secondary education, will spend her time at Allegany High School. Miss Wunderlich, a 25-year-old elementary education teacher, will be assigned to West Side School.

Both German teachers have been in this country since last September 16 in the education exchange program of the Education Exchange Service of the International Information Administration of the U. S. Department of State. Under this program the United States exchanges teachers with some 60 nations who study, teach, lecture, do research and conduct other educational activities here.

Miss Lorenzen has been at the University of Kentucky in Lexington from October 1 until February 1. The other teacher from Germany has been on the Pacific coast at Washington State College in Pullman during the same four months.

Information submitted to Webster by the Office of Education of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare shows that both of the visitors from Europe have good knowledge of English.

The older teacher received her doctor of philosophy degree in 1947 from the University of Strasburg. Her present teaching job is as instructor in German, English and sports at Staatliches Gymnasium at Kiel. Her special interests include music, traveling, history of art, sports, school activities, civics and modern American literature.

Miss Wunderlich, who has been an elementary teacher for the lower grades in Offenburg since 1949, also has many special interests. The elementary teacher's interests range from organization of schools to factory workers, life of American people, American school system and methods of teaching, student self-government, child psychology, extracurricular activities for youth and music.
